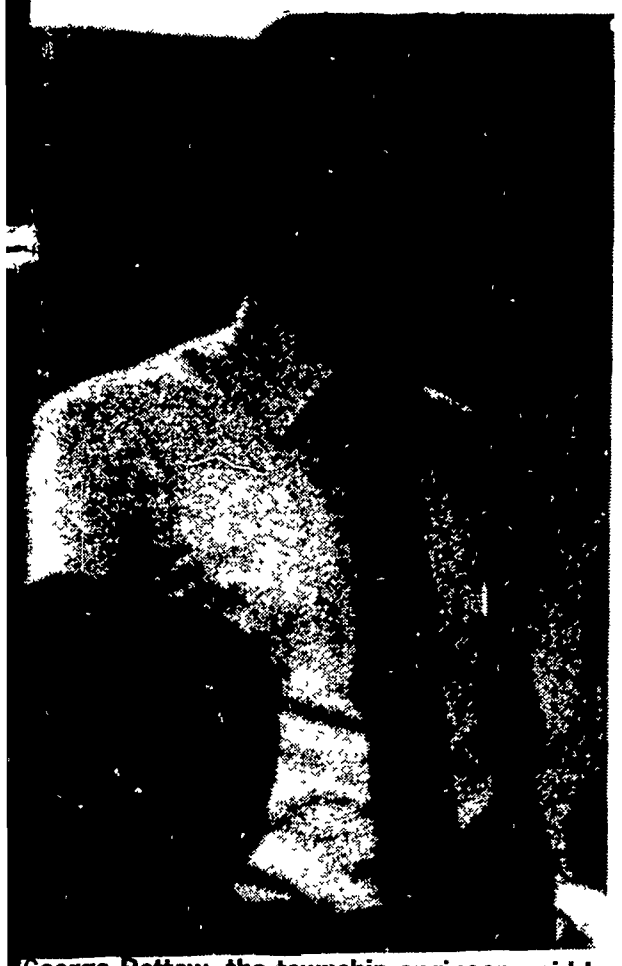
Lancaster Farming

Vol. 25 No. 44 45 — Lancaster Farming, Saturday, September 6, 1980 — $7.50 Per Year



George Rettew, the township engineer, said he the township officials were being unjustly iticized for their intent in making the proposed oning changes now.

Farmers and ag reps jam Pequea zoning meeting

BY PAT KAUFFMAN

WILLOW STREET — Nearly 100 farmers and residents of Pequea Township (Lancaster County) packed the Township Building Thursday evening to protest the proposed zoning changes at the first Pequea Planning Commission hearing on the proposals.

Township Solicitor, Charles B. Grove Jr., opened the discussion with an admission that "several statements should never have gotten in there to start with."

With a standing room only crowd, and some resourceful farmers toting their own lawn chairs, the proposed changes were reviewed briefly item by item with the flood plain proposals and all others not pertaining to agriculture receiving little comment. The agricultural proposals, however, were hotly debated.

Amos H. Funk, chairman of the county ag preservation board said, "You put everything in the ag district that you didn't have any other use for." Funk was referring to permitted uses in the agricultural district which include campgrounds, mobile home parks, airports and many others, and he also was referring to the land which was designated in the proposal as an ag district.

Attorney for the farmers present was James H. Thomas who said, "Our point is quite simple. We ask that you defer action on this zoning ordinance." Thomas said that the law requires that zoning regulations be formulated in accordance with a comprehensive plan and that Pequea Township's comprehensive plan is badly outdated.

Thomas said that the planning commission must grapple with the problems of establishing ag districts and maintaining them. He said it appeared that the township had taken all the leftover land and colored it green (for the ag district). He said that the proposals may preserve farmland but get rid of agriculture in the township.

Thomas noted areas in the proposals where the wording simply went too far and changes could be made simply by deleting the offensive verbage, but he left no doubt that he and the farmers present are in favor

Losses top $30 million

BY VIVIAN PAUL
Staff Correspondent

ATH — Crop losses due evere drought in Lehigh Northampton counties e estimated at $31.3 ion by farmers and ernment officials ting last week and both nties have been termed aster areas" by county S emergency boards.

tate confirmation of the disaster status in Northampton County is expected within the week. It has already been given for Lehigh County.

The action will allow farmers to apply for low-interest loans from Farmers Home Administration and emergency feed and low yield programs at ASCS.

Losses in Lehigh County have been estimated at $15 million and in Northampton at $16.3 million. In Northampton worst hit was the potato crop recording an 85 percent loss with a value of $1,713,600. The largest dollar loss was corn. Officials esimate $10,034,280 will be lost on 48,900 acres. Eighty percent of the soybean crop and 60 per cent of the alfalfa and hay crops have also been lost.

The drought has been called the worst in at least 15 years. Rainfall since April is 6 to 7 inches below normal. August precipitation was the lowest since 1916.

The emergency board estimated more than 200 farmers will apply for FmHA loans totaling $4 million and another $1.5 million will be paid through ASCS.

"Most farmers will hold off," said Michael Angerson of FmHA "They don't want

"AJK", the 160 pound Holstein calf, towers over her barn buddy who was born about the same time. Park Myers, salesman for Melvin Kolb, Lancaster, says he believes this is a record calf for the area — perhaps the U.S.

Labor Day calf tips scales at 160 lbs.

BY SHEILA MILLER

LANCASTER — Labor Day lived up to its name for a Holstein cow named Rowe-Spring Jenny Lou. The good plus daughter of Seiling Rockman gave birth early that holiday morning to a calf that tipped the scales at 160 pounds.

Giving birth to a calf that size was no piece of cake for the four-year-old cow. According to Park Myers, salesman for the cow's owner Melvin Kolb, he had to pull the calf.

"When I reached up inside of her, I knew she was going to need some help. With the size of that calf's feet, I just knew it was going to be an enormous bull calf."

Through the whole ordeal, 'Jenny Lou' managed to stay on her feet, Myers boasted. "She didn't pinch a nerve or go down afterwards, either," he added. He noted most cows have problems with calves weighing in the 100 pound range.

To everyone's surprise, 'Jenny Lou' gave birth to a healthy heifer calf. Her proud papa is Atlantic Breeders Cooperative's Proud Performer.

The calf, who was just a bit shaky on her legs (veterinarians said her muscles weren't quite strong enough to support all that weight at first), was named after Melvin Kolb's wife Alma Jean Kolb — her birthday was celebrated on Monday, also. Myers was quick to point out that Alma, however, never weighed 160 pounds in her life.

AJK became an overnight celebrity, blinking her soft bovine eyes at the bright television camera lights, and seeing stars after the news papar reporters popped off several frames of the calf. She even posed for pictures taken by visitors from other countries before she was sold at the Thursday evening sale.

Her new owner is John M. Lefever, Lancaster.

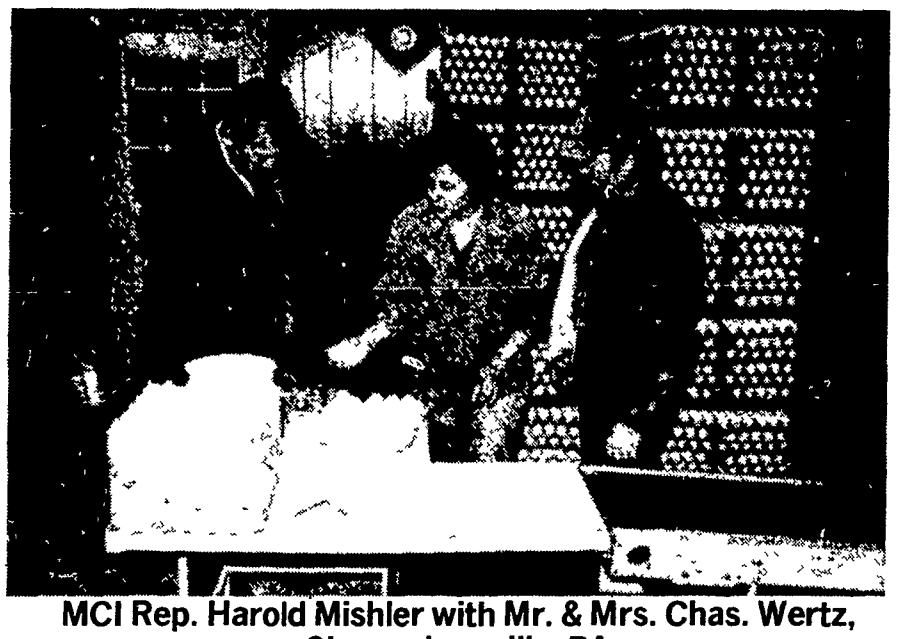
EARLY CHICK MORTALITY VS. POTENTIAL EGG PROFITS



MCI Rep. Harold Mishler with Mr. & Mrs. Chas. Wertz, Shoemakersville, PA

How do you measure layer flock profitability? How many of the day old chicks you purchase make it into your laying house?

Excessive early chick mortality can always be replaced or adjusted on subsequent chick orders but not so with the potential income from those 240 eggs each pullet could have given you.

Just 2% instead of 1% early chick mortality on 60,000 chicks could mean the difference of $600.00 potential income missed in the laying house. (20 doz. x 5¢ x 600 birds) Think of it next time you choose where to buy your next chicks.

Sharing money-making ideas in milk production.

When it comes to dairy farming a little learning can be a profitable thing. Milk production can soar. Butterfat can jump higher. Profits can increase. That's why Pennfield spends so much time educating its own Penn Pro salesmen as well as dairy farmers in the latest nutritional, herd health, and farm management developments. These educational programs are, of course, an excellent supplement to the Pennfield Computerized Total Ration Service. And here's how the service works: 1. We collect samples of your forage. 2. Then we evaluate the quality of your forage. We determine the total digestible nutrients. The fiber content. The protein content. The amount of carbohydrates. 3. The computer quickly spots any nutrients lacking in the forage. For your milking cows. And for your dry cows. It immediately points out the overfeeding of nutrients. Underfeeding, too. Both, of course, may be different at different times of the year. And the printout will tell you what you need. And when. 4. Your Penn Pro Professional advises you on the quantity and type of nutrients that should be added, to balance your total feeding program to your cows nutritional requirements.

Try the Pennfield Computerized Total Ration Service. For better milk yields. For better profits. There's no cost or obligation. Just phone us today at Pennfield Feeds. Local calls: Lancaster 299-2561, Red Lion 244-4511. In 717 and 215 areas dial toll-free 800-732-0467. Pennfield Feeds, Rohrerstown Road, Lancaster, PA 17604.

Omaha Cattle

Thursday, Sept. 4
Report supplied by USDA

Midweek prices on slaughter steers and heifers were 25-50 lower, instances 75 off, mainly on Good and Choice 1000-1075 lb. Steers and 850-925 lb. heifers. Cows were firm to 1.00 higher and bulls firm to 1.00 higher.

Four Day receipts this week 10,800; last week 8,900; year ago 10,600.

Most buying interests were rather selective and were only moderately aggressive for numbers following the long Labor Day weekend. In early carcass trading, demand was reported generally light with much of the volume packer-to-processor. Best demand still centered on Choice 1150-1300 lb. yield grade 3 steers and same grade 950-1050 lb. heifers. Feeder buyers offered only mild competition for two-way steers for a short turn in the feedlot. The overall finish of the steer and heifer supply was not particularly attractive with a large share Good to Average-Choice grade, including many 1050-1125 lb. steers and 875-950 lb. heifers. Steers made up approximately 35 pct of the week's total, and heifers 36 pct. Cows comprised 11 pct and feeders 16 pct.

Lancaster Farming says...

Weed out weed law problems

Among the many bureaucratic curiosities in Harrisburg is the current method for declaring war on problem weeds.

Heaven knows Pennsylvania has its share of weeds: there's Canadian thistle, multiflora rose, Johnsongrass, and a whole flock of others.

Farmers pay a tidy sum each year to control those and other problem weeds. But in order to get financial help and legal aid in eradicating a given weed, it has to be declared noxious.

Therein lies the rub. It literally takes an act of congress (the state congress, that is) to have a weed declared noxious.

The classic definition of a weed is simply 'a plant growing were it isn't wanted.' But that definition doesn't go into who doesn't want the plant were it is.

That brings us back to Harrisburg where the legislature periodically has to decide what's a noxious weed and what isn't.

To relieve the lawmakers of that burden a noxious weed bill was introduced in the House earlier this year. It would have provided for a panel, probably under the Secretary of Agriculture, to study weed problems and declare certain deserving weeds noxious. That bill is all but dead.

What we are going to end up with, in the short run, is HB 2640, something less than half a loaf.

HB 2640 would declare Johnsongrass a noxious weed, a deserved title for such a pest. Our neighbors in Maryland have been attempting to eradicate Johnsongrass for years and make no secret of blaming Pennsylvania for reinfesting their state with Johnsongrass.

HB 2640 deals only with Johnsongrass. Not multiflora rose. Not other problem species. No noxious weed panel. Why not?

The straightforward answer is that the Pennsylvania Game Commission blew agriculture right out of the ballpark on the noxious weed game.

The Game Commission, for years the champion of planting multiflora rose around farms and woodlots, objected to losing its favorite game cover.

Up in arms with its legions of city-based hunters, the powerful Commission made sure congressmen knew how it feels about any law which would allow multiflora rose to be declared a noxious weed.

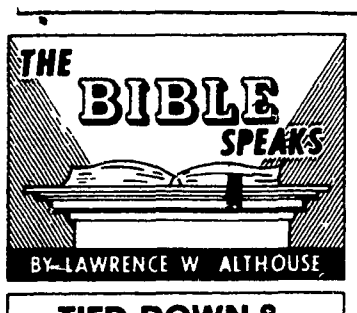
Thus died any chance of having multiflora rose declared noxious this year. Killed in the process was the idea of a panel to act on other weed problems as they arise.

Multiflora rose aside, it seems plain stupid to have to go through the entire lengthy, expensive lawmaking process to have weeds declared noxious. Problem weeds hardly deserve the dignity of having individual laws enacted each time one needs to be declared noxious.

The time and expense of writing individual laws is wasteful, especially when the Agriculture Department should be able to handle the job simply, swiftly, and knowledgeably.

Give the Game Commission token representation on an Ag Department Noxious Weed Board, the same way the Game folks now have farmers on their board. Provide the standard hearing period and other required terms for the Weed Board.

Let's make it easier for the state to help farmers rid themselves of problem weeds rather than wrapping the whole process up in a bindweed of legal problems.



TIED-DOWN & FREED-UP

Background Scripture:
Genesis 6 through 9.
Devotional Reading:
Psalm 8.

Ours is a day when "hanging loose" is becoming a national norm. The term "commitment" seems old-fashioned and obsolete. People today do not want to commit themselves to future plans. "Hanging loose" to them means the opportunity to decide at the very last minute.

Last year I was president of a Dallas-area organization that put on monthly programs. I found that, while all the members of that organization wanted to be guaranteed a quality speaker each month, relatively few would give any commitments to make those programs successful. They wanted the organization to guarantee them something, but they resisted giving any guarantees in return.

THIS I WILL DO

This is no less true in personal relationships. Lots of people today want the benefits of human relationships without being bound by commitments. A woman told me recently, speaking of her relationship with a man, "We make no promises to each other; there are no strings to tie us to each other." She was boasting, but I felt for both of them a sympathy neither of them were seeking, for, no matter how satisfying their relationship might be to them, they are missing out on one of the vital aspects of human relationships: commitment.

It is significant that one of the key terms inthe Judaic-Christian tradition is the word "Covenant". Look on the New Testament flyleaf of your Bible and you will probably find it to read: "The New Covenant...Commonly Called...The New Testament of Our Lord And Saviour, Jesus Christ." The reason for this terminology is that the Bible is regarded as the living record of God's covenant with his people. Much of the uniqueness of the Judaic-Christian tradition is the element of covenant: a God who makes agreements with his people — and keeps them.

We see this very early in the narrative of the Old Testament. After the Great Flood, God "said to Noah and to his sons with him, 'Behold, I establish my covenant with you and your descendents after you, and with every living creature that is with you...never again shall there be a flood to destroy the earth" (Genesis 9:8-11). It is a promise given to "every living creature" and "for all generations". God is binding himself to an everlasting promise upon which all future relationships between the Divine and humanity will be built.

FREE TO COMMIT

Actually, we need to make commitments, to bind ourselves to our best intentions. Without covenants, we do not discipline ourselves to live by the highest we know. We become imprisoned by our vices, weaknesses and natural inclinations to do less than our best. Actually, commitments, instead of taking our independence from us, make us free to pursue the ideals and goals we set for ourselves. Ironically, it is only when we willingly tie ourselves down that we are truly freed-up to fulfill who and what we were created to be.

TO BEWARE OF NITRATES

If there are drouth-stricken crops on your farm, you had better manage them carefully when being fed to livestock. Our nutrition specialist at Penn State, Dick Adams, informs us there is danger of excess nitrate in corn and other crops after periods of dry weather. The most dangerous time is 3 to 5 days following a soaking rain when the crops have been hurt by the lack of moisture.

Also, there is more danger of silo gases when ensiling corn that has been drouthy and then got a good soaking rain. Livestock producers should keep this potential situation in mind, if the dry weather has stunted their crops. Corn that has normal growth and development, even though we have had some dry weather, is not as dangerous as stunted corn due to very dry conditions.

TO PREPARE FARM PONDS

If you have made the investment in a farm pond, one of the reasons should be to be used in case of fire. However, too many farm ponds are located in a place where the fire truck cannot get close enough in wet weather. Most engines must get within 25 feet of the water in order to pump the water to the fire.

We suggest that pond owners have an all-weather lane to the side of the pond. This may not be important in the summer months whent the ground is dry and solid. However, in the early spring the fire truck may not be able to reach the water. I have known of a fire truck getting stuck between the main road and the pond, and the barn burned to the ground. Be sure the water in your farm pond can be used by your local fire company in case of fire. Consult with your fire chief for details.

TO KEEP DOGS AT HOME

Stray dogs are very unpopular in most farming communities. In fact, they are in danger of being shot when off your property and unattended. The big reason for this is that dogs and cats may carry infection from one farm to another. Also, in sheep country stray dogs have been known to attack and kill sheep. Many sheep producers will not tolerate stray dogs.

In many parts of the country, where we have dense farms and large livestock or poultry operations, every precaution is taken against the spreading of diseases Stray dogs and cats are a threat to healthy herds and flocks. Owners should keep this in mind and keep their dogs at home. Unfortunately, it is difficult to control cats, rodents, and wild birds; however, they also, should be kept out of buildings as much as possible.

TO INSTALL DRAIN TILE

Farmers who have wet spots in their fields might use the early fall months as a good time to install drain tile or drain-pipe. These areas should be more workable now than in the spring. When the tile is put in place now, winter grains can be seeded on the area with little loss of crop production. I realize that in some areas of the state, the weather has been so dry that wet spots have disappeared. On the other hand, many farms will have one or more wet spots in crop land that gives trouble in the majority of crop seasons. These can be corrected with these drainage systems. In most cases the cost of draining wet spots in crop land is a good investment. Under current production costs, every acre should be managed to produce maximum yields.

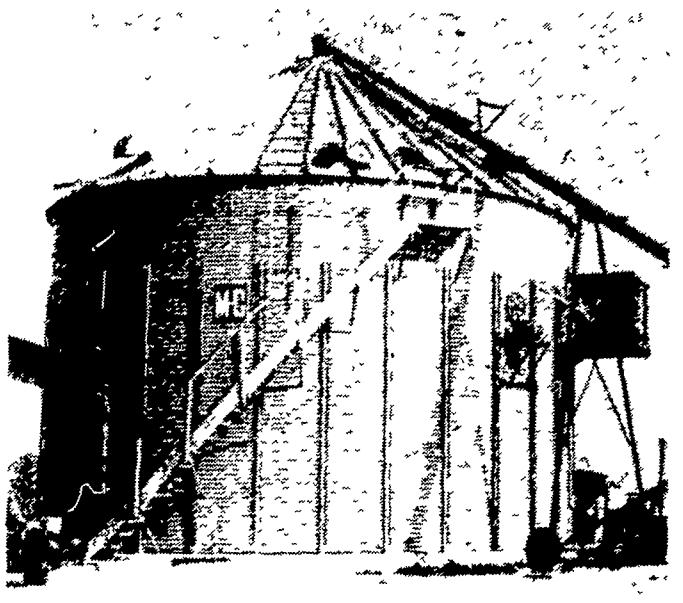
GREAT GRAIN HANDLING SYSTEMS BEGIN WITH GOOD PLANNING AND M-C DRYERS

Now Available!

M-C DRYBINE™

The ENERGY SAVING IN-BIN DRYING SYSTEM



The new Mathews Continuous In-Bin Dryer is a combination storage drying and cooling bin designed to save you money It is efficient, fast, easy to manage and costs less to operate The drying process is fast, while the cooling process is slow, eliminating stress cracks and damage caused by fast cooling There is nothing else like it on the market The Mathews design requires no wet holding bin or separate bin for cooling

- Saves energy for profitable operations
- Proven high capacity results (357 bushels per hour)
- Eliminates the most common problems found in other in-bin dryers
- Low per bushel costs

Patents Pending

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS...

As wet grain enters the top of the bin, it flows into the upper drying chamber as harvested, with no need for a wet holding bin This upper chamber holds up to 4 feet of wet grain (2250 bushels)

Every seven minutes, a continuous flow auger makes a complete revolution around the upper drying floor, drawing the dried grain into the lower cooling area

Hot air is introduced under the upper floor to dry the wet grain and to heat the surface of the grain that is distributed into the lower cooling chamber The air that is used for cooling the grain picks up heat during the cooling process This heated air is then used again in the drying process, saving on fuel costs

When not being used for drying, the bin will store 8500 bushels of grain

Rittenhouse lambs win in Montgomery

PERKIOMENVILLE — Joe Benzak of Benzak Meats, Bethlehem, outbid all other contenders to purchase the Grand Champion Montgomery County 4-H Lamb at the sale held recently at the Perkiomenville Sales Stables.

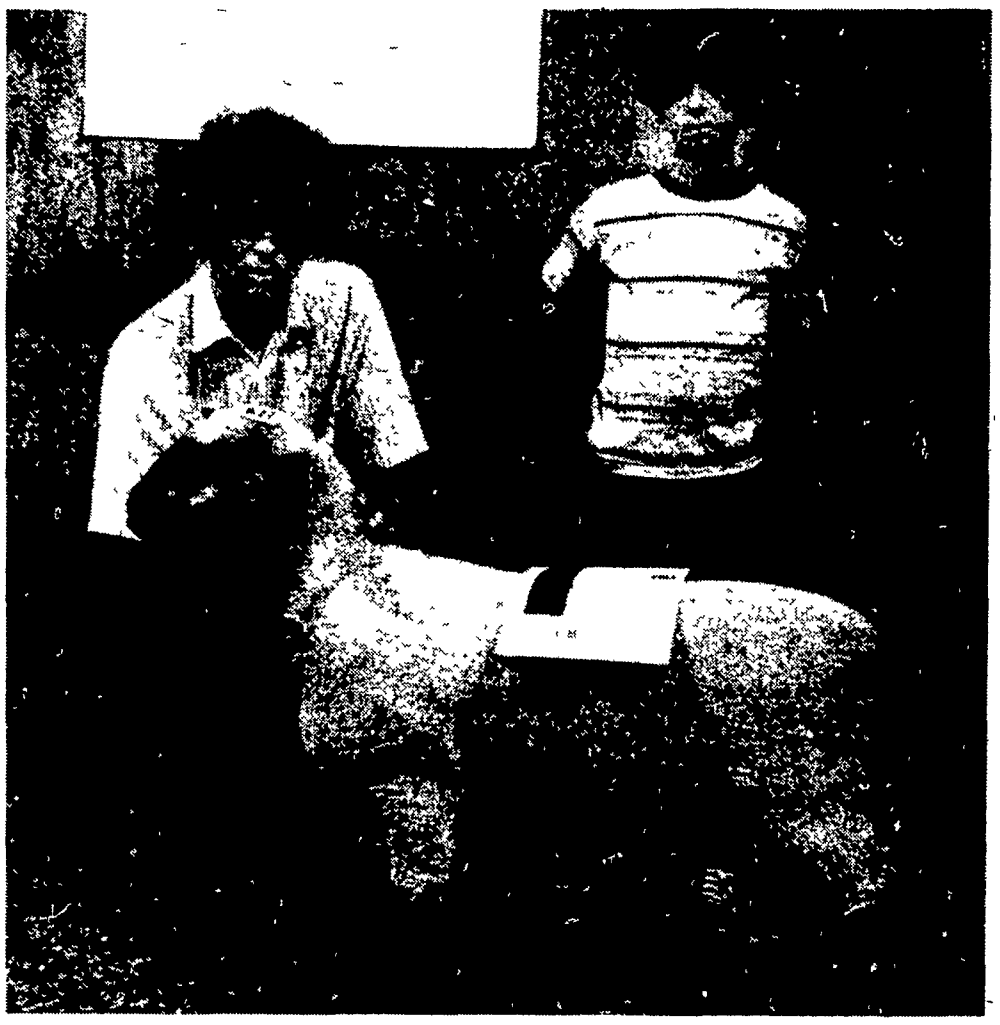
Benzak paid $2 per pound for the lamb belonging to Jim Rittenhouse, Telford, whose lamb was named Champion of the show at the recent Montgomery County Fair in Lansdale.

The Reserve Champion Lamb was purchased by Frank Fillippo, Fillippo Meats, Norristown, for $1.90 per pound from Scott Rittenhouse, Telford.

Hennings Market, Harleysville, paid $1.10 per pound for the third-place market lamb which was also raised and shown by Jim Rittenhouse. John Scholl, livestock dealer from Perkasie, was the buyer of the lamb owned by Nancy Schwenk of Souderton. Kendra Schwenk, also of Souderton, showed the fifth-place lamb, which was purchased by Benzak Meats. Benzak also bought the final lamb sold that evening which was exhibited by Greg Myers of Ambler.

County Agent Nancy M. Kadwill expressed appreciation to all the buyers who supported the sale enabling the 4-H'ers to continue in their work with livestock, and especially Benzak Meats and Fillippo Meats for their support in buying the Champions. All the members are in the Green Pastures Sheep Club which is open to all youth 8-19 who are interested in learning about raising breeding or market sheep. For more information, contact the 4-H Office at 277-0574.

Benzak Meats, of Bethlehem, purchased the Grand Champion Montgomery County 4-H Market Lamb at the sale held recently in Perkiomenville. The firm paid $2 per pound for the animal exhibited by Jim Rittenhouse of Telford. Also pictured are Vicki Benzak, daughter of Joe Benzak, Bethlehem, and Steve Fillippo, son of Frank Fillippo, Norristown.



Steve Fillippo, Norristown, son of Frank Fillippo, Fillippo Meats, proudly poses with the Reserve Champion Montgomery County 4-H Lamb which his father purchased from Scott Rittenhouse, Telford. Fillippo Meats paid $1.90 per pound for the prize-winning animal.

Southeast 4-H dairy show winners chosen

BY LAUREL SCHAEFFER
Staff Correspondent

KUTZTOWN — 4-H members representing eight southeastern Pennsylvania counties converged at the Kutztown Fairgrounds, here, to compete in the 35th annual Southeast 4-H Dairy Show.

A total of 226 dairy animals were exhibited at this event held last Saturday by 150 4-H members who held hopes of qualifying for the Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show, scheduled for Monday, September 22. Blue ribbon winners at this show are eligible to send a maximum of two blue merit animals to the state show.

Judges for the show were, Eugene Francisco, Holstein Breeder, of Andover, New Jersey, and Harry Roth of Atlantic Breeders Co-operative. Participating counties included Berks, Bucks, Chester, Lehigh, Montgomery, Northampton, and Schuylkill.

Family & businesses with hearts as big as their surprise

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN

SCHOENECK — The family of Ephrata R1 farmer, Melvin Nolt, cooked up a coast-to-coast surprise for him this week.

And to help them carry off the surprise, the family had the aid and support of some businessmen and industries with a heart.

It was the Nolt farm that was among the most severely damaged in that late June twister that cut a swath of destruction through Ephrata Township.

The Nolts lost a tobacco shed, barn, equipment and other contents, including a herd of 99 Charolais, 35 of which died immediately in the fire. In addition, their house and other parts of the farmstead, which dates back to the late 18th century, were damaged.

Friends and neighbors immediately gathered to help out, as they did at other area farms. After the cleanup, the tobacco shed was rebuilt. A gang of combiners and balers congregated to bring in the Nolt wheat and straw.

Now, a new 70 X 92-foot clear-span barn is in place. It's big enough to hold 180 head of cattle, along with hay and straw.

Well, now to the surprise. On Tuesday night, the barn, whose interior is not quite completed, received its first boarder.

Naturally, it's a steer and naturally, it's a Charolais. But it's not quite the steer you might think it is.

This one has the proud head of the breed and the rippling muscles across the broad frame. But he only tips the scales at about 130 pounds.

You see, he's made of fibreglass and is one of the most docile barnyard critters you'll ever see.

The yet unnamed steer, who is likely to end up with a "handle" like surprise or the like, proudly rode into the Nolt farm Tuesday night on the bed of a tractor trailer designed for hauling steel.

And you could tell from the look on Melvin Nolt's face, the surprise was a well-kept secret.

The acquisition of the Nolt mascot is quite a story, too.

After all the misfortune, the family wanted to surprise Melvin. But you just don't go into the local Agway or implement dealer and say you want a full-size fibreglass replica of a Charolais steer.

Then, the builder and principal suppliers for the new barn stepped in and helped out. Builder is Nelson Wenger, R4 Lititz. Materials came from Fabral Steel and Aluminum Roofing, Lancaster, through their Charolais steer arrives on back of flatbed tractor trailer at Nolt farm. New barn is in background.

LANCASTER COUNTY DAIRYMEN:

IT'S A FACT: chances are better than 9 out of 10 that your herd of slick, high-producing cows is infected with roundworms. Here are five more facts you should know about worms, the production losses they can cause, and how to help stop them with TBZ, the prefreshening cattle wormer.

FACT 1—Most wormy cows "look healthy" because they eat enough to feed the worms AND to keep themselves looking good. University, Extension and other scientists have proved over 90 percent of all cattle are wormy, even in cold, northern climates.

FACT 2—Worms can cut production, even in top herds, by as much as 400 to 500 pounds per head per lactation...shown in trials in Wisconsin, Vermont and other dairy states.

FACT 3—One out of four dairymen now worm routinely, and thousands more are beginning every year.

FACT 4—Worming each cow with TBZ before she calves lets her begin lactation clean, and helps make peak production possible all through lactation.

FACT 5—TBZ is a one-dose, one-time worming treatment available in paste, bolus, suspension and pellet forms. At the stanchion or in the calving pen, TBZ makes worming each cow as she freshens simple, easy, quick. See your Dealer, Feed Supplier or Veterinarian today.

At Middletown Fair

Dauphin Co. 4-H Sheep Roundup winners join dairy, beef exhibitors

MIDDLETOWN — This year's Dauphin County Sheep Roundup was held at the Middletown Area Fair.

In the fitting and showmanship competition, Eric Kreider and Todd Kohr were awarded the championship trophies respectively. Both young men are from R1 Palmyra.

The champion market lamb was exhibited by Krista Hetrick, R1 Palmyra. Her Hampshire lamb took first place in the heavyweight class.

Kathleen Ryan, Hummelstown, showed the reserve champion market lamb, her first place lightweight entry.

In the breed competition, John Snowden exhibited the champion Dorset ewe lamb. Eric Kreider's yearling ewe followed in the reserve champion slot.

ROUNDUP

Japanese buying mission on Sept. 15

PHILADELPHIA — A Japanese Buying Mission aimed at helping Pennsylvania develop and expand agricultural trade has been scheduled for September 15 at the City Line Holiday Inn in Philadelphia.

State Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hallowell said the Japanese Buying Mission, sponsored by the Eastern United States Agricultural and Food Export Council (EUSAFEC) and the Foreign Agricultural Service of the United States Department of Agriculture, "has been designed to offer food processors an excellent opportunity to introduce their products to a number of Japanese food buyers representing 115 million Japanese consumers."

The Japanese have indicated that they are interested in the full line of food products that Pennsylvania firms have to offer, including but not limited to fresh, frozen and canned dairy products, snack items, feedstuffs and grains.

Hallowell said Pennsylvania's agricultural foreign trade in 1979 totaled $180.5 million, but noted that "export marketing is an area with room for new producers and greatly expanded sales."

Export marketing promotion is receiving increased emphasis from the Agriculture Department as a means to improve farm income and economic development in Pennsylvania.

Booth space is still available for those interested in exhibiting their products at the Japanese Buying Mission.

distributor, Rigidply Rafters, Inc. of Richland.

Coordinator of the project was Paul Good, a neighbor at R1 Ephrata, a salesman for Rigidply.

Contact was first made with Vintage Sales to see where the steer replica that stands in front of the auction was acquired.

The name of a California firm was obtained.

But a life-size replica of a Charolais costs more than the real ones which go through the auction ring.

So, Wenger and Fabral chipped in with the family to bring off the much-wanted surprise.

The fibreglass steer began his cross-country trip and was picked up at a shipping point near Williamsport. Last night, he came to the Nolt farm to complete the surprise.

Now, the family must decide exactly where the Nolt mascot will reside.

More than likely he's going to stand atop the new feed bunk which is just east of the new barn. There, he'll preside over his real-life counterparts which will start filling the barn in October.

It's been a summer of many surprises for Melvin Nolt

But none will quite match "Surprise" the steer who will stand as a permanent memorial to the caring of family, friends, neighbors and agri-businesses with a heart.

"Pioneer® calls it genetic diversity. I call it common sense."

"That's why I'm ordering these Pioneer® brand hybrids."

Here's the right hybrid for Eastern corn belt farmers. It has lots of high yield punch. And at harvest 3535 shells out load after load of medium hard textured, high test weight grain. It's a real winner under stress of heat, drouth and high population. 3535 is bred to take a lot of punishment and come out on top. This means more corn for you ... more income per acre.

3382

Many claims are made about seed corn. Some are sold on promises. But 3382 is sold on tried and true yield performance. This new breed of hybrid has proven big yield potential under modern farming practices. High population and well-fertilized soil really unleash the genetic potential of 3382. It dries fast. Standability is excellent. Try it.

3184

This hybrid just won't quit when it comes to stalk strength and high yields. There's nothing better than this firmly established leader hybrid in its maturity zone. Farmers really like it around here. It's adaptable to most any soil type or farming practice. 3184 takes drouth and stress. Make sure you include this outstanding hybrid in your planting plans. It's a winner.

Ag legislative action moves to state senate

BY CURT HARLER

HARRISBURG — When the state legislature reconvenes Monday September 15, the focus of farmer attention will be on the state senate.

At least five important agricultural measures are in the early stages of moving through the senate, most of which already have seen action in the house.

Top on the list is HB 1793, the ag district bill, which is in the senate agricultural and rural affairs committee.

HB 1793 would exempt ag districts of 500 or more acres from provisions of nuisance bill provisions.

While the bill has the strong support of most farmer groups, some observers see the bill's chances for success in the brief fall senate session depending upon acceptance of the measure without changes by the entire senate.

Any changes requiring conference committee action might kill the bill before the present two-year legislative session expires on November 30, 1980.

HB 1608, currently in the senate appropriations committee, would exempt closely held farm corporations from estate tax provisions.

Like the other bills, this measure has strong support from the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association and other state farmer organizations.

HB 1794, Lancaster County Representative Noah Wenger's right to farm bill, is in the senate ag committee.

This measure has a broad base of support from a variety of groups including the Pennsylvania Food Processors and the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation.

In addition to protecting farmers from nuisance ordinances passed by local governments against normal farming practices like spreading manure or using lime, it would protect food processors who produce and process 51 percent of a given commodity.

The Poultry Federation says chances for passage of HB 1794 look favorable in the upcoming session.

Inheritance taxes are the target of HB 1176. That measure would ammend the 1961 Inheritance tax act, and its main impact would be on farm sales after the death of the farm's owner.

Most important provision is a requirement to assess land on its value as a farm rather than on any potential speculative use for development as an industrial park or housing subdivision.

Still another tax-related measure is HB 311, currently in the senate finance committee.

HB 311 would allow installment payments of taxes on land sales to be spread out over the period of the sale of the land.

Basically the measure would allow a person transfering a farm to a second party to pay taxes on the income from the land as the money was received, rather than pay the entire tax burden at the time of the real estate transfer.

One bill, not directly related to agriculture but with an impact on farmers, died over the summer recess.

That bill was HB 1, which would have limited spending by state and local government.

Passage of the measure was required by August 4, but the legislature had recessed July 8 so it was impossible to pass the bill in the time period required by the state constitution.

Thus died a measure which could have saved substantial sums of taxpayers' money.

BEAVER SPRINGS — Carole Elaine Dum, R1, Elliotsburg, showed the Grand Champion Holstein at the 34th annual Central District 4-H Dairy Show held at Beaver Springs. The district includes nine other Central Pennsylvania counties which entered 95 animals into the Holstein Breed Show.

Carole is the official breeder and owner of Ben Lou Fury Ivan Luia, a 2-year-old, and received a special award as the owner and breeder as well as for fitting and showmanship.

Animals which were awarded a blue ribbon for type qualified for the State 4-H Dairy Show to be held at the Farm Show Building, Monday, Sept. 22. Qualifying from Perry County were animals shown by Jennifer Kriebel, Irene Benner, Danny Albright, Carole Elaine Dum, Richard Kriebel, Darla Bratton, Nancy Ann Dum, Rodney Albright and Jeffery Holman.

Those receiving special fitting awards were Jennifer Kriebel, Irene Benner, Carole Elaine Dum, Darla Bratton, Nancy Ann Dum, and Jeffery Holman.

The following were cited for outstanding showmanship: Jennifer Kriebel, Kimberly Kriebel, Irene Benner, Danny Albright, Carole Elaine Dum, Rodney Albright.

Club leaders this year are Kenneth Benner, Millerstown; Hulda Dum, Landisburg; David Houser, New Bloomfield and Richard Kriebel of Millerstown.

County Commissioners 'peep' at poultry industry

Participating in the poultry industry tour on Tuesday in Lancaster County were, from the left, Mabel Hershey, Leroy Esbenshade, John Hershey, Judy Esbenshade, commissioners Bob Boyer and Jim Huber.

LANCASTER — Lancaster County Commissioners peeped for an entire day at the area's $125 million poultry industry on Tuesday.

It was a day that took them from A to Z – from chicks to chicken hot dogs.

The day began at Hubbard Hatchery in Neffsville and ended at Favorite Manufacturing Company near New Holland.

Sandwiched in between were stops in 60,000-layer houses, processing of 76,000 eggs an hour and 105,000 broilers a day and a broiler operation that totals 150,000 birds.

Participating in the tour were commissioners Jim Huber, Jean Mowery and Bob Boyer. Host was Jay Irwin from the county extension staff.

Members of the poultry industry included Mr. and Mrs. J. Leroy Esbenshade, president of the Pountry Board of Directors, who

100
SILAGE FORTIFIER

A revolutionary new concept in improving silages. University tested and proven MOPRO Liquid Silage Fortifier is formulated to balance the major mineral and protein deficiencies of silages. It also prevents loss from mold and rot after being removed from the silo or trench. MOPRO is added at the time of ensiling and is applied by metering equipment with very little handling cost. MOPRO will not corrode mild steel tanks or brass fittings and has no free ammonia odor to irritate the eyes or skin. MOPRO is a homogeneous solution of ammonia salts, urea, cane molasses, and minerals (except salt and calcium) in an efficient liquid carrier. It provides nitrogen for improved fermentation in the rumen and contains a mineral balance of phosphorous, magnesium, and trace elements. MOPRO 100 will give a resulting silage of up to 14.3% protein.

Lancaster colt is Quarter Horse Futurity winner

Owned by Samuel Edwards of Lampeter, the February 10, 1980 colt was shown by Terry Ressler, Strasburg. 'Heza Tough Brick' is sired by Skip's Brick Two out of Little Joe's Lady. The Eastern National was the rose-gray colt's first show and the blue ribbon marks his first futurity win.

The first place weanling filly in Friday's Futurity was exhibited by Kenneth Mills, Salisbury, Md. Mills also exhibited the first place two-year-old gelding, 'Blazing Skip', by Penn State's stud Skip Sioux.

Out-of-state entries took the blues in the yearling classes in both fillies and colts competition. Jean Pistilli, Far Hills, New Jersey, exhibited the filly 'Birch Wood Cash' to first place honors, while Arthur and Betty Howell of Hagerstown, Maryland showed their 'Hunk of Loot' to the top of his class.

Frances Burd, Carlisle, captured the first place honors in the PQHA Futurity with his yearling gelding, 'Leo San Straw'.

In the Wednesday and Thursday open shows at the Eastern National, a number of area horses took first place in competition against other Quarter Horse exhibitors from as far away as California, Canada, and Texas.

Richard and Kim Myers took a blue in the 1980 colt conformation class, while Arthur and Betty Howell, of Hagerstown, Maryland came in first in the 1979 colt class. William Hogan, Perkasie, showed the top 1977 Quarter Horse stallion.

Tricia Fuchs, Transfer, exhibited the first place Youth mare. Her horse went on to be named the top ranking aged mare and later was tagged the Reserve Grand Champion.

The Youth Showmanship classes found two young Pennsylvania equestrians taking home blue ribbons. Patrick McMahon, of Bethel Park, took first in the 13 and under division, while Ann Marie Nagle, Orwigsburg, won in the 14 - 18 division

Winners in the trail classes were Wendy Weatherby, Middletown and J P. Radwansky, Reading. And Judith Pennell, Perkasie, placed first in the Working Hunter class

The Eastern National did not hold a blue ribbon in store for Adam Felsinger's weanling colt Missles Roan Bar. However, the son of Monte Missle took fourth place in the Quality Improvement Program Closed Futurity for the Lancaster County breeder.

Rosemary Ogorchock, Reynoldsville, had a winning first day at the Eastern National placing first in two bridle path hack classes.

Edward Kenney, Jr. of Zieglersville and Carl Linsenbach, Dillsburg, tied up the first place slots in the barrel racing competition.

Pennsylvania entries dominated the blues in the pole bending contests, with William and Sherry Pursel, Danville, winning the youth class; Steven Imes, Fleetwood, winning the regulation; and Mark Aurand, McVeytown, taking first in the open class.

Howard Fisher, Hummelstown, came in first in the 50 yard dash and the open scurry race. John and Sylvia Glick, Leola, were first in the open keyhole class.

First place in the Open Speed and Action class went to Jackie Buchanan, Elverson. And Rick Buckwalter, Denver, ranked first in the Youth reining class.

In the Western Horsemanship classes, first place went to Janet Conn, Port Royal; Chris Thompson, Blue Ball; Lisa Valentino, Sharon; Cynthia Codan, Mechanicsburg; and J.P. Radwanski, Reading.

The Eastern National is the largest Quarter Horse Show in the East according to President Gary Sayers.—SM LEBANON — "This year's dry Summer has reduced the area's corn yields," says Karl Hellerick, District Conservationist of the Soil Conservation Service.

Winter cover needed

"Many farmers will be salvaging some of their investment by harvesting the short stalks and small ears for silage, leaving naked fields to withstand the rains and runoff," he said.

What's needed to protect the soil from the devastation of erosion is a Winter cover crop, according to the SCS conservationist. Planting Winter grains, such as rye, wheat or barley, at the rate of 2 bushels to the acre also will help to hold over the unused nutrients from the fertilizer and manure applied last Spring, he concluded.

Harvest Festival next week at Lancaster County Winery

WILLOW STREET — Lancaster County Winery has scheduled a Harvest Festival for Saturday, September 13, from 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

The event is planned as a celebration of the bountiful harvest both from the winery and Lancaster County farms.

Local growers and farmers are invited to display and sell their fresh fruits and vegetables outdoors.

Visitors may watch the crushing and pressing of grapes as they are brought down from the vineyard during the day and participate in free tours of the winery and free wine tastings.

The wine shop will be open for sales all day. Grape-stomping, hayrides and food by the West Willow Fire Company Auxiliary are also planned.

Picnickers are invited to bring their blankets and picnic on the lawns.

For more information or spaces, call 717/464-3555.

"Harvestall Chillcuring® works. It's this simple: Harvestall gives me a better product for less."

MERLE STOLTZFUS, Elverson, Pa.

"We've had our 48 foot Harvestall® bin for three seasons now and I really couldn't be much happier with it. Before the Harvestall® we used a batch dryer. Now it's for sale. We found you just can't batch dry corn as cheap as you can cure it with the Harvestall®. Last year I know it didn't cost more than 4¢ a bushel for Chillcuring®. Most of the corn went in at 26% to 27%. Some was over 30%, but we had no mold problem. As a matter of fact our test weight was up around 56 lbs. Some was as high as 58 lbs.

"The farmer really needs storage if he's going to be able to market his crop to his advantage. The Harvestall® system gives him not only storage, but eliminates the need for drying equipment and expensive fuel. Plus at harvest I can fill the bin as fast as the combine brings it in.

"It's really as simple as this: Harvestall® gives me a better product at less cost. So I'm not afraid to recommend the Harvestall because it works so well for me."

The Harvestall Chillcuring System

It's simple When grain comes out of the field it's a living seed So instead of destroying the seed with high heat, moisture is removed with natural air ventilation The grain keeps all its feed value, there is less shrinkage than with heat drying because only moisture is removed, not dry matter You'll never see white dust in Chillcured corn You actually save half of what you're used to losing in heat shrink

There's no gas or oil to buy Natural air carries away heat and moisture as the corn releases it

Harvestall Chillcuring is a back-to-basics system that just simply makes good sense Find out more about it

Thurmont community show slated

THURMONT — The 24th annual Thurmont and Emmitsburg Community Show will be held September 12-14 at Catoctin High School in Thurmont, Md.

Entry of exhibits will take place on Thursday evening, September 11, from 6 to 9 p.m. and on Friday morning, September 15, from 8-11:30 a.m. in the school gymnasium. The entry of quilts and afghans will also take place at this time with a limit of three quilts and three afghans per family from the Catoctin High School area.

On Friday evening, September 12, the show opens to the public at 6:00 p.m. At 8 p.m. a program will be presented in the school auditorium which will begin with the massing of flags from local civic organizations. Special recognition will be given to fruit growers in the Catoctin area and to Mr. William G. Baker, who was a member of the Community Show committee for 23 years. The highlight of the program will be the crowning of the 1980-81 Catoctin FFA Chapter Sweetheart. At 9 p.m. a cake auction will be held in the school gymnasium. The grand champion cake will be sold first with Mr. Robert Meunier as the auctioneer. From 9 to 11 p.m. a Sweetheart Dance will be held in the school commons featuring "The Eyes". Admission to the dance will be $1.50 per person.

On Saturday, September 13, the show opens to the public at 10 a.m. At 10:30 a.m., a Pet Show will be held with entries being solicited from the Catoctin High School area. Following the pet show, a bike rodeo contest and pie eating contest will be held. The Catoctin Mountain Steam Festival will be held from 12 noon to 7 p.m. with threshing demonstrations at 2 and 5 p.m. From 1 to 6 p.m., various demonstrations will be held in the school gymnasium including flower arranging, cake decorating, and omelet and chicken cutting. From 3 p.m. till ? the Thurmont Grange will be serving their annual Roast Turkey and Ham Supper in the school cafeteria. At 6 and 9 p.m. The Catoctin Mountain Boys will play bluegrass music. At 2 p.m., The Beef Fitting and Showing will be held and at 7:30 p.m. the Beef, Sheep and Swine Sale will be held in the agriculture area of the school.

On Sunday, September 14, the show opens to the public at 12 noon with Threshing demonstrations at 1:30 and 3:30 p.m. The annual Emmitsburg Grange Chicken Bar-B-Que will be held from 12 noon till? At 1 and 3 p.m., The Catoctin Mountain Boys will play bluegrass music and at 2 p.m. the Catoctin Mountain Mule Pulling contest will be held. At 1 p.m., The 2nd annual Catoctin Mountain Horseshoe Pitching Contest will be held and at 2 p.m., the 2nd annual Catoctin Mountain Log Sawing Contest will be held. Ribbons and prizes will be awarded in each contest.

The Thurmont and Emmitsburg Community show is sponsored by the Thurmont and Emmitsburg Granges, Catoctin Chapter-Future Farmers of America, Catoctin FFA Alumni and the Maryland Agricultural Fair Board. Free admission-plenty of good food - door prizes!

A NEW LOADER WITH AN OLD REPUTATION FOR DEPENDABILITY

Bush Hog® 3400 QT Loader

There's nothing old-fashioned about this quick attach loader except famous Bush Hog® dependability. Bush Hog engineers have packed the 3400 QT with smart new features that help you get the job done right.

Like "full-range" visibility — you can see what you're doing because there's only one cross member on the main frame instead of two. Tapered buckets that fill to capacity and dump clean. And fast mount and dismount with brackets that stay out of the way when they're not needed.

The 3400 QT is designed with long-life features like a one-piece welded steel main frame, tubular hydraulic lines, rust resistant cylinder rods and regreasable pivot points. Breakaway capacity is 5000 lbs. HP range is 80-120.

Come in soon and take a close-up look at Bush Hog quality.

York Countian wins state 4-H tractor award

Jon Miller has added the title of state 4-H tractor driver champion to a list of impressive winnings.

SEVEN VALLEYS — A steady rain and the rutted, muddy course didn't keep Jonathan Miller from putting a tractor and attachment exactly where he wanted them during 4-H state tractor driving competition at the recent Ag Progress Days.

Jon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Miller of Seven Valleys R1, triumphed over six other competitors to win the tractor driving crown on August 20 during the state's largest summer agriculture event at Rock Springs.

A veteran tractor driving participant, 17-year-old Jon has won the York Fair's contest for the last three years, and in January took part in the state runoff held during Farm Show week. Tractor driving competition is closely tied to the 4-H tractor project, which Jon carried as a member for four years, and helped supervise as a junior leader for the past two.

This year's state contest at Ag Progress Days consisted of several parts, including written tests as well as actual machinery maneuvers. One written quiz checked the driver's knowledge of general tractor information and another covered parts identification.

"But there was one unusual part that I never ran into in tractor driving before," Jon found.

"We had to reach into various boxes, without looking and identify tractor parts by feel alone. There were items like nuts, bolts, and even a fuel injector."

Following the classroom-type scoring, contestants headed for the tractor seats to qualify in two final categories, a four-wheel and a two-wheel event.

Eight minutes were allowed for completion of the two-wheel category, during which drivers had to back up to a spreader, take it through a measured course of turns and then back into a stall. Four-wheel trails were similar, with a wagon that had to be moved from one stall and back into another. Points were earned on the accuracy of the driving and parking.

As the state winner, Jon became eligible to compete in national 4-H tractor driving competition in Richmond, Virginia, September 21 through 25. But he's already won a trip for Autorama competition, the project area which he was recently declared a national winner.

As part of the automotive project which helped him win the national recognition, Jon served as a coach-member of the York County Autorama team that took top honors during 4-H state days.

He's also a member of the Jefferson Community Club, Southwest Dairy Club, and the county lamb club, carrying dairy and livestock projects. The former county 4-H king for 1978-79, Jon has won numerous awards in livestock and meats judging.

A June graduate of the York Area Vocational Technical School, Jon began studies this week at the Altoona campus of Pennsylvania State University, pursuing a course of general undergraduate studies. After a year, or possibly two, at the Altoona branch campus, Jon plans to switch to the main campus at State College.

"I'm not sure yet exactly what I want to do," he muses. "But it'll definitely be in the agriculture field."—JB

Produce haulers can dial for rates

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Truckers who haul fruit and vegetables may now dial a telephone number to get "instant" weekly truck rate and cost information that can help them make the most of their miles, according to Assistant Secretary of Agriculture P.R. Smith.

The truck rate and cost reports have been available from U.S. Department of Agriculture in printed form for about a year.

Truckers may now call 202/447-2599 between 1 p.m. Wednesday and 10 a.m. Friday, eastern standard time. They will hear weekly fruit and vegetable truck rate highlights and rates that have been reported for shipping produce from the more important shipping points to selected cities of destination.

During the first week of each month—again, from 1 p.m., Wednesday until 10 a.m. Friday, EST—the report also will state truck cost information, including fuel and maintenance costs.

Will it hurt farmland?

York County farmers fight chemical dump

BY JOYCE BUPP
Staff Correspondent

SEVEN VALLEYS — Traveling over hilly Panther Road on his way from one farm to another early this Spring, Nelson Brenneman, Spring Grove R1 dairy and crops farmer, spied a well-drilling rig in a field just off the dirt roadway.

"It was set-up on another neighbor's property. That neighbor was alerted, and they were asked to get off," recalled Brenneman. The drilling rig disappeared.

Then some weeks later, while hauling manure from the family's 50-head milking herd, Brenneman spotted a stranger checking wells on adjacent property. Questioning eventually led to the revelation that a permit to dump industrial wastes nearby had been issued by the state's Department of Environmental Resources to Stabatrol, Inc., of Norristown, on December 17, 1979.

The dump site is part of more than 500 acres owned by the York County Industrial Development Authority and leased to Sunny Farms, Ltd. Sunny Farms is a subsidiary of Stabatrol, and formerly operated a solid waste landfill and has been grain farming the tillable land on the property. At one time, a cattle feedlot was also in operation near the ridge of the hillside farmland.

But the land that immediately bounds the Brenneman dairy farm, and where the drilling rig was actually supposed to be when Brenneman first spotted it, is a plot of over 80 acres earmarked for disposal use by Liqwacon, Inc.

Liqwacon, officials later found, had applied for an industrial waste site permit in May, but licensing has not yet been granted. Additionally, Allied Chemical has plans to use a portion of the site for burial of their industrial chemical wastes. industrial chemical wastes.

It was near the end of July when farmers, residents, North Codorus township officials, and legislators finally dug up enough details to begin piecing together the bits of the plan. Announcement of the permit had been made, DER and company officials said, in the Pennsylvania Bulletin, a state-issued publication of state government activities.

A letter of notification was also to have been sent to township officials, but allegedly went to a supervisor out of office for the past two years. That letter has not yet been found.

Because a subdivision plan of the property had never been submitted for township approval, the municipality sought and won a injunction on August 21 from York County Courts to halt further dumping planning. At that court hearing, Stabatrol allegedly agreed to submit subdivision plans. Contrary to a report last week in Lancaster Farming, the township still has not yet received that property division plan.

After that plan is received, the township has ninety days to take action, and dumping could begin immediately after approval. In order to stop construction of roadways onto the property from the township's Hoff Road, which bisects the dumping sites, the dirt road had been temporarily closed by the North Codorus officials.

Farm owners have teamed with their non-farm neighbors into a group they've labeled OUCH, an acronymn for Opposing Unnecessary Chemical Hazards. A fund for legal defense has been set up at the Jefferson branch of Peoples' Bank of Glen Rock, and a public information and petition-signing campaign against the waste site is underway.

The York County Farmers Association has been called into the fray and, in Brenneman's words, is "deeply involved."

Irate farm families are especially questioning the methods of "neutralization and encapsulation" disposals that are planning for the waste burial. Stabatrol has patented a method of "vaulting", which the July-August issue of Next magazine labeled a "poisonous cement sandwich."

First, a site must be found where the soil is compatible for mixing with Portland Cement. In excavated pits, the cement would be mixed with soil to form "soil cement," preferably two layers, each six inches thick. That soil cement layer is then covered with a waterproof sheet of a polyethyelene type material.

Treated, neutralized waste is dumped into the prepared vault and covered over with another piece of plastic sheeting, and then sealed at the edges. Another layer of the cement mix goes on top, covered over with layers of earth, about three feet deep.

Eventually, the land is to be restored to its present use: growing corn and other farm crops.

Allied Chemical's plans center on neutralizing the wastes, mixing with dirt and cement, and then burying blocks of the hardened sludge. Liqwacon, whose land drains toward Nelson Brenneman's 1165 home-farm acres in cattle feed crops, would store neutralized wastes in a one-eighth to one-fourth thick PVC liner in sand-lined holes.

The companies involved generate heavy metal wastes like lead, chromium mercury, cadmium, copper hydroxides, and possibly such toxic materials as cyanide and arsenic.

Although the systems are to be "fail-safe" against leakage, Stephen Marsh, Seven Valleys R1, sees it differently. Marsh is the president of OUCH, Inc., and describes himself as a part-time farmer.

"Three Mile Island taught me what fail-safe means," he grimly noted while heading up a citizen's meeting of some 300 disgruntled residents in the Seven Valleys Fire Hall last week. "The long range knowledge on this problem is nonexistent."

One aggravated citizen at that meeting suggested that the area's groundhogs wouldn't be deterred by the shallow soil covering required over the buried wastes. An even greater worry is that the area has experienced two minor earthquakes in recent years, although neither was strong enough to have registered on the Richter scale.

Farmers are angry that DER says the site is not chiefly farmland when it's been exclusively used for crop production for the past several years, and the land surrounding it is considered prime farmland.

Marsh, who's spent most of his spare hours for the last month doing leg work on the dump problem, lives across Green Valley just down the hill from the Stabatrol planned waste burial site. He farms 35 acres in corn and Farm owner Stephen Marsh is president of OUCH, Inc., the citizens' group opposing the granting of permits for burial toxic chemical wastes.

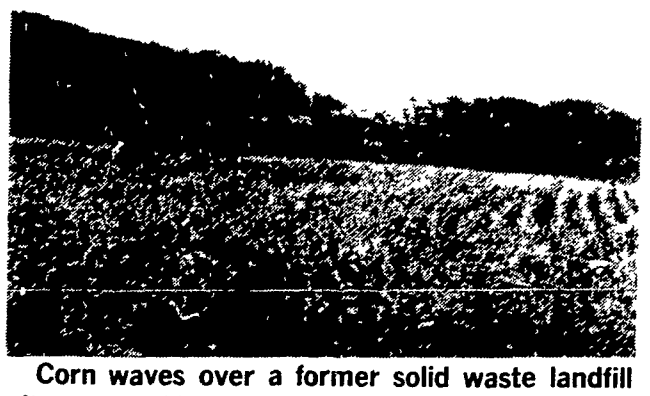
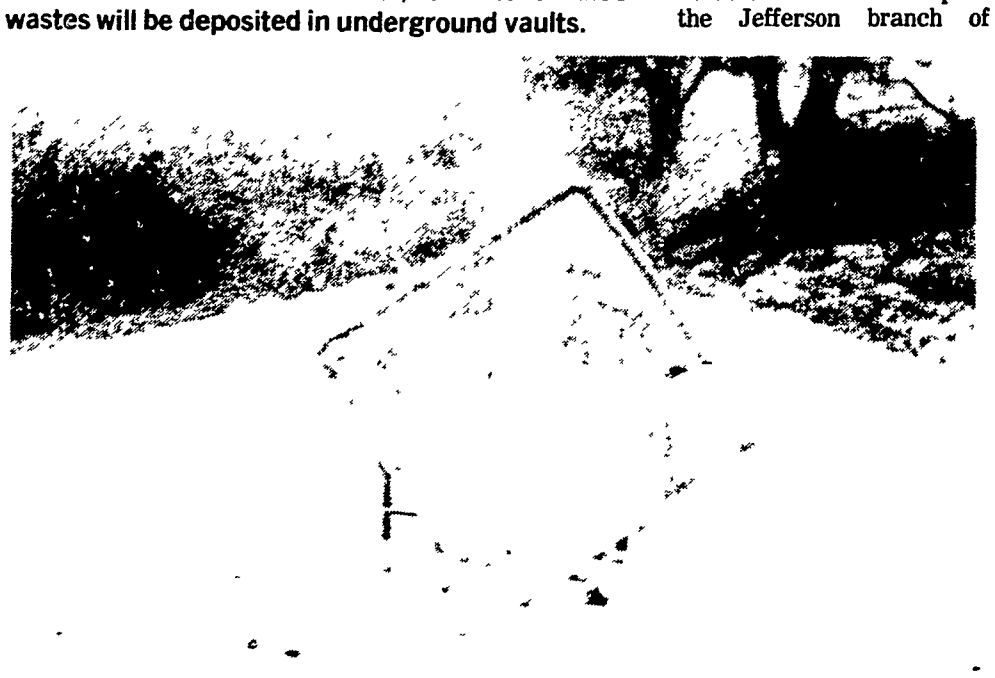
Stabatrol has begun working on roads to haul trucks loaded with barrels of toxic wastes into the treatment and above-ground storage site.



Corn waves over a former solid waste landfill site operated in the mid-70's by Sunny Farms. Just beyond the field, at the site of the old cattle feedlot sheds, farmers say the barrels of toxic chemicals will be stored on skids above ground. When sufficient quantities are gathered, and the soil conditions are correct for burial, the neutralized wastes will be deposited in underground vaults.



Hoff Road, which runs through the Stabatrol dumpsite, had been temporarily closed by supervisors. Farmers in the area point to the dirt throughway's foot-deep gullies as one example of the washout and runoff that comes down from the hillside farmland.

small grain, and runs a small herd of beef cattle. Rivulets and springs on his side of the hill eventually run into a larger stream that joins the South Branch of the Codorus at Seven Valleys and then flows into the watershed for the drinking reserves of the city of York.

"The potential property value damage to my farm was what got me initially involved in this," Marsh remembers. "But now the health and well-being of my family has become my prime concern."

A quote from the ABC television network documentary on chemical waste disposal problems, "The Killing Ground", sums up his opinion of the dump and has probably been something of an inspiration for Marsh's leadership in the fight.

"Hugh Kauffman, solid waste water assessment manager for the nation's Environmental Protection Agency, said on that program, 'At the present time, no government agency can adequately regulate the safety of these disposal sites'," Marsh quotes.

He added that Act 97, Pennsylvania's new legislation on hazardous waste control, is not likely to be of any immediate help.

While it has been passed by the state's legislative bodies, the method of implementing all the directives simply haven't been worked out yet. And, continues Marsh, a new federal Environmental Protection Agency Law regulating hazardous waste disposal is "in the same condition", with plans to issue interim permits until EPA gets its regulations drawn up.

"Under Public Law 241, the current state legislation, the old landfill was never inspected until numerous complaints had been registered by neighboring property owners," Marsh commented during the August 28 public information. Sunny Farms had operated that landfill, suspended in 1975, by DER because of a lack of proper monitoring wells.

Edward Simmons, DER's regional solid waste coordinator, is the official who both closed down the old landfill and has issued the permit for the chemical waste disposal site. That fact has the farmers perturbed, too.

"If they couldn't properly operate a solid waste dump, then how can we expect them to any kind of job with something as dangerous as hazardous industrial waste?" one spokesman asked at the OUCH meeting.

"They can't prove to me that it's fail-safe", insists Nelson Brenneman. "It's a heavy watershed area and no one can prove that there will never be any leakage. Water, from above and below, is their worst enemy.

"I understand they can only "vault" the wastes during the driest months of the year, possibly August through October. The rest of the time, those wastes would be stored in barrels on skids at the storage sheds, which is to be at the old cattle sheds near the top of the hill.

"We regularly get severe lightning across that hill, since it's an ironstone ridge and acts like a magnetic field."

The state of that ironstone ridge itself is just one more question that farmers hope to grill DER and company officials on if they can get a mid-month hearing they're requesting.

For some 30 years during the mid 1800's, iron ore was mined from the hills surrounding Green Valley and manufactured into products as a local industry. Farmers are worried that no one seems to know exactly where those old mine shafts and veins run, or whether they are tied in with underground water flows.

Brenneman says he received a letter from DER stating there are no mine shafts on the property and that no municipality receives its water from this particular source. He, and his farm, neighbors, remain unconvinced.

Farm owners and township officials hope they've bought some time with the courts injunction, which prohibits any dumping of waste within 500 yards of an occupied building before January 1981. North Codorus township has no zoning regulations and some residents now question if a zoning program would have stopped the dump idea before it ever got started right.

"I believe the state will override any township ordinances," Brenneman figures, expressing doubts that zoning would have done much good in this case.

A lawsuit by Sunny Farms against the township over their solid waste landfill somewhat confirmed that likelihood. The local courts had ruled in the company's favor, saying that the Pennsylvania Solid Waste Management Act preempts a township ordinance.

According to state Senator Ralph Hess of Spring Grove, North Codorus township is not the first place Stabatrol has run into citizen opposition.

Hess is chairman of OUCH's govenrment and legal subcommittee, and advised the citizen's meeting that the firm has been driven out of Bradford County, is in a court battle in Susquehanna County and before the county zoning board in Fayette County.

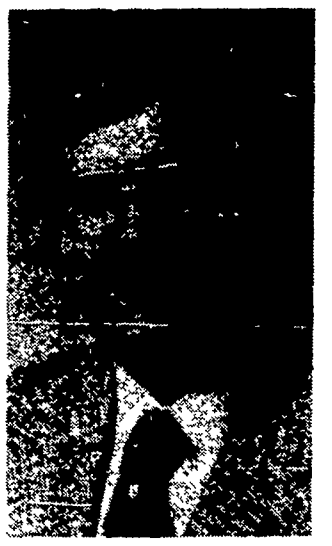
Any court decisions made in those cases could affect the North Codorus battle, since they would set a court precedent.

OUCH has printed a resolution to DER, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, EPA, and the York County Industrial Development Corporation stating that they are "appalled by the quiet, underhanded way in which Stabatrol Corp. (through Sunny Farms, Ltd.) was granted an industrial waste site permit in our township."

Some of the written reasons listed in the protest include Sunny Farm's improper landfill operation in the past, the proposed wastes that would be buried, the lack of guarantee of perpetual safety, the surrounding prime farmland, and public funding of "our own potential destruction through the York County Industrial Development Corporation."

The final paragraph summarizes why they have chosen to fight: "We, as citizens of North Codorus Township, can look forward to living in fear of the potential hazards (from simple soil and water pollution to the possibility of death) to animals, crops, ourselves, our children, our childrens' children until the end of time."

Association to meet Oct. 4



Barry L. Flinchbaugh, Assistant to the President and Associate Professor of Agricultural Economics at Kansas State University, will be featured speaker at the annual meeting and banquet of the Pennsylvania Livestock Association at 6 p.m. Saturday, October 4 at Crossgates Inn, Mechanicsburg.

A native of York, Flinchbaugh holds degrees in animal science and agricultural economics from Penn State and a doctorate in agricultural economics from Purdue University.

Flinchbaugh joined Kansas State University, Manhattan, in 1971 as an extension economist in public affairs and before being named Assistant to the President in December, 1976, set up and conducted statewide public affairs educational programs in such areas as financing state and local government, food policy, and use value appraisal of Kansas farmland.

In addition to serving as staff person to the President, he has line responsibilities for the Office of Information and the K-State Printing Service, and, in cooperation with others, helps coordinate all information and development programs at the University. He also serves as chairman of the Alfred M. Landon Lecture Series on Public Issues.

In 1973, Flinchbaugh was invited to Kansas Governor Robert B. Docking to participate in a Japanese Trade Mission, in 1977 he led a Kansas Agricultural People-to-People tour to the Soviet Union and European countries, and in 1979 led a similar tour to the South Pacific.

He receives approximately 100 speaking invitations per year and is the author of 50 plus publications.

Flinchbaugh is married to the former Catherine Scott, a 1969 KSU graduate originally from Washington, Kansas. They have two sons, David Lewis and James Truman.

to borrow until it's absolutely necessary."

Over 100 farmers have already filed applications for the two ASCS programs, in comparison with only two applications last year.

Reviewing the situation were Angerson, Judith Noyalas, executive director of the ASCS, Roslyn Kaher of the Soil Conservation District and Samuel Lewis of the Extension Service.

Also present were State Sen. Jeanette Reibman, State Rep. Russell Kowlayshyn, and a representative of U.S. Rep. Donald Ritter.

The politicians presented an interesting sidelight to the proceedings. Republican Ritter had issued a statement saying he would urge Governor Thornburgh to make the disaster declaration. Mrs. Reibman, a democrat, repeatedly made the point that the disaster status is decided within the structure of ASCS and FmHA and the governor has no say in the matter. Ritter is seeking re-election in November. His opponent is Mrs. Reibman.

Fine Trade

A couple of old friends ran into each other on a city street and began discussing the cute little dog one gent was taking for a walk. "Oh, what a cute little pup," commented the first. "I got it for my wife," beamed the other. "How'd you ever manage a fine trade like that?" was the incredulous reply.

Montgomery Co. Sheep Show champions posted

GAITHERSBURG, Md. — Last week's list of champions of the Montgomery County Fair was missing one important part, according to Pennsylvania sheep exhibitors who brought home some trophies — the sheep show results.

Two Pennsylvania breeders captured the grand championships in the Open Dorset and Shropshire shows.

Suzie and Bob Leib, owners of Shepherds Crook Farm, Mechanicsburg, took both grand championships in the Dorset competition with their ewe and ram entries.

In the Suffolk competition, Troy Ness, Dallastown, showed the champion ram.

Other champions in the open show included: Carol Irvine, Gaithersburg, Md. - Cheviot ewe and ram; George Pasley, New Windsor, Md. - Corriedale ewe and ram; Mary Hope, Knoxville, Md. - Hampshire ewe and ram; Susan Schoenian, Clarksville, Md. - Southdown ram; Kimberly Reinhold, Gaithersburg, Md. - Southdown ewe; Mary Rauschenberg, Woodbine, Md. - Suffolk ewe; and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Beall, Germantown, Md. - Shropshire ram.

In the 4-H competition, Carol Irvine once again had the champion Cheviot ewe and ram.

The champion Dorset ewe was shown by Sue Coleman, Boyds, Md., while Joseph Hagerty, Clarksburg, Md. exhibited the champion Dorset ram.

Jeff Hagerty tied up the championship ribbons in the Shropshire classes. The Clarksburg youth had both the top entries in ram and ewe competition.

Kimberly Reinhold's ewe was once again a champion in the 4-H show, along with her Southdown ram.

And, Juan Maldonado, Gaithersburg, Md., showed the champion Suffolk ewe and ram.

The grand champion Shropshire ewe at the Montgomery County Fair in Gaithersburg, Maryland, was exhibited by Charles (handling ewe) and Barbara Platt, Gettysburg.

That hat and its owner are pleased as punch that their little gal achieved her big dream

How about a nice, clean, new hat to wear to the fair.

Most of those other corn fellas give hats for buying.
We give hats and knives to our customers and friends for not buying.

This nice red, white and blue hat or one of our other gifts is our gift to our customers and friends for not buying now.

Some feel it is crazy to give a gift to corn farmers just for not buying early. But when you go around the country and see all the Jacques hats it sometimes looks like the whole world has decided not to buy early.

Our idea is that summer is the time to raise the hybrids that you planted last spring. You'll see soon enough which of those hybrids were strong and which were so weak they need to be replaced. Then's the time to buy.

By that time we will have the data on our trials, too. Those 517 Field Trials of ours will tell us — and you — how our present hybrids plus our five new hybrids did on farms right near you. And chances are, your favorite hybrid may be placed right alongside one of those new hybrids so you can see just how they compared.

So no matter which hybrids you're thinking of weeding out, you'll find our 1980 Yieldbook helpful. It's available this fall, and will have the comparisons you need. You can get a jump on things by sending in the coupon for last year's Yieldbook. You'll be amazed at all the information we have for you. Do it right away. And call your Jacques dealer for your free hat or other gift, if he hasn't already stopped by.

Rohrering Oaks tops MD Southdown competition

BY PAT KAUFFMAN

QUARRYVILLE — Gerald Rohrer, 14 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rohrer, R1 Quarryville, has a lot to be proud of this week. The young man exhibited both the Grand Champion Southdown Ram and Ewe at the Maryland State Fair open competition Tuesday and was named Premier Exhibitor.

While exhibiting a total of seven animals, Gerald garnered seven first placings, one in each of the following categories: yearling ram, yearling ewe, pair of yearling ewes, senior ewe lamb, junior ewe lamb, and Southdown flock.

Gerald's sister, Barbara, 9, took three animals to the fair and brought home first place honors in the pair of junior ewe lambs class. She also received third placings in the yearling ewe and junior ewe lambs categories.

Barbara, 9, and Gerald Rohrer, 14, are shown with Gerald's Premier Exhibitor banner and his grand champion Southdown ram. Rohrer animals swept the open Southdown competition Tuesday at Maryland State Fair.

Their mom, Anne, is obviously proud of the achievements, but quick to credit their Lancaster 4-H leader, Clyde Brubaker, with teaching the children the tricks of the business of showing.

Anne explained that the family started the kids' flock of 30 sheep with the Southdown breed because they are mild mannered and "known for their carcasses." She said that the breed is an older breed and used to be the most popular breed in the area 25 years ago.

Gerald said that this will be the last year of competition for his champion ram. Robert, his dad, explained that the same ram which took the Grand Championship at Timonium also took Champion Ram honors at the Keystone Livestock Expo last fall.

Robert said that the family started out with 2 ewe lambs about 4 years ago. This is the fourth year of 4-H work for Gerald, and Barbara's second year. All thirty animals are owned by the children.

The kids obviously enjoy their work with the animals, but point out that it is indeed work. Anne said the two youngsters spent two days washing the ten animal show string. Gerald, she said, spent 4½ hours grooming his champion ewe.

Anne contributed the labor to make 5 more sheep blankets to help preserve the animals' coats.

How does a young man of 14 win top honors in his breed in open competition at the Maryland State Fair? Both parents agreed that a lot has to do with the instruction the children have received at the 4-H meetings. And they concede they've tried to purchase quality animals. Both also said that since this is the first year the Lancaster sheep club has been separate from the beef club, they feel the sheep club members are gathering more information.

But Anne sums up the family's feelings on the 4-H projects when she says "you get out of 4-H what you put into it." It's obvious from talking to this family that they put a lot of love and pride into work with their Rohrering Oaks flock.

Pequea

of a complete redrafting. To this end he gave the Pequea Planning Commission a 6 inch stack of zoning research from other areas including ag ordinances from 5 of the 10 townships in the county who have constructed ag preserves.

Thomas said the increased restrictions "chop away at their (the farmers) right to farm."

Thomas also said that as the proposed regulations stand, it would be far easier to put up an airport than a house to hold 500 chickens. He also said there's no magic in numbers. He asked they stay away from simply increasing the numbers in the proposals to 10,000 or 20,000 chickens, "if raising chickens is agriculture, and I defy you to say that it is not."

Grove took issue with Thomas' plea to delete the numbers and referred to a Sangrey case in Conestoga Township as a case in point where regulations on numbers were necessary, at which point Sangrey, the farmer to whom Grove referred said Grove's statement was in error and the meeting nearly disintegrated into a shouting match.

Thomas also took issue with a previously uncontested section derived from the old zoning code which designates a farm as having 15 or more acres. Thomas said that other townships in the county define a farm in terms of 10 or more acres, a point which Grove said he agreed with.

Thomas' proposals were: to make farms 10 acres or more; to delete definitions of farms according to size and type; to create ag districts and preserve the right to farm in them; and to avoid aiming ordinances at particular problems or uses. To emphasize his point, he read a lengthy list of state and federal regulations currently in effect on farming operations and asked the planning commission to recognize the economic impact in terms of increased hearings and putting existing farmers out of business.

Only one resident of the township expressed interest in keeping the proposals as they stand concerning agriculture.

Max Smith, county extension agent addressed the regulations concerning aroma noting that he expects a breakthrough in manure handling in the future. He said, "the Lancaster County aroma has never proven to be injurious to health."

Smith also said that by severely limiting livestock and poultry operations in the township and with dairy and poultry ranking first and second in the state in economic importance, what the proposed changes would be doing is "creaming the top off the township agriculture."

Paul Whipple presented statistics on current poultry and hog numbers and management stating that in order to keep these farmers on the farm and to bring their sons into the business, and with the changing numbers in livestock, he felt that specific livestock numbers should be deleted from any zoning proposals. His statistics also were aimed at showing the inefficiency of small grain operations which are not using intensified livestock numbers.

Grove said that the reason the proposals were there was to insure peaceful coexistence between homeowners and farmers. He said that the farming community had previously expressed the wish to avail itself of the other uses, including the right to sell their farms to developers.

Mark Hess, whose family has owned a farm in the township since 1754 and a representative of Agway, said that the planning commission should "give it (agriculture) freedom with reasonable restrictions."

Grove again said that the two sides were basically representing different philosophical opinions of handling the farm-homeowner coexistence. He said if the board adopted the kind of policy Funk advocates many would be dissatisfied, and if there is anything less than that as a half way measure, there will have to be regulations on farming.

John Hinkle questioned Grove on how the proposals coincide with the Right to Farm bill currently under consideration by the state legislature.

George Rettew, the township engineer said there was no real pressure to update the zoning proposals. He said he felt the township officials were being unjustly criticized in their intent. He said the intent was simply cost efficiency in running the flood plain regulations together with the proposed zoning changes.

Grove said he didn't understand why the farmers had not given their input to the proposed changes prior to the meeting. Thomas responded to that by saying, "For crying out loud, this is the first public hearing, the first opportunity we've had, and we're here telling you to change it."

Thomas ended his pleas to the board on behalf of the farmers by saying, "There's no magic in September 24. Gentlemen, give it some more work."

Mark Hess said following the meeting that farmers are going to have to become more concerned. He said "They shouldn't wait until a near crisis like this one before concerning themselves with preserving their lot this year went to Pamela Greene of Jarrettsvile (Harford county). Her 100-pound wether brought $1.27½ per pound.

George Bowman, Jr., of West Friendship (Howard county) sold his grand champion dairy steer, a 1100 pound Holstein, for $1 per pound. It went to James W. May, a West Friendship neighbor. The price was a new record for the champion, but it only equaled the record for the class set last year by the reserve champion.

Average price this year for the eight dairy steers sold was 67 cents per pound. This was slightly above the prevailing market price, but a cent below last year's state fair average for an equal number of animals.

The top two animals in this year's 4-h and FFA beef steer show were both Angus-Chianina crossbreds. Glen Cook of Church Hill (Frederick county) sold his 1,175 pound grand champion for $1.65 per pound to Esskay, a major East Coast meat packer located in East Baltimore.

Lori Moxley, 18, of West Friendship (Howard county) got $1.35 per pound for her 1,180-pound Angus-Limous-in-Chianina steer. It was purchased by Farm and Home Service, a Southern States Cooperative store at Sykesville.

Average price for 31 beef steers in this year's sale was 92 cents per pound. This was about 20 cents per pound above both last year's sale average and the current market price.

As in most past years, Esskay purchased the grand champion 4-H and FFA market hog. This year's winner brought $3 per pound. It was a 200-pound Yorkshire-Hampshire crossbred gilt entered by Mike Hoff, 10, of Manchester (Carroll county).

Mike's cousin, Dawn Hoff, 14, also of Manchester, had the reserve champion market hog, a 240-pound purebred Hampshire gilt. It sold for $1.40 per pound, again going to Esskay.

In 1978, Dawn's brother, Danny Hoff, now 15, had the grand champion 4-H and FFA market hog at the Maryland State Fair. It was a 250-pound Yorkshire-Hampshire gilt and it went to Esskay for $2.60 per pound.

This year's sale average for 38 market hogs was 88 cents per pound. Prices for champions were not included in sale averages for all classes of 4-H and FFA livestock at the Maryland State Fair.

right to continue the business of farming."

Thomas said the planning commission knows now how the farmers feel and they will have to wait until the commission makes its recommendation to assess the progress made Thursday evening. He said, however, that if substantial changes are made in the proposals, another public hearing would be required.

At South Mountain Fair

The Reserve Grand Champion bull was shown by Blake McCleary, at halter. Also pictured is Blake's father, Bill, with Judge Shearer.

BY SHEILA MILLER

ARENDTSVILLE — The largest Open Breeding Beef Show ever was held at the South Mountain Fair on Tuesday evening. Over 50 entries of the dominating Polled Hereford breed competed, along with several Santa Gertrudis entries.

Spring Bottom Farm, Fairfield, captured the Grand Champion honors in the Polled Hereford Show in both the female and bull divisions.

"Rancher", calved May 1978, was bred by Spring Bottom Farm. He is the sire of the Reserve Bull Calf Champion, SBF Ryl Rancher, exhibited by Spring Bottom Farm.

The reserve calf champion, born May 10, 1980, teamed up with his dam, VH Westy Hilger, and together the pair walked off with the Grand Champion honors in the female division.

This was the first time a cow and calf pair class was held at a Pennsylvania Polled Hereford show, according to Association President Frank Darcey.

"Westy", owned and shown by Spring Bottom Farm, adds the South

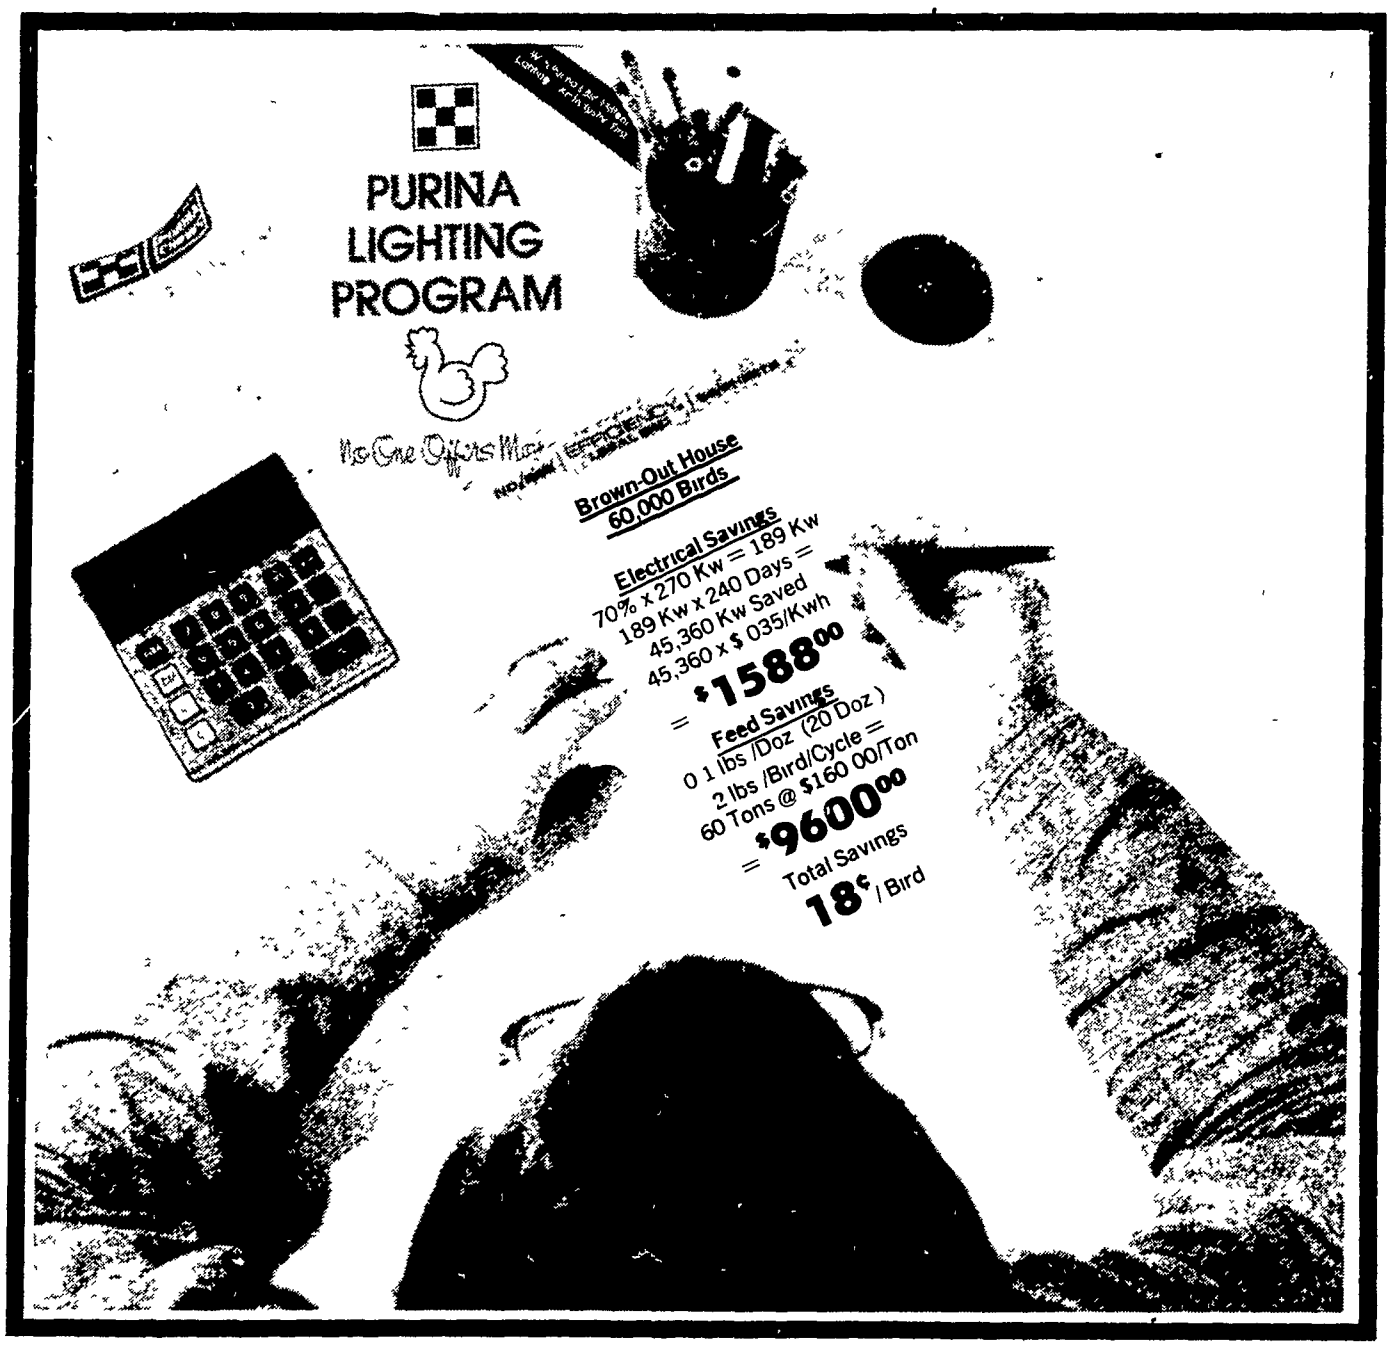
Bio-Mittent™ Lighting Makes Cents



Field results of Bio-Mittent lighting programs have confirmed what Purina research results have shown. Here are what three managers have had to say about their results:

"The most significant feature of the intermittent lighting program is a feed savings over birds that previously were on a full-fed program. I feel there is a potential for 40¢/bird increased income from using the intermittent lighting program. Mostly, this income is a feed savings, but some is associated with increases in egg size plus the potential for an extra 3 or 4 eggs per bird year" (Note, hens in some cases in this operation had been mechanically restricted with smaller egg size resulting.)

"Intermittent lighting does not affect production. It does definitely save electricity. We experience less mortaility with the experimental group (Bio-Mittent lighting). We have put four more houses on the program."

"I don't know why producers don't use Bio-Mittent™ Lighting just to save some electricity. We've also seen some improvement in feed conversion even though our house isn't light-tight."

Soil moisture remains top concern

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania farmers continue to watch soil moisture levels, as lack of adequate rainfall threatens their crops. During the week ending September 1, six days were rated as suitable for farm fieldwork, but soil moisture levels dropped again, according to the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service.

Farm activities during the week included harvesting of potatoes, tomatoes, snap beans, apples and peaches, along with other vegetables. Field activities included combining oats, baling hay and straw, plowing, clipping pastures, filling silos, harvesting tobacco and general repair work.

Harvest of apples and peaches continues across the state, with persistant reports of small sizes due to drought. Sweet corn, cabbage and tomato harvest also continue, with yield and quality reported somewhat lower than normal.

Soil moisture levels are rated mostly short to adequate statewide. Northern farmers report soils as 47 percent short, 47 percent adequate and six percent surplus. Central and southern farm operators reported soil moisture levels as 92 and 88 percent short, respectively.

Potato harvest was 34 percent complete statewide, compared to 33 percent a year ago. Northern Pennsylvania reported harvest of potatoes at 48 percent with both central and southern areas at 28 percent harvested.

Ensilage corn stood at 14 percent harvested statewide, ahead of the six percent mark at this time last year. Corn for grain is reported at 48 percent in dough and 29 percent in dent, statewide, compared to 53 percent in dough, 17 percent in dent and less than five percent mature last year A five year average shows corn to be 55 percent in dough, 26 percent in dent and less than five percent mature at this time.

Harvest of oats is virtually complete statewide, ahead of last year's 92 percent. Tobacco harvest is 30 percent complete, slightly ahead of the 28 percent harvested last year

Fall plowing is now 33 percent complete, compared to 30 percent a year ago. Plowing stands at 30 percent in the north, 40 percent in central counties and 26 percent in the southern counties.

Second cutting of alfalfa moved to 91 percent statewide, ahead of the 88 percent cut last year. Harvest was virtually complete in central and southern areas, and at 85 percent in the north. Third cutting advanced to 59 percent statewide, compared to 33 percent last year. Northern farmers reported 77 percent complete. Fourth cutting advanced to ten percent statewide, ahead of the less than five percent harvested last year at this time.

Second cutting of clover-timothy rated 92 percent statewide, well ahead of last year's 67 percent.

The quality of hay made during the week was rated good to fair across the state. Feed from pasture was rated below average to average. Pasture was rated 43 percent below average, 50 percent average and seven percent above average in the north, while central and southern areas rated pastures at 73 and 71 percent below average, respectively

All fuels for use on farm were rated as adequate to surplus, across the state.

Egg promotion checkoff vote due next fall

LANCASTER — A referendum to ammend the Egg Research and Promotion Order probably will be held sometime next fall.

According to Cary Bradley of United Egg Producers the referendum, if approved, would allow the American Egg Board to increase assessments from a nickle to 7.5 cents per case at the time of producer approval.

The checkoff level could increase by no more than three-quarters of a cent per year. In any case the total checkoff would not be allowed to exceed 10 cents.

The U.S. Secretary of Agriculture would be authorized to appoint two consumer representatives, nominated by certified industry organizations, to the 18 member American Egg Board.

Also included in the referendum proposal is a change in the procedure for collecting the assessments.

The referendum probably will be held within 12 to 14 months, or in the Fall of 1981.

The estimate is based on time needed for publication of the referendum proposal in the Federal Register, comment periods, public hearings, reviews, revisions, and finally, the referendum itself.

The amendment to the enabling legislation was signed into law by President Jimmy Carter on June 17.

The amendment, developed by the special Industry Promotion Task Force, received widespread support from industry organizations and individuals, Bradley said.

The measure sailed through both houses of Congress.

If approved by egg producers during the refereendum, the above-mentioned changes would take effect.

FARM EQUIPMENT

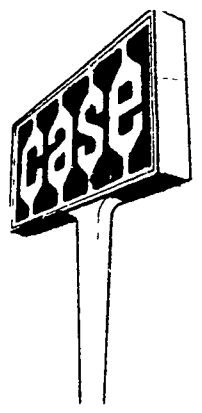
The Tractor Specialist sells more "up-time"



When the farmer is ready, his tractor had better be That's one reason a Case dealer franchise makes extra good sense

As a Case dealer, you're the Tractor Specialist You sell and service the best in farm tractors And you are backed by an industry first Assured Availability It means that, during warranty, if a tractor bought from you isn't ready to go you can offer your customer free use of a replacement And Case will back you up Proof that when a Case dealer needs help, we do something about it

You could be planning a bright future as your area's Tractor Specialist You could also consider our light construction equipment line Write or call for full information on the Case dealer franchise

TORQUE AMPLIFIER, CLUTCH & WATER PUMP PARTS & SERVICE

Rebuilt TA assemblies for IH tractors from SMTA through 1586 Water pumps, Dyna-Life clutches and pressure plates from A, B, C through 1586 and for many of the combines, 101 - 303 through the 915

If you are operating a shop or are a farmer who does his own mechanical work, then you will do well to compare the parts which I have to offer Complete rebuilt TA assemblies for 706 - 1586 are priced from $525.00 and come with a Dana Co heavy Duty Sprag clutch instead of the usual IH sprag These TA units are being installed in many of the leading IH shops across the country instead of the IH units

Also have available assorted parts for TA's which are not available individually through new parts at IH I am prepared to do complete installation at competitive prices and will match any guarantee that is offered on TA units or rebuilt clutches, pressure plates & water pumps. I will also install original factory parts on request

For a no obligation estimate or for information and references write or call me

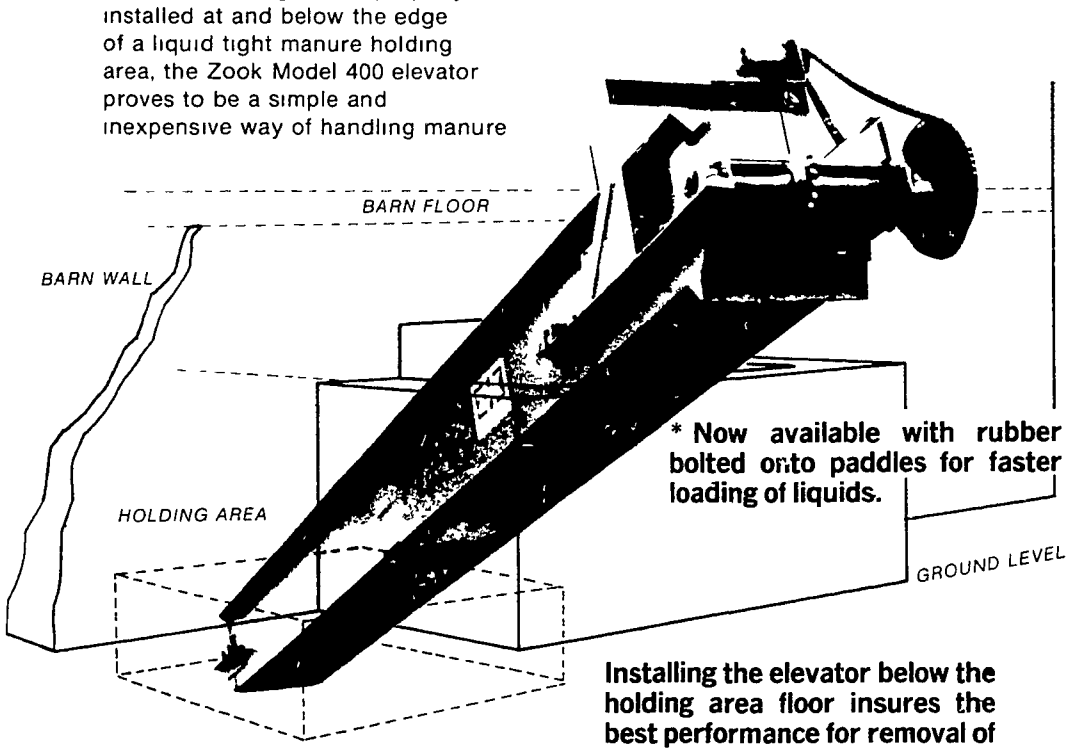
Manure Handling Equipment

Model 400 Manure Elevator

Here's a whole new concept in manure handling! When properly installed at and below the edge of a liquid tight manure holding area, the Zook Model 400 elevator proves to be a simple and inexpensive way of handling manure



* Now available with rubber bolted onto paddles for faster loading of liquids.

Installing the elevator below the holding area floor insures the best performance for removal of manure.

- Handles both liquid and semi-solid manure
- Few moving parts require almost no maintenance
- Corrosion resistant high strength Corten steel construction
- Self lubricating bottom end bearings

GUNITE
Silo Relining & Repairs

Extensive tests have been conducted on Gunite Below are some of the properties of Gunite

1 Excellent bonding
2 High Density
3 Extreme strength and hardness
4 High resistance to absorption

The excellent physical properties of the material are due to the water content being only the amount needed to satisfy chemical hydration

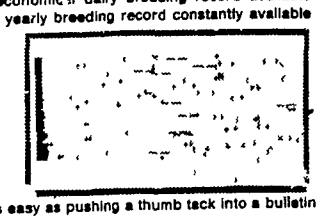
The ATTA GLANCE COW DIARY

The simplest most economical dairy breeding record available keeps your entire herd a yearly breeding record constantly available Atta Glance

50 cow size costs $4 4 95 is 24 x 42 has mounting straps and can be wiped clean



Keeping records is as easy as pushing a thumb tack into a bulletin board

Each cow s name or number is placed in the left margin on any of the 50 horizontal lines using embossing tape (shown above) or use felt tip or grease pens Color coded pins are then placed on that line to record the dates of breeding and freshening

Hisex White wins more contests around the world than any other layer! The secret is consistency — more eggs on less feed, more profit over feed cost flock after flock, under all sorts of commercial conditions! No wonder so many more egg producers are scoring with our white bird. Hisex Brown, so easy to grow and handle, has everything, too — high peak, big hen-housed production, penny-pinching feed conversion You have to look to be sure it's brown! So whichever league you're in, get with a winner! Talk it over with your Hisex Representative. Soon.

JET STREAM ties together many desirable qualifications - a strong pedigree, an outstanding predicted difference, and an exceptional type transmitting pattern

JET STREAM daughters have real dairy quality with flat, clean bone and well-attached high quality udders Look for him to be an improver of center support, teat size and shape, and fore and rear udders

His flatbone characteristics set to the leg, width of rump and width of pelvic and thigh area along with his dairy strength makes him a fine mating for ELEVATION and ASTRONAUT daughters A cross that should produce outstanding results

JET STREAM's second crop daughters are outstanding The number of daughters in his production proof now totals 6102 and his daughters classified more than tripled The dairymen milking JET STREAM's are very pleased with some two year olds milking over 90 lbs of milk per day You can see why they are using him, again! You should too!

BEACON SUPER NURSE GIVES YOU 20/20 FORESIGHT AND A FREE BUCKET!

The milk replacer with 20% protein and 20% fat.

Someday, your heifer calves will be profitable cows. That's because today, you've got the foresight to use a product from the leader in high-energy milk replacers—Beacon. It's called Super Nurse, and it's one super milk replacer.

Super Nurse gives you the healthiest calves. It's the next best thing to whole milk. In fact, it's better, because of added Vitamin D and antibiotics. The reason we say it gives you 20/20 foresight is that it's a guaranteed mix of 20% protein and 20% fat. Super Nurse fed calves respond to this all-milk product with rapid early growth, strong bones, and a smooth coat.

And it's an EZ Mix formula!

We also make Calf Nurse. It gives you Beacon quality at an economy price.

And now, for a limited time, with any 100-lb. order of Beacon Super Nurse or Calf Nurse, we'll give you a free bucket. See your Beacon dealer now.

French agricultural student spends a month in Lancaster County

Veronica Chable is comfortable in southern Lancaster County

BY SALLY BAIR
Staff Correspondent

Veronique Chable is a French agricultural student who is spending a month on a southern Lancaster County dairy farm. She has found few surprises after all, her father drives the same kind of tractor as her host family and there are the same kind of milking machines to be found on French dairy farms.

Nevertheless, she is finding the experience valuable, saying, "It is good to see this country. In France we imagine what it is like, and it is interesting to see for myself."

Twenty-one-year-old Veronique is staying in the home of Bill and Evelyn Suydam, R1 Quarryville, and their three children, Isaac, 4½, Leona, 3, and Clayton, 1. She works along with them on their farm, but they have taken her to neighboring farms and plan to show her more while she is here. Evelyn said, "She knows the basics, but we want to take her to different farms and give her a view of as many different kinds of agriculture as we can."

Veronique is at home in the Maine region of France which is south of Normandy. Her father farms approximately 185 acres of wheat, corn and rape. The family feeds about 20 steers on some land that they cannot cultivate, and her mother raises rabbits which are marketed for meat. Her mother has 100 female rabbits, and a buyer visits the farm every two weeks, Veronique said.

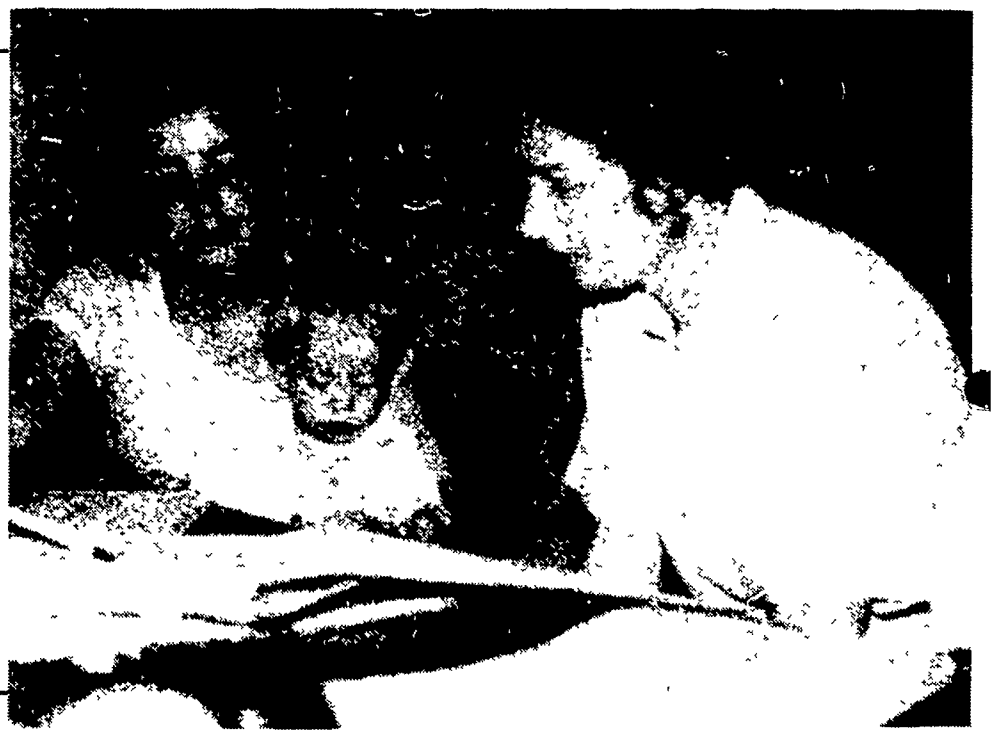
In the region where she lives, Veronique relates that it is common for farmers to rent land, and rented farms are generally larger than farms which are owned. She said that farms are rented from artistocratic families who have large land holdings, and the right to farm is inherited by the son in the family much as ownership would be. If a farmer should not have an heir, he can designate the person whom he would like to have follow in his footsteps - a nephew, perhaps or some other relative. In the case of the Chable family, Veronique's 19-year-old brother will inherit the right to farm. Her father had inherited his right from his father.

Veronique explained that farm rental is long-term, with an 18-year lease and an almost guaranteed right to renew. She said further that it would be very difficult for her father to rent additional acreage because, according to law, preference is given to a person who is not in farming.

This policy is in line with the government's wish to keep small farms operating. Veronique said the disappearance of small, traditional farms is a problem in France, but that the government has taken steps to keep more from disappearing. She echoed words heard frequently in this country with regard to farming operations. "It is not possible to live on small farms; they must get bigger and bigger. To get money for farming from a bank, you must have a diploma in agriculture. It is more and more difficult."

The government's policy on land use, Veronique said, was developed within the last few years. She states, "There is not much land in France." In fact, France is about five times the size of Pennsylvania, according to some hasty research done by the Suydams, and its population is more than 50 million.

Veronique explained that her father markets his corn directly from the field because he would need a dryer if he were to store it and that would be very expensive. Wheat, on the other hand, is stored and marketed through April or May. She said farmers use both cooperatives and private merchants, and prices are dependent upon the European Economic Community.



Veronique Chable, left, and her host Evelyn Suydam look over some Dairy Herd Improvement records. Veronique is visiting from France in an effort to learn more about agriculture in Pennsylvania, and will stay on the Suydam's dairy farm for one month.

While Veronique has not yet decided what kind of job she wants to have when she graduates, she says that she will be able to choose from any number of jobs because she will have a degree in agricultural engineering. Eventually, she says, "I should like to have a farm." In the meantime she will work for another farmer or in an ag-related industry. "We can do many things with our diploma," she states. "We can do every job in agriculture."

Homestead Notes

She is attending a "Grand Ecole" for which she needed to take a competitive exam which included such subjects as math, biology, physics and other science. There are 400 positions in the several "Grand Ecole" throughout France, and entrance is given according to top scores.

While job hunting was easier about four or five years ago, Veronique said graduates from her school do not have difficulty getting jobs because the school's reputation is so good. She said it is not like attending a university where any student can be admitted.

Being a woman in agricultural schools is not difficult for Veronique, but she said the female students were admitted just 10 years ago, and then only one or two. Slowly more girls became students there, and today there are 30 women studying agriculture. "Every year there are more and more," she says.

Helping with the milking is one of the chores Veronique has learned since her arrival two weeks ago. Although she had never milked a cow, she now helps regularly with milking chores.

Just as in this country, Veronique states, "More and more women work outside the home in France." She is looking forward to a career, but she adds, "I should like to live on a farm because then I can work and have children."

Although she has never lived on a dairy farm, Veronique proudly says, "Now I know how to milk cows." She works along with the Suydams whenever possible, although August is a time when little field work is being done. One of her favorite jobs, she admits, is feeding the calves in their hutches. This is one new idea she will take back to France with her.

Dairy farms here are very similar to dairy operations in France, although Veronique says only very large farms have silos because they are so expensive.

Veronique said, "I am not surprised to see that all is bigger here. That I knew. It is very easy to adapt to life here." Evelyn adds, "She has accepted our way very well."

Veronique feels that the way of living is much the same in the two countries, especially on the farm, but was surprised about the importance of a car to American

(Turn to Page C4)

Veronique's favorite job on the farm is feeding the calves in their hutches. She says raising calves in hutches is one new idea she will take with her when she returns. In other respects, dairy farms in France do not differ much from American dairy farms.

On being a farm wife -And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

It's an American institution: the county fair.

A potpourri for the senses, the sights, sounds and smells of fairs fill a warm place in the dreams of children and the memory of adulthood.

Flashing bursts of brilliantly colored lights, throbbing rock music and the wheedling call of the chance game barkers pulsate over the froth of the fair, the inevitable midway. Generators roar and motors hum as ferris wheel buckets soar skyward, screams of terror and delight trail off behind zooming roller coaster cars and kids bounce with ecstacy on that grandaddy of giant jumping mattresses, the moonwalk. Less adventuresome toddlers, on their first carousel ride, clutch the painted horses in serious self-consciousness, while doting grandmothers grin and wave each time the ride comes around.

Calorie-laden junk food reigns supreme, enticing fairgoers with rich smells that hang heavy over sun-warmed blacktop and dusty grass. Treat your tastebuds and make a selection from the bounty: onioned and peppered Italian sausages, funnel cakes fresh from the hot fat and fancied with confectioner sugar make-up, spicy pizza dripping with thick tomato paste and cheese that stretches away when you bite in. Finish it off with facefuls of cotton candy, that spun-sugar cloud with a cardboard handle.

But beware of the child at your elbow gluing himself together with the bright red candy apple.

Color and fragrance of a different sort envelope visitors who step through the doors of the horticulture displays. Grapes of dark purple and bright pink brilliance view for attention over plates of juicy red tomatoes, fat and smooth orange pumpkins and tastefully arranged baskets of multi-hued gourds and Indian corn. Off to the side is food for the soul, entries of posy perfection sending out flowery perfumes from their crayon-box assortment of shades.

But for me, the heart of the fair is the stock barns. There's an atmosphere of friendship, of camaraderie, wrapped within its blend of hay, sawdust, manure, fresh molasses feed, soap, oil, leather halters and arena dust.

Here the drawing card is pens of finely-bred cattle, shining with their washed coats, bedded up to their bellies in gleaming yellow straw and being treated like royalty. Sheep nibble delicately at choice feed, content in the knowledge that their thick, curly coats, teased to show-off fluffiness, have never looked better. And pudgy pigs, grunting with contentment after a cooling bath and a tasty pan of ground corn, flop down in a corner to snooze away their stay at the fair, oblivious to little kids who hang in over the pens and poke them in the hams.

Poultry cages explode in a cackling, crowing, gobbling, quacking and cooing songfest, the residents seemingly chuckling among themselves about the strange things you see at a fair. Only the bunnies take it in silence, preening themselves and resting in quiet elegance under the smoothest of fur coats.

And then suddenly its over, and the buildings grow silent and windswept for another year.

Make a dream come true and plant a memory. Visit your county fair families. "You need your cars for everything. And you have drive-in movies and drive-in restaurants." With gasoline costing nearly $4.00 per gallon, French people are more conserving than Americans. Veronique said, "We learn to walk and to ride the bicycle."

Eating in the United States is not like in France, and while she talked briefly about the differences, Veronique shrugged them off, saying, "It is not important." The two things which struck her most sharply were the abundance of sugar in the diet and the different kind of bread. She said, "There is sugar in everything - there is too much sugar. Our bread is very different. In France everybody eats the same things. We are more traditional in our eating. Bread is very important in our meals. We eat our meals, plate by plate, not everything at once." Veronique has promised to cook a meal French meal for the Suydams, including individual courses, and the whole family is looking forward to it.

She said she thinks foods are cheaper here, but added that American families seem to begin with more processed foods. "We make our own mayonnaise - without sugar," she stated.

While she has not spent much time shopping, she said paper and books appear to be cheaper here. She said France must import all its paper which makes it very expensive, and she added that one American newspaper would make 10 French newspapers.

A visit to an Amish neighbor was interesting for Veronique. She said, "Their way of life is quite interesting. Perhaps there is something that we can learn from their experience. Perhaps they can teach us to use less energy. I don't find them backward in their farming." Evelyn said Veronique was intrigued with their windmills, and feels they are a sensible use of the wind.

Veronique's English is quite good, making it easy to communicate. She pointed out that many words are exactly the same, although when pronounced in French they sound very different. After two weeks here she is feeling a little more confident about her speaking, but she has her dictionary handy and frequently refers to it to make sure a meaning is understood.

She had a further word on government regulations which should cheer Americans who sometimes think the government is involved in every aspect of life. "You remain freer here. We have more government than you do," she stated. She gave two examples of laws in France which are not found in this country. French people are required by law to wear seat belts and children are not allowed to ride in the front seat of a car, restrained or not.

Veronique said she chose to participate in this program arranged through her school because, "I was curious to see the life in this country." She said she had no preconceived ideas but was ready to see for herself. Currently, there are seven French students visiting on farms in Southeastern Pennsylvania. Other students from the school are in other countries of the world, experiencing farm left there. Veronique could have chosen to go to any English or Spanish-speaking country since she knows both languages, but she is happy to have the opportunity to visit the United States.

When she returns to her native land on September 17, she will have had a close view of farm and family life in Lancaster County and an experience which she'll remember always.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

I've decided to tell you about a day in the life of our 16 year old daughter, Cindy. It pretty well summarizes the way her summer has gone-busy, busy.

She has spent one week in Washington, D.C. at the Citizenship Short Course, four days at a Conference at Millersville State College and three trips to Penn State for different events.

But let's get to what is known as 4-H Achievement Day in Lancaster County. She had four projects to complete and show. Naturally, the Geology was only completed the night before as she typed up the sheet explaining her 20 rocks. Then she baked her Senior Food entry and also 30 cupcakes to donate the following day. This work lasted until past midnight and she was up at 5 o'clock the next morning to arrange bouquets for her Flower project.

To complicate things, she had to go to band practice at school from 8 to 12 o'clock. However, she did ask off a bit early in order to try and pick out some vegetables for yet another 4-H project.

Did you ever try to find 10 perfectly straight beans that were exactly the same length? She had to sort through a whole basket of them. And five onions that are quintuplets posed the same problem. Vegetables just don't grow "perfect" in size and shape.

She then dashed to Lancaster after lunch to display her things and also take charge of a Mini-Olympics for which she and another girl had recruited 26 teenagers to lead young children in games all afternoon.

To top off the day, she had to hurry home and change into an evening gown as she was a nominee for 4-H Senior Queen. Her brother so graciously offered to tend the calves for her and even so she had less than an hour to eat, shower and get ready to leave again.

She did not become Queen but she did get eight awards for achievement in different areas and came home with eight insulated travel mugs.

Enough to start housekeeping, I teased her.

Pies - we've got a bumper crop

Here in recipeland a bumper crop of pie recipes has been growing, and today we're going to harvest some of them. From Shoo Fly Pies in response to a reader's question for a good wet-bottomed recipe, to Watermelon Chiffon, you'll enjoy trying these recipes on your family and friends.

Pies are the perfect solution to a lot of hot weather problems such as family reunions and picnics. They generally carry well and serve easily and are a snap to store. So why not get up the crust to try one of these today?

WATERMELON CHIFFON PIE

2½ cups strained watermelon juice
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
⅔ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 egg whites
1 cup heavy cream

For juice, cut melon into cubes and rub through a strainer to remove seeds and membranes. Sprinkle gelatin over 1 cup of juice in a saucepan. Place over low heat, stirring until gelatin dissolves. Remove from heat and stir in ⅓ cup sugar and salt. Add the remaining 1½ cups of juice and lemon juice. Chill until the mixture mounds slightly when dropped from a spoon. Beat egg whites until stiff. Add remaining ⅓ cup sugar and beat until very stiff. Fold into the watermelon mixture. Whip the cream until stiff. Fold in. Turn the mixture into a prepared pie shell. Chill until set, several hours. Garnish with watermelon balls and mint.

Barbara Russell, Pine Bush, New York

MOCK PECAN PIE

¼ cup butter or margarine
½ cup sugar
1 cup dark corn syrup
¼ teaspoon salt
3 eggs, well beaten
½ cup coconut
½ cup quick cooking oatmeal
1 9-inch unbaked pastry shell

Cream butter to soften. Add sugar gradually and cream until fluffy. Add syrup and salt and beat well. Add eggs one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Stir in coconut and oatmeal. Pour into unbaked pastry shell. Bake in a moderate oven, 350° F. for 50 minutes or until a knife inserted off-center comes out clean. Cool before serving.

Mrs. David Stauffer, Ephrata

PEACH PIE

1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1½ eggs (1 egg plus the yolk of another)
3 cups peeled and sliced peaches
1 9-inch unbaked pie shell

Mix the ingredients except the peaches together until well blended. Place the peaches in an unbaked pie shell. Spoon the sauce over the peaches. Bake at 350° F. until a golden brown.

Mollie Fantom Tressler, Marietta

RAISIN PUDDING PIE

1 cup seedless raisins
1 large package vanilla pudding mix
2 cups milk
1 cup thawed Cool Whip
1 teaspoon lemon juice
dash of cinnamon
1 baked 9-inch pie shell, cooled

Pour boiling water over raisins to cover. Let stand 5 minutes and drain well. Prepare pie filling mix using 2 cups milk. Chill thoroughly. Fold in whipped topping, lemon juice, cinnamon and raisins. Spoon into the pie shell. Chill 3 hours. Garnish if desired.

Regina Raudabaugh, Shippensburg

PUMPKIN CREAM CHEESE PIE

1 cup graham cracker crumbs
¼ cup butter or margarine, melted
4 3-ounce packages of cream cheese
¾ cup sugar
1½ tablespoons flour
¾ teaspoon grated lemon peel
¾ teaspoon grated orange peel
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
2 eggs
2 egg yolks
1 cup canned pumpkin

Mix the graham cracker crumbs and shortening together lightly with a fork. With the back of a metal spoon, press to the bottom and sides (not the rim) of a 9 inch pie plate. Refrigerate.

In a large bowl with an electric mixer, combine cheese, sugar, flour, peels, vanilla, eggs, egg yolks and pumpkin. Beat at medium speed until smooth. Turn into the crust. Bake for 35-40 minutes at 350° F. or until the center of the pie seems firm when gently shaken.

Sour Cream Topping.
1½ cups sour cream
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla extract

In a small bowl, combine all ingredients and mix well. Do this while the pie is baking. When the pie comes out of the oven, spread the top of the pie evenly with the topping. Bake 10 minutes longer. Let the pie cool completely, about 1 hour. Serve the pie very well chilled. Refrigerate at least 4 hours.

Mrs. Leo Barsnica, Neshanic Station, New Jersey

COCONUT PIE

1 cup coconut
2 eggs, separated
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
dash of salt
1 pint milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
butter the size of a walnut

Bake your favorite shell for 10 minutes at 400° F. Heat milk, then slowly add sugar. Add the cornstarch dissolved in a little milk, then the beaten egg yolks. Just before taking custard from the stove, add vanilla, butter, salt and half of the coconut. Put in the baked shell. Cover with meringue. Sprinkle with the rest of the coconut over the meringue and bake 10 minutes at 350° F.

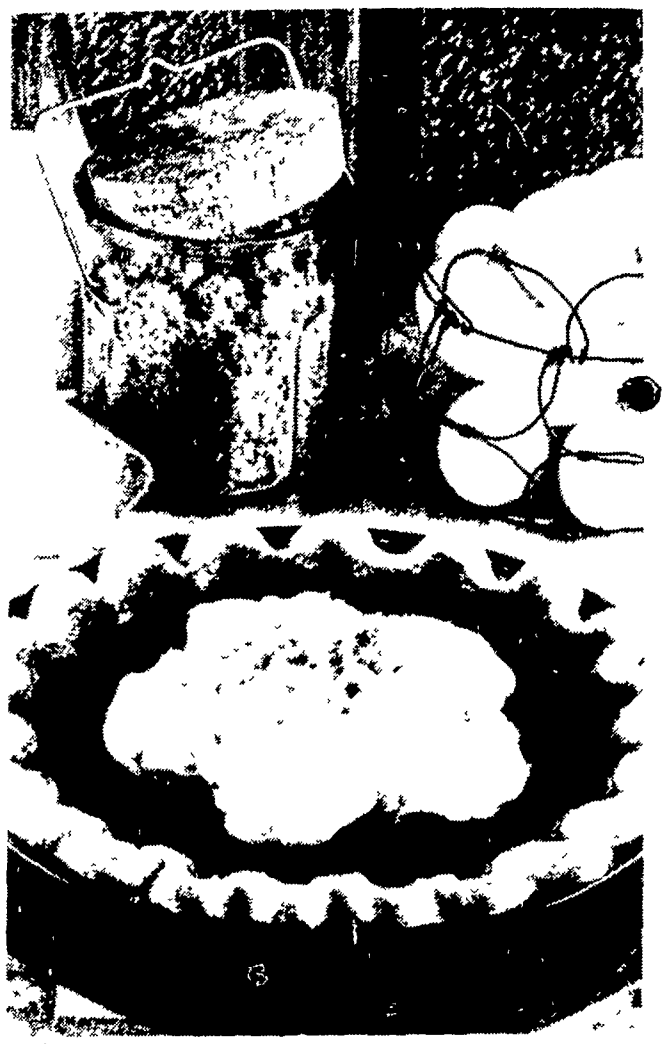
Zelda Smith, White Hall, Maryland

CREME DE CACAO PIE

1 quart coffee ice cream
1 9-inch graham cracker or chocolate wafer pie shell
1 pint pistachio, butter pecan or French vanilla ice cream
½ cup dark creme de cacao or chocolate syrup

Soften the coffee ice cream slightly. Pack into the pie shell. Freeze until firm, at least 1 hour. At serving time, place a scoop of pistachio ice cream on each serving and drizzle with 1-2 tablespoons creme de cacao.

Carol Fantom, Delta



This Chess Pie may be just the something different your family's appetites will enjoy. With it's brown sugar custard and topping of whipped cream, it tastely combines rich and lush.

RHUBARB SPONGE PIE

2 egg yolks
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
2 egg whites, stiffly beaten
2 cups fresh or frozen rhubarb, diced
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 9-inch unbaked pie shell

Beat the yolks in a bowl. Add flour and melted butter and stir in the milk. Add the sugar and lemon juice. Stir in the beaten egg whites. Place the rhubarb in the pie shell and pour the mixture over it. Bake at 450° F. for 10 minutes. Reduce the heat to 350° F. and bake for 30 minutes longer.

Ladies Have You Heard?

By Doris Thomas
Lancaster Extension Home Economist

YOUR RIGHT AS A PARENT

Don't be afraid to become involved with your child's school this year. This was the most common answer schoolteachers gave when asked, "what are the major things parents should be aware of as the new school year begins?"

It is your right as a parent to know what is going on in your child's school. Teachers say that many parents feel intimidated by the school. Either they don't realize that it is their right to have a say in what the school does with their child or they are afraid to approach the school.

Parents can feel intimidated for a number of reasons. As parents of young children your inexperience with the school may be the cause. You may simply not realize that you have this right.

As parents of adolescents you may be somewhat fearful of the school. Many large junior and senior high schools are awesome in terms of physical size and numbers of students. The building is confusing, the child has several teachers, the schedule is complex, and everyone appears so busy.

Don't let these things stop you from calling the school early in the school year for any reason. Most teachers welcome an interested and concerned parent.

Perhaps you may want to meet each teacher individually to discover what your child will be doing during the semester. You talk informally about any concerns you may have about your child. This helps the teacher tremendously in understanding why students behave in certain ways in the classroom.

Attendings parents' night is another way to meet all the teachers and become familar with the school. A teacher in one Pennsylvania town said that out of 200 students she had last year only five parents came to parents' night. To her this conveyed a lack of interest by parents.

If you have questions about what is being done in the classroom, arrange a conference with the teacher. Find out what is actually going on and don't be afraid to voice your opinion about what you feel should be done. By establishing this line of communication small problems can be avoided, or at least remedied before they become large problems. Joint efforts between the school and the parents are the best ways to insure that your child's experience in school is the best it can be.

Become an involved parent, know what is going on, and don't let yourself be afraid of the school. The school and the teachers want you to know that it is your right.

OLD INFLATION IDEAS MAKE COMMON "CENTS"

Tips on how to beat the high cost of food—even though they may have been around for years—are still good ideas today. Here are some suggestions.

You can cut down on sugar without giving up the sweetness you may crave. One way is to use the syrups from canned fruits. You can sweeten gelatin salads or fruit punches or even baste a ham.

Syrups contain sugar as well as fruit nutrients. And while using syrups will save you money on sugar, they also help you get more dollar value out of canned fruits.

When you shop for eggs, if you have a choice between two sizes of the same grade eggs and the difference in price is less than 10 cents a dozen, it pays to get the larger size. You may also have to decide between Grade A and Grade B eggs. Grade A eggs look better when they're cooked.

When you want your eggs to be particularly attractive, for example, when you fry or poach eggs, use Grade A. You can save money by using Grade B eggs for baking when they are available at the market.

Generally, smart shoppers compare prices between fresh and processed meat on a cost-per-saving basis. Fresh meats contain some waste in the form of fat and bone, so some canned meat may be the better buy.

Meat is presently consumers' primary source of protein. However, it's an expensive one. Stretch protein in meals by combining meats with pasta, other cereal products or dry beans.

Figuring Fleet Costs? Remember . . . .
Propane is better.

Maintenance? Clean-burning LP-gas eliminates carbon build-up and engine sludge that causes poor performance and result in costly downtime for repairs and overhauls.

Parts costs? Fewer tune-ups, fewer oil changes, no fuel pump these mean money in your pocket

Cost per gallon? Figure it out in your own area Most often, LP-gas wins over gasoline hands down

Fuel availability? Many types of fleet vehicles qualify as priority users of LP-gas. Check your situation with your local dealer

When a gasoline engine needs replacement an LP gas powered engine still has a long way to go nearly twice as long That's like getting two engines for the price of one

BANANA CREAM PIE

⅔ cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
½ teaspoon salt
3 cups milk
3 beaten egg yolks
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 bananas
1 baked pie shell

On the stove, heat the sugar, cornstarch, salt and milk. Add the egg yolks, butter and vanilla. In a prepared pie shell, slice the bananas. Pour the pudding mixture over and chill at least 1 hour.

Mrs. Ray Seidel, Lenhartsville

OLD FASHIONED CUSTARD PIE

3 cups milk
⅓ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
3 eggs
2 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
1 9-inch pie shell

Mix the sugar and flour, then add the beaten egg. Bring the milk to the boiling point and pour it gradually into the egg flour mixture. Pour the mixture into the unbaked pie shell and add the salt. Sprinkle nutmeg on the top. Bake in 350° F. oven for 45 minutes.

Edna Brubaker, Denver

KEY LIME PIE

1 3-ounce package lime gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1-2 teaspoons grated lime rind
½ cup lime juice
1 egg yolk well beaten
1⅓ cups sweetened condensed milk (14-ounce can)
1 teaspoon aromatic bitters
1 egg white
few drops green food coloring, optional
1 baked 9-inch pie shell, cooled

Dissolve the gelatin in boiling water. Add the lime rind and juice. Pour slowly into the beaten egg yolk, stirring constantly. Add the condensed milk and bitters. Chill until slightly thickened. Beat the egg white until stiff peaks form. Fold into the gelatin mixture and add food coloring. Pour into a pie shell. Chill until firm, about 3 hours. Garnish with lime slices or whipped topping.

Mrs. Caleb Stauffer, Ephrata

CHERRY CREAM PIE

2 baked 9-inch pie shells
1 quart milk
1 cup sugar
2 egg yolks
4 tablespoons Clear Jel
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
cherry pie filling whipping cream

Put 3 cups of milk and sugar on the stove to heat. Beat egg yolks and add the Clear Jel, salt and remaining milk to the mix to make a smooth paste. Add the paste gradually to scalded milk. Continue stirring until it boils. Remove from the heat and add butter and vanilla. Pour into pie shells. When cold, top with cherry pie filling and garnish with whipped cream.

Rosene Zimmerman, East Earl

COCONUT CUSTARD PIE

1 9-inch baked pie crust
½ cup sugar
4 tablespoons flour
2 egg yolks
dash of salt
1⅓ cups milk
1 teaspoon butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup coconut
2 beaten egg whites

Combine the sugar, flour, egg yolks, salt and milk in a saucepan and cook over medium heat until thickened. Remove from heat and add the vanilla and butter. Fold in the coconut and the egg whites. Pour into the prepared crust and bake at 350° F. until brown, about 30 minutes.

Mrs. Earl Leary, Perkiomenville

CHEESE CUSTARD PIE

2 cups cottage cheese
¼ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons flour
3 cups confectioners sugar
4 egg yolks
2 cans evaporated milk
1 can water
4 egg whites

Mix the cheese, salt, flour, sugar, egg yolks, milk and water in the blender or with a mixer. Beat the egg whites and fold into the mixture. Pour into 3 9-inch pie shells and bake at 400° F. about 45 minutes.

FROZEN STRAWBERRY CHEESE PIE

1 8-ounce package cream cheese, softened
1 cup dairy sour cream
2 10-ounce packages strawberries, thawed
1 baked 9-inch pie shell

Blend the cream cheese and sour cream. Reserve ½ cup of the berries and syrup. Mix the remaining berries and syrup into the cheese mixture. Pour the filling into the baked pastry shell. Cover. Freeze until firm. To serve, let the pie set out until thawed enough to cut, about 15-30 minutes. Serve topped with reserved berries in syrup.

Carol Fantom, Delta

FAVORITE CUSTARD PIE

4 eggs
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ teaspoon vanilla flavoring
¼ teaspoon almond flavoring
2½ cups scalded milk
2 pats butter or margarine

Blend the eggs, sugar, salt and flavorings. Beat in the scalded milk and butter. Pour the mixture into an unbaked pie shell and sprinkle lightly with nutmeg. Bake 25-30 minutes in a 400° F. oven.

Mrs. Donald Hoover, Dallas

NOBAKE CHOCOLATE COCONUT PIE

1 quart any flavor ice cream
2 cups thawed whipped topping
1 cup flaked coconut
Chocolate Coconut Crust:
1 4-ounce package Baker's German Sweet Chocolate
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 cups coconut

To make the crust, melt the chocolate and butter over low heat. Remove from the heat and stir in the coconut. Mix well. Spread or press the mixture onto the bottoms and sides of a 9-inch pie pan. Freeze.

Spread the ice cream evenly into the crust. Spread the whipped topping over the ice cream and sprinkle with coconut. Freeze until firm. Remove from the freezer and thaw about 10 minutes before serving. Dip the pie pan in hot water to soften the crust slightly before cutting.

Lois Bennetch, Fredricksburg

COCONUT CUSTARD PIE

This pie makes its own crust:
2 cups milk
4 eggs
½ cup sugar
1 cup sugar
dash of salt
1½ teaspoons vanilla
1 cup coconut
½ stick of butter or margarine

Put all the ingredients into a blender and blend. Pour into a 10 inch greased pie pan. Bake at 400° F. for 15 minutes and turn the oven down to 350° F. for 20-25 minutes.

Lillian Martin, York

GRANDMOTHERS PUMPKIN PIE

1 tablespoon flour
2 cups cooked pumpkin
½ cup brown sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup scalded milk
1 tablespoon butter

Mix the flour into the pumpkin. Add the rest of the ingredients and pour into an unbaked pie crust. Makes 1 9-inch pie. Bake at 400° F. until the custard is firm.

Pauline Hurst, Newville

RUM CREAM PIE

Shell: 1 6-ounce package Zwieback
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup soft butter

Crumb the Zwieback and blend the sugar cinnamon and butter with it. Press the mixture into a 10-inch glass serving dish.

Filling:
6 egg yolks
1 scant cup sugar
1 envelope gelatin
½ cup cold water
1 pint cream, whipped
½ cup dark rum (Jamaican) shaved bittersweet chocolate curls whipped cream for garnish, optional

Beat the egg yolks until light and add the sugar. Soak the gelatin in the cold water. Put the gelatin and water over a low flame and bring to a boil. Pour it over the sugar-egg mixture, stirring briskly. Whip the cream until stiff and fold into the egg mixture. Flavor with the rum. Cool until the mixture begins to set and pour it into the pie shell. Chill until firm. Sprinkle the top of the pie generously with the shaved bitter-sweet chocolate curls and garnish with whipped cream if desired. Serve cold.

Mrs. Stuart Rohrbaugh, Jacobus

CHESS PIE

¼ cup butter, softened
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
3 eggs
½ cup whipping cream
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 9-inch pie shell, unbaked
whipped cream, optional

In a large mixing bowl, beat the butter, sugar and salt until creamy and fluffy. Beat in the eggs, one at a time, until well blended. Mix in the cream, flour and vanilla. Pour into the pie shell. Bake in 375° F. oven until a knife inserted off center comes out clean, 25-30 minutes. Cool completely and garnish with whipped cream if desired.

WET BOTTOM SHOO FLY PIE

1 egg, beaten
½ cup Kings Syrup
½ cup Grandma's molasses
1 scant teaspoon soda
1 cup hot water
Crumbs:
1½ cups flour
1½ cups sugar
2 tablespoons lard, scant

Mix all but one handful of the crumbs into the syrup. Scatter remaining crumbs over the top of the pie. Bake at 425° F. for 15 minutes then at 345° F. for 25 minutes.

School prayer amendment approved in House

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Congressman Bob Walker Wednesday had his amendment forbidding the use of federal funds to block public schools from implementing voluntary school prayer programs approved on the House Floor.

"Nationwide opinion polls indicate that 75 percent of the American people support the restoration of prayer in our public schools," Walker stated

"I am delighted that my colleagues in the House also recognize the need for including voluntary prayer or meditation as part of the nation's education experience"

The amendment, approved by voice vote, was attached to H.R. 7998, the Labor/Health and Human Services/Education Appropriations bill. It states that no funds appropriated under the Act may be used to prevent the implementation of programs of voluntary prayer and meditation in the public schools

"The amendment is a preventative measure," explained the Pennsylvania legislator.

To my knowledge the federal government has spent no money to prevent voluntary school prayer to date, nor has any money been authorized for that purpose However, the Secretary of Education has tried once to act on her own, in contradiction to the intent of the Congress. She may try again Therefore, I feel it is necessary to have this provision written into the law in an effort to avoid any possible federal intervention in the future," he added.

Congressman Walker further pointed out his amendment is in accordance with the trend toward a return to voluntary school prayer being established by state legislatures across the country.

"Massachusetts has approved a law permitting school prayer and many more states are moving in that direction. Out of 44 state legislatures contacted, 21 have legislation pending or have considered such legislation This trend among the states makes my amendment even more necessary if we are to prevent the government from interfering with the right of each state to determine its own educational policies," he declared.

Walker said he hoped the Senate would also recognize the importance of this preventative measure and would include the amendment when it considers the bill.

School activities and outdoor fun during these last days of warm weather all vie for your time in September. But one of the little things you can do that many will see, is to send us a recipe. Over 38,000 readers each week share the recipes we print. And to make it even more fund, we mail a thank you gift to each person whose recipes we use. So why not mail your recipes today with your name, age, and complete mailing address to: Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 366, Lititz, PA 17543. You'll be glad you did.

PINK POPCORN BALLS

7 cups popped popcorn
3 cups miniature marshmallows
2 tablespoons butter
¼ teaspoon salt
a few drops red food coloring

In the bottom part of a double boiler, heat about 1 inch of water to boiling. Place the top part into the bottom and put all the ingredients except the popcorn into the pan. Tint the syrup with a few drops of red food coloring. Pour the melted marshmallow mixture over the popped corn and shape quickly into balls with well greased hands. Yields 10 medium balls.

Mabel Shirk, Age 14, East Earl

NO COOK CANDY

1 cup honey
1 cup dry milk powder
1 cup peanut butter
chopped nuts, optional

Mix the ingredients together and shape into small balls. Roll in chopped nuts or chocolate sprinkles. Makes 36 1½ inch balls.

Martha Shirk, Age 13, East Earl

DELICIOUS WHITE CAKE

2 cups sugar
½ cup shortening
1 cup milk
3 cups cake flour

New York holds 18th princess pageant

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — The eighteenth annual New York State Dairy Princess Pageant was held last Wednesday at the Hotel Syracuse, Syracuse, New York.

Alternate New York dairy princess is Darlene DeRonda of Herkimer County.

Deanna Dennison, Cayuga County, was chosen as Miss Personality.

Retiring state dairy princess was Sara Gillete who presided over the state's promotional activities for the past year and who turned the baner over to Janet Gorst.

The 45 county dairy princesses participated in a decorated lunch pail contest and the winners were: most original, Polly Post, Wyoming County; promotional, Janet Gorst; creativity, Heather McKernan, Franklin County; best looking barn, Gail Feagles, Montgomery County.

The winners of the two minute consumer talks were: first place, Janet Gorst; second, Deana Dennison; and third, Suzanne Corklin, Jefferson County.

Mrs. Donna Yousey was the coordinator for the dairy princess pageant which was attended by about 600 people.

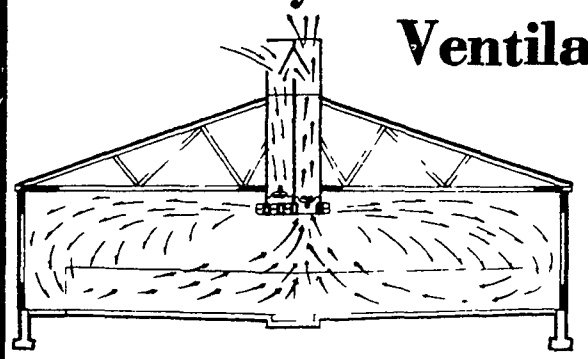
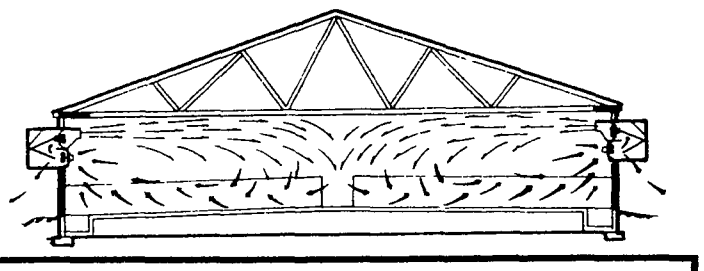
TRI-COUNTY SWINE SYSTEMS

'MARTIN-AIR' PATENT PENDING
Fully Automatic Total Confinement Ventilation Systems





A unique air blending process provides even temperatures and controlled, draft-free air flow.

- Reduce animal stress
- End temperature fluctuations
- Reduce drug costs
- Reduce incidence of pneumonia and disease
- Reduce labor
- Lower condensation
- Confine manuring

Why The 'Martin-air' System is best for you

The success of Martin-air systems rests on a different concept than that used by most ventilation designs. Others work by exhausting air completely then drawing cold air from outside—usually at the other end of the barn Martin-air units use an exclusive damper system which mixes fresh air and exhaust air so the output of the unit is never more than 4°F different from the room temperature And, at any given spot in a properly designed barn, the temperature should seldom vary more than 1°.

The Martin-air principle is simple and effective. Thermostats control fan speed and a dampered mixing chamber to blend fresh air with warm air. Constant circulation throughout the building maintains uniform temperature, eliminates drafts and reduces condensation to provide a dry environment

'Martin-air' can fill your specific needs

No matter what your livestock confinement requirements, a Martin-air System can be designed and installed to fulfill your needs. Systems are designed to create a stable, draft-free environment based on building architecture, insulation, number of animals, and all heat sources. Successful installations are operating in many calf barns, dairy houses, hog, poultry and rabbit operations and even horse barns

Martin-air units are available in a wide range of ceiling or wall-mount models and each installation is carefully designed by ventilation specialists

Martin-air ventilation can be installed in any existing building you may be using for livestock confinement, even old bank barns

What are they — new corn hybrids or sports cars?

Cook-a-mal-doh

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN

LANCASTER COUNTY — Corn hybridization still ranks as one of the greatest all-time achievements of U.S. agricultural research.

Starting in the early-18th Century with Cotton Mather, when he wasn't busy hunting witches, and down through names like J. L. Reid and A. E. Blount, the development of better and better corn yields is a success story that is still being sought in other field crops.

But I have one complaint concerning this continuing process of improvement which private seed corn companies have more or less taken over from the agricultural experiment stations.

I don't like the names that are now found on the signs that can be seen strung along a roadside as from the days of Burma Shave.

I never know if I'm reading the name of a new corn hybrid or an advertisement for the latest sports car model to come off the Japanese automobile assembly lines.

I yearn to return to the times when corn names were real names – colorful and meaningful.

To me, "Bloody Butcher" corn out of Texas or Arizona instills a much more vivid picture than DeKalb XL25a.

When I see a combination of such letters and numbers I think more of five speeds on the floor with a tach rather than a bigger, fuller golden (or red) ear of corn.

How many around here remember the name "Lancaster Surecrop" that was widely grown throughout the Northeast. Similarly, there were Surcropper in Arkansas and Sure Crop in Maryland.

Maybe I'm different but I can't take any personal pride in Todd MX73A. But on the other hand, "Pride of Salina" out of Kansas or "Pride of the North" from Wyoming make my tassels tingle and my silk bristle.

Now, I ask you...which are more colorful?

"Western Plowman, Creole Yellow Flint, Rustler White Dent or Oklahoma Silver Mine."

Or...

"MiGro SPX-49."

Also:

I kinda like names such as "Boone County White." On a hot summer day, it brings to mind a cool glass of a popular table wine.

Another personal favorite from the past is "Biggs Two-Ear" out of North Carolina.

Sounds like it was named after a villain in an old Class B Western.

I realize seed corn companies are turning out their personal varieties at a faster clip these days. And naming them like sports cars helps to safeguard the corporate mania for secrecy.

But still if I was planting corn, I'd rather order some "Longfellow Dent", if I was literary minded or some "Angel of Midnight" if I was in a melancholy mood rather than just plain old M 95 or MX73A.

Gardening tips in new Baer's Ag Almanac

LANCASTER — New gardeners can find valuable advice in the 1981 edition of Baer's Agricultural Almanac, which is now available.

Beets are recommended for the new gardener. They yield rewarding quantities of nutritional tops and roots; can be harvested early and late in the year, and can be cooked in many ways.

Tips on beets are only a fraction of help for new and all gardeners in the 1981 edition. Here are a few others:

Nasturtiums are more than pretty flowers; they repel aphids from broccoli and help potatoes; they shoo away squash bugs and they give radishes perfect flavor.

Cucumbers are No. 3 popular garden plants in the U.S. (following tomatoes and beans), but crops are so bountiful that if you do not plan in advance what to do with them, you'll be in a pickle.

Turkish sweet bay is an interesting house plant, as well as a flavoring aid for the cook.

The Almanac, published at Lancaster since 1825, is filled with facts and folklore in multitudes of brief articles. Many experienced farmers and gardeners rely on it as a year-round guide and cheerful companion.

It contains planting and fishing guides; Phases of the Moon; a gestation table, weather predictions, wise sayings, poetry and jokes.

In its American Anniversary section, it notes that the Revolutionary War ended in 1781 with the surrender of Cornwallis; that Cyrus H. McCormick invented the farm reaper in 1831, and that the loganberry was developed in 1881 by Judge James H. Logan, of Santa Cruz, Calif.

The issue contains scientific backing for the old expression, "Be happy, you'll live longer". It tells how to help bring back the bluebirds; when to cut your hair according to the moon, so that it will grow better, and how to compute temperature by listening to a cricket.

Folklore gems include these: To become rich, marry in a snowstorm; for a good crop of onions, plant on March 21; a red sunset means angels are making cookies.

For this and more, consult Baer's Almanac. It can be obtained postpaid for $2.00 from John Baer's Sons, Box 328, Lancaster, PA 17603.

ADA directors meet

GLEN ROCK — Mr. & Mrs. John Krone, Glen Rock, director of district 18, American Dairy Association, recently attended a Directors meeting last Wednesday held in conjunction with the New York State Dairy princess pageant held at Hotel Syracuse, Syracuse, N.Y.

The main purpose of the meeting was to discuss the proposed 1981 budget plus some other changes.

Also discussed was a change in media advertising due to increasing costs of radio and TV. It was felt that, in New York City, subway add billboard advertising was a better way of reaching more people for less money.

Another project discussed was the "Cheese Adds A Slice of Life" in which the supermarkets and cheese companies have responded much better than hoped for.

There is a projected increase in sales of 10 percent which would amount to 80 million pounds of cheese. The supermarkets claim a projected increase of 20 to 25 percent is more realistic.

There were reports on other projects in which the pilot programs have proven very successful but funds were not available for full scale promotion.

TIMONIUM — Since he started his 4-H career at age 9 in 1975, Jeff Hevner, now 14, of Keymar has dominated 4-H and FFA sheep shows in both county and state fair competition with his purebred Suffolks.

Now he is being joined by his brother, Greg, 10, in what could be a formidable team of junior sheep exhibitors.

Jeff showed the grand champion market lamb again this year at the Maryland State Fair in Timonium, marking the fourth time in six years that he has won this honor.

He also placed first in the fitting and showing competition for his age group, and he was named champion senior shepherd. His younger brother, Greg, placed first in the fitting and showing competition for 10 to 11-year-olds and was named champion junior shepherd.

Hughy F. Salfner, Jr., 17, of Rossville, won the 16 to 19-year-old senior championship for fitting and showing last week at the Maryland State Fair. He was also the senior winner in an earlier event, the 4-H and FFA washed lamb fitting and showing contest.

Ann Boyer, 15, of Walkersville, won the regular sheep fitting and showing senior contest for 15-year-olds.

In the junior class, Mary Hope, 12, of Knoxville won first place for the 12 to 13-year-olds, and Matt McFann, 11, of Lisbon won first place in the category for nine-year-olds or first-year contestants.

Judge supports hogmen in turkey ham fight

DES MOINES, IOWA — USDA's request for a one year delay in complying with a federal court ruling ordering accurate labeling of cured turkey meat, was denied last Friday by federal court judge Richard Kellan.

The National Pork Producers Council, which joined the American Meat Institute in a suit against USDA for mislabeling the product and misleading the public, had vigorously opposed the requested delay, calling it a "bureaucratic stall".

Concerning today's announcement, NPPC's Executive Vice President, Orville Sweet said, "The pork industry is pleased and gratified that the courts are sensitive to the problems that unreasonable regulations can pose for producers and consumers."

"In my opinion, the ruling preventing turkey thigh meats from being sold under the label of turkey ham is not only fair, but lenient," said Sweet.

According to Sweet, the ruling poses no penalty to the turkey producer because it allows all turkey not in the sales channel, to be sold as labeled. All producers and processors need to do now is use the already approved "turkey-thigh meats" label for that product.

"Turkey is a good product and can compete for its share of the market, but under its right name — turkey," Sweet added.

In handing down his decision, Judge Kellan ruled that it is contrary to the public interest to use the "turkey ham" label after November 3, therefore, no product can be produced with this label after that date.

Judge Kellan did indicate "cured turkey thigh meat" was an acceptable alternative, and such a label could be used to allow marketing of the product after November 3.

LMA Board votes establishment of continental livestock commission

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — The Board of Directors of Livestock Marketing Association has voted to establish a Continental Livestock Commission, to develop and promote the market for livestock and meat throughout all of North America.

Acting at its recent meeting in San Luis Obispo, California, the Board also named Ralph K. Bennett, an agricultural consultant and noted authority on North American livestock commerce, as Commission chairman.

Other members of the Commission include representatives from LMA and the newly-formed Livestock Markets Association of Canada.

The resolution passed by the LMA Directors to establish the Commission said that in developing the concept of a Continental Livestock Market extending throughout all nations of North America," they contemplate the full development and promotion of livestock and meat commerce and trade in North America.

Bennett, the new Commission chairman, noted that the development of a Continental Market may be as big an aid to industry stability as seeking out other world markets for livestock and meat.

He said, "One of the most noteworthy elements about the Commission is that it is a product of the marketing sector itself, and has no government involvement or affiliation.

"In developing this market for livestock and meat, marketing businessmen in the U.S. and Canada do not need government to set the pace, or show the way," said Bennett, of Ottawa, Ontario.

The Commission is currently developing a charter to provide its governing structure and to outline its scope of operation.

Beware silo gas

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. — Drought damaged corn can pose a particular problem. In a normal year, nitrogen gases from in the silo as fermentation begins. But, it's just much worse if the corn being ensiled has been stunted by drought.

We know of many corn fields on dairy farms and on grain farms, that were originally planted for grain, but now will go into a silo to produce forage for dairy and beef cows for winter.

When plant growth is retarded by adverse growing conditions, or when there's excess nitrogen available in the soil, the nitrates not converted to protein will accumulate in the plant's stems and leaves. When the plant is then ensiled, the nitrate present may be converted to nitrogen dioxide...and it is indeed poisonous.

Frank Wright, Extension Dairy Specialist at Rutgers cautions dairymen:

Actually, there are three different nitrogen cases formed, and they are invisable. Some may be slightly reddish or yellowish, but he says, don't count on seeing them.

These gases are heavier than air. They will cling to the silage surface, drop down the chute into the silo room and on into the stable.

Use extreme care in entering the silo area as the material is fermenting, usually the first three to five days after filling. Run the blower first. Have someone nearby.

Allow material to ferment a full three weeks before feeding it. It will be safe by then, he assures us.

Feeding drought-stricken corn as green chop? Yes, you can, but cows or heifers should not be allowed to gorge themselves on this material. They should be fed grain and hay before they have access to green chop.

Farm Talk

Jerry Webb

Right after you pay $10 for a beef roast and that isn't all that large, you begin asking yourself why farmers aren't making more money.

I'm sure the casual consumer must feel there's some kind of economic imbalance when favored food items take such tremendous price jumps.

There's a great temptation to jump on the farmer for higher food prices, without really considering the complicated maze that's called agricultural economics. It's a whole discipline and it has to do with supply and demand and elasticity and a lot of other economic words. What it means to the farmer in the simplest terms is that he is a price-taker and not a price-maker.

That happens because he is in what economists call pure competition. That means there are lots of them, they produce an undifferentiated product and no one of them has any real impact on the market. Collectively, however, it's a different story.

Several years ago when beef prices at the farm were terribly low farmers started cutting back on beef output. They sold steers at lighter weight, marketed some heifers, even culled their cows as a way of cutting their losses. The total effect of all that in the short run meant more beef on the market and even lower prices. But then gradually as that excess worked its way through the market and consumers enjoyed relatively low beef prices, the farm situation started to change. Fewer beef cows on the farm meant fewer steers and less beef available.

That meant packers were willing to pay higher prices and consequently consumers paid more for meat. And so over a period of several years, consumers have gone from a period of record supply to one of moderation. Those factors have shown up on the cash register tape.

Unlike manufacturing, farmers can't increase beef output in response to better prices. Once cow numbers went down, it took several years to build them back up.

For some beef men, by the time they get back into full production prices will be heading down again. It's like a roller coaster ride, with producers hoping the highs will go higher and last longer to cover the depth and length of the lows.

Some farm commodities experience wide swings in price and profitability. All phases of the livestock business have traditionally been that way. Any time you invovle a process that means animals must be born before they can be fattened for market, you increase the risk. For once a farmer decides to breed cows for production, he may be several years from market.

His first decision to expand means saving back heifer calves that won't have their own offspring for at least a couple of years. Then those calves must be raised and fattened for several more months. By the time they reach market age the original decision to expand based on profitable markets may have gone sour.

On the other hand, a grain producer can decide once a year whether to grow corn, soybeans, barley, wheat or several other crops, what proportion of each crop he will grow, and when he will sell it.

Unlike the livestock producer, a grain farmer can store his crops for months, even years if necessary, until he feels the price is right. But when a fat hog is ready for market there isn't much leeway.

Even grain producers have their problems because they don't know what other grain producers are doing. Individually, they make decisions that collectively produce surplus. A wet spring or a late frost can drastically alter the total crop. Dry weather in the West means higher grain prices in the East. Prolonged wet weather in the Midwest at harvesttime can spell economic ruin while at the same time elevating grain prices for other farmers.

Farming is a difficult, high risk business with some very high odds against success. The craziness of it is exemplified by the beef producer who continues to pour high priced grain into a steer he knows will lose money. Each day as he watches grain into a steer he knows will lose money. Each day as he watches the livestock market, he sees his margin of loss widen and yet he continues to feed that steer in the hope of an eventual upturn in the market.

Some data I saw recently indicated that over a 10-year period beef men averaged a substantial loss. There were more bad years than good years, and the bad years were worse than the good years were good! The net result was a financial disaster.

Yet those spiraling beef prices that we're all seeing in the supermarket have encouraged them to go back into production to a point where the forecasters predict that beef supplies will reach close to the record of the mid-seventies in the next three or four years.

One thing for consumers to remember as they shop among the meat choices these days—current high beef prices are bound to go down, pork prices will probably go up, and you can expect poultry prices to increase.

It's all a function of supply and demand and consumers willingness to shell out inflation-riddled dollars for the meats of their choice.

IF YOU'RE NOT USING CROP CURE, ASK YOURSELF THESE QUESTIONS ABOUT YOUR PRESERVATIVE:

1 Does it guarantee the active ingredient on the tag? Crop Cure does!
2 Does it say "Mold Inhibiting Preservative" on the tag? Crop Cure does!
3 Does it produce acetic acid in your silage? (Acetic acid production is the first step in proper fermentation) Crop Cure does!
4 Does it increase acetic acid up to 25% in the silo? Crop Cure does!
5 Does it cut the loss of dry matter by up to 50%? Crop Cure does!

Dairy official sees moderate price rise

ALLENTOWN — Dairy farmers can expect farm milk prices to rise moderately for the next 12 months. The increase is likely to be much less than occurred during the same period a year ago.

Meanwhile, farm costs will follow the general trend of inflation. Consequently, farm milk prices in the Northeast are likely to fall short of rising costs. The basic reason is because the formula for establishing farm milk prices has not shown much increase, says Lehigh Valley Farmers Vice President, John C. York.

The basic formula (Minnesota/Wisconsin price) for the past four months, April through July, has risen by five cents per hundredweight, while in 1979, for the same period, the M/W price increased by 24 cents per hundredweight.

Moreover, the M/W price has not kept pace with the level of support prices, York says.

For example, in April, the M/W price was 39 cents below support prices; May 41 cents below; June, 35 cents below; and July 34 cents below. It is the first time in the past 27 months or a period of about two and a half years that the M/W price has been below the level of support prices.

This situation is likely to continue into the future for another year, he says.

Support prices can be expected to go up about 70 cents to about $12.75 per hundredweight on October 1. The possibility of the M/W price increasing to equal the level of the support price is not forseen.

In an effort to give dairymen some price guidelines through June 1981, estimates have been computed for the following markets. The estimates are based upon a support price increase in October of this year and no change in support prices on April 1, 1981.

Hoff siblings sweep Maryland 4-H hog show

TIMONIUM — "All in the Family" seemed to be this year's theme in the 4-H and FFA market hog and fitting and showing contests held last week at the Maryland State Fair in Timonium. Judge for the afternoon was Warren Beeler of Western Kentucky University.

Mike Hoff, 10, of Manchester, had the grand champion market hog in his first year of state fair competition. It was a Yorkshire-Hampshire crossbred gilt and weighed 220 pounds.

The reserve champion market hog ribbon went to Dawn Hoff, 14, of Manchester, a cousin of Mike. Her Hampshire gilt weighed 240 pounds. Both Mike and Dawn are members of the Black Rock 4-H club.

Not only did families within Carroll County walk away with high honors, but exhibitors from Carroll County won half of all the top awards given in the market hog and fitting and showing competition.

Other class winners in the market hog division which competed for the grand champion award were as follows: John Schirra; Margaret Flanigan; Mike Hoff; Jack Kahler; Karen Holloway; Kathy Bauer; and Geanie Lockard of Westminster, who also had the champion Chester White sow in the purebred show.

Tom Reynolds, 18, of Reisterstown, was chosen as the senior champion in the 4-H and FFA fitting and showing contest, and he went on to win the over-all fitting and showing championship.

Carla Biggs, 12, of LaPlata, won the intermediate championship, while Kathy Bauer, 11, of Picketts Corner, won the junior championship.

The Charles county 4-H swine exhibitors drew considerable attention with their barn decorations, featuring a poster picture of Miss Piggy and titled "Miss Piggy for President!"

Irrigate soybeans after pod set starts

GEORGETOWN, Del. — Most irrigation systems in Delaware were installed for corn. But with favorable soybean prices and the use of beans as a rotation crop, especially in fields with a center pivot system, more and more farmers are considering the possibility of irrigating soybeans.

The big question is, when do soybeans respond to supplemental water?

This plant is very different from corn in its water requirements, says University of Delaware extension crops specialist Frank Webb. Too much water early in its development tends to stimulate excess vegetative growth that can result in severe lodging—especially on taller, more branching varieties. Too heavy a foliage canopy can also limit the amount of light that reaches inside the plant.

The dense foliage can compete for nutrients needed for pod development and create an ideal environment for diseases. All these factors may reduce yield.

Until they've entered the reproductive stage, soybeans should be irrigated only in case of severe drought when there is danger to the plants themselves.

This is more important on early planted beans which have a long time to develop. When you move your planting date back--especially after wheat--plants have a much shorter growing season. In this case you need a certain amount of vegetative growth in order to get any yield at all.

So early water application may sometimes be called for in double-cropped beans.

Maximum yield reduction in soybeans occurs when there is severe moisture stress during late pod set and early pod fill. Some 65 to 75 percent of the water used by soybeans is needed after plants have completed their vegetative development and entered the reproductive stage. Wait until about 40 days after emergence before irrigating full-season beans, advises Webb.

Moisture stress during vegetative growth and early flowering isn't as injurious to the soybean as it is to corn, he explains. In the case of some varieties under some conditions, a certain amount of early moisture stress may actually be beneficial, if this is alleviated before flowering time by either rain or irrigation.

Only about 25 percent of the flowers on a soybean plant set pods even under the best of growing conditions. So the number of seeds per pod and the weight of seeds determine yield. This is why it's important that the plant not be stressed during early pod development, so irrigation then can help. Irrigation during pod fill can be equally beneficial.

The specialist has been comparing the performance of irrigated and non-irrigated soybeans at the University of Delaware's Georgetown Substation for the past two years. He says that in some cases yields have been 16 to 25 bushels high per acre under irrigation than from non-irrigated beans with normal rainfall.

Once you start irrigating soybeans, keep adding supplemental water as needed to prevent moisture stress on plants until seed moisture is down to about 50 percent. Generally this will be when the plant has begun to shed its leaves.

USDA plans to aid drought-stricken farmers

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Deputy Secretary of Agriculture Jim Williams said Monday the U.S. Department of Agriculture stands ready to aid farmers who live in heat and drought-stricken areas and qualify for federal assistance.

Williams said federal officials are "extremely concerned" about the potential effects of the heat wave on crops and livestock and is continuing to assess the situation. However, he said drought assistance programs—principally emergency livestock feed, natural disaster payments and economic emergency loans—are already in operation and being applied when and wherever needed.

Livestock owners whose normal feed production is cut at least 40 percent may receive financial assistance through the emergency livestock feed program of up to half the cost of the additional feed they must buy.

Farmers in more than 420 counties whose county agricultural conservation and stabilization committees determined that disaster conditions existed in their areas are now receiving this aid. Producers may contact their local USDA Agricultural Stabilization Conservation Service office to learn how and if they may apply for such assistance.

Wheat, rice, feed grain and cotton producers suffering abnormally low yields may contact their ASCS office for disaster assistance information. County ASC committees are responsible for determining the extent of damage and amount of payment.

USDA also makes emergency loans at 5 percent interest through its Farmers Home Administration to farmers whose production has been cut by at least 20 percent in an area declared a natural disaster area and to those who cannot obtain credit elsewhere. These loans already have been made to more than 320 drought-affected counties. FmHA state directors may determine additional counties eligible for this aid.

Williams said USDA is cooperating with the Federal Emergency Management Agency, designated by President Carter to coordinate federal assistance in the affected regions. The department is also preparing a comprehensive assessment of the impact recent weather has had on crops and livestock and compiling a listing of commitments made under on-going programs, Williams said. This report will be made available in the next few days and will be updated on a regular basis.

The latest cause of the drought and high temperatures was a high pressure system which expanded in the past three weeks from the southwest across the Great Plains into the southeastern states. However, rain and falling temperatures last weekend brought relief to many hard-hit areas. Rainfall was below normal for several months in the Northern Plains and spring planted crop yields have been seriously reduced.

Williams said, "The 10-day forecast calls for near to above-normal rainfall and above normal temperatures in major corn-producing states. In the next few weeks, USDA will closely watch the effect of the weather on soil moisture supplies, which are critical to corn and soybeans as they enter their reproduction period."

Plans proceeding for 1981 pork congress

DES MOINES, IA. — Plans are proceeding at a rapid pace for next year's American Pork Congress to be held March 11 to 13, 1981 at Bartle Hall, Kansas City, MO.

The Congress serves as the annual meeting for the more than 97,000 members of the National Pork Producers Council, the nation's largest commodity organization.

A regular feature at the American Pork Congress is the trade show. This year it promises to be larger than ever, with space in Bartle Hall to accommodate 400-500 companies and their products.

Pork Congress coordinator Mike Simpson, NPPC's Director of Special Activities, said applications are now available for exhibit space. A company should make initial arrangements for exhibit space by September 1, 1980, by writing Mike Simpson, American Pork Congress, P.O. Box 10383, Des Moines, IA 50306.

Traditional events to be held at the '81 Congress include the annual meetings of both NPPC and the 15,000 member National Porkettes (NPPC's auxiliary group), recognition of state Pork All-Americans, the Annual Banquet, the crowning of the National Pork Queen and educational seminars for both pork producers and Porkettes.

Simpson said sites for two future American Pork Congresses have also been picked. In 1982, the event will be in Indianapolis, IN, and in 1983, it will be St. Louis, MO.

How to make smart grain marketing decisions

NEWARK, Del. — You can't sell a crop profitably without spending time and effort on the process. And this is a year-round job. A farmer who waits until the last minute to sell his grain is simply dumping it, not marketing it, says University of Delaware extension crops marketing specialist Carl German.

To get top return on the crops you grow requires the same kind of careful thought you bring to any part of your farm enterprise. Every day there are marketing decisions to be made:

Where and to whom will you sell?

Should you sell cash or futures?

Store or sell? Forward price or hedge?

When should you sell? What crops should you expand and which ones cut back on?

What's the best way to deal with your interest costs?

And how can you deal with the tax consequences of your farm operation?

Developing a good market sense may well cost you some money in the "school of hard knocks" at first, says German. But the process is not unlike learning to run any other part of your business. By evaluating the results of each marketing year, you can make improvements in the next.

It's never too late to begin developing some sound concepts and marketing skills. With all the uncertainties surrounding the 1980 corn and soybean crops, the sooner you start developing a realistic marketing strategy, the better.

Before you make any decisions, take a look at your options. Which will come closest to covering your costs of production and bring the desired return to management and profit?

Your alternatives include (1) selling cash at harvest or storing and selling later for cash; (2) forward pricing (hedging) on the futures market for sale at harvest or some later date; or (3) forward contracting in the cash market--priced or unpriced--for sale at harvest or sometime later. Each method has advantages as well as pitfalls.

With a forward cash contract you can sell grain priced for delivery at a specified time, or you can sell it unpriced. Selling unpriced grain generally involves signing a contract for future delivery at a price so many cents over the cash price or under futures.

Selling grain unpriced is usually done when you, the seller, expect a price increase to occur between the time the contract is written and the future delivery date when the transaction actually takes place.

Terms for unpriced contracting vary between local elevators and brokerage houses, so discuss specific terms with your elevator manager or account executive. Stored grain is often unpriced for future delivery in a specified month. The seller may agree to pay drying and storage charges up to a certain date.

The object of storing grain for later sale is to take advantage of any price increases that may occur.

The object of hedging the stored grain is to protect yourself from adverse price changes. Generally forward contracting cash priced grain or hedging in the futures market is done when a price decline is expected.

It only pays to place a hedge in futures if local basis, cash, and futures price movements are favorable in your particular location.

The alternative to either forward cash contracting or hedging is to sell strictly in the cash market. This doesn't afford you any price protection, however. Instead of averting price risk as one does with forward contracting, you simply become a risk taker.

Which of these three alternatives you choose will depend on your pricing objectives, liquidity and the amount of risk you are willing to accept in marketing your crop. Some farmers find a combination of approaches most profitable.

In considering forward contracting vs. cash sales, there's no general rule as to how much your crop to sell at any time. Different consultants have different opinions.

It does make a lot of sense, however, to do your marketing over the course of a year, rather than all at once. This increases the probability of your receiving a higher average price, explains the specialist.

How much you contract for or hedge at a particular time is an individual decision which should be based on the condition of your crop, your financial position and your ability to bear risk.

Forward contracting in the cash or futures markets does have some pitfalls, but most of these can be avoided, says German. Some of the most serious are: leaving marketing decisions until the last minute; overcontracting; failing to understand the terms of the contract; letting someone else make your marketing decisions for you; failing to compute a target price; and locking in a loss.

Leaving marketing decisions until the last minute: If you want to do a good job of marketing, start planning your strategies a year in advance.

It may be wise to consider spreading sales over the course of a year. Leaving them until the last minute is often the most costly mistake you can make.

For example, if you need storage space in a given year and haven't made arrangements prior to harvesting, you could well end up dumping your crop on the cash market, regardless of the price at harvest.

Overcontracting production: You may have to buy

grain to fill contractual obligations you couldn't meet due to adverse weather conditions.

This isn't so bad at prices lower than your contracted price. But it can be devastating when you have to buy the grain at higher prices.

Overcontracting, such as selling 20,000 bushels of corn to protect the price risk of 10,000 bushels currently stored, places you in the position of a speculator, making you very vulnerable to large price changes.

Not understanding the terms of the contract: Be sure that you know the place, time, price and quantity to be delivered.

Placing the responsibility for making the final decision to sell your crop on someone else's shoulders. Seek out and read as much market information as you can.

Talk to your account executive, extension marketing specialist, elevator manager, and anyone else knowledgeable about marketing your crop. But remember that it's your property and the decision to sell is your responsibility. Just make sure that the decision is as a well-informed one.

Marketing a crop without computing your target or selling price: This should never be done, says German. Variable costs plus fixed costs equal your break even price. The break even price plus return to management plus desired profit equal your target price--the price you're willing to accept.

Locking in a loss: Conditions may improve if prices aren't good. It takes a certain degree of "fine tuning" to decide upon an acceptable price.

At times you may be better off to contract or sell a part of your crop at a price that gives you a return to management over your production costs but not your desired profit.

On the other hand, you may be short-changing yourself by not figuring costs at all, or pricing yourself out of the market by demanding too high a return and profit.

Failure to accept a price other than your most desired one may sometimes result in your having to accept losses that were totally unnecessary. So be realistic in setting your pricing goals.

Experience and knowledge will help you avoid most of these pitfalls. The best way to do an efficient job of selling your crop is to become involved in the marketing process and learn how to use your alternatives.

Combining them skillfully is likely to improve your marketing program--and your profits. Different circumstances prevail in the marketplace at different times. These will dictate the use of different alternatives.

No single marketing technique is ideal all the time.

Everitt, Daku take tractor pull honors

FLEMINGTON, N.J. — Dave Everitt, Ringoes, and Dave Daku, Clover Hill, each topped two classes in the annual farm tractor pulling contests Wednesday at Flemington Agricultural Fair reports Bob Manners, Farmers' Day Committee Chairman.

Young Everitt, operating a Ford model 400, pulled the weight transfer sled a distance of 269 feet, 8 inches, to lead 13 other tractors in the 5500 lb. and under class. He came back in Class 4, tractors 9,000 to 12,000 lbs., to take his second blue ribbon and trophy, on his John Deere, model 4020.

Dave Daku put back-to-back wins together in Classes 5 and 6. He drove an International 966 in Class 5, 12,000 to 15,000 lbs., and a giant International 1466, in Class 6. This tractor was 20 lbs. below the top limit for this class.

There were 88 farmer-owned tractors participating in the seven classes in the contest, billed as the New Jersey State Championship Farm Tractor Pull. Contestants represented some half dozen counties, but most were from Hunterdon and Warren Counties, reported Bob Manners.

Trophies were presented by the following dealers: D & R Equipment, Ringoes; Frank Rymon and Sons, Washington; Hobensack, Ivyland, Pa , Poniatowski Bros. and John Saums and Sons, both Flemington; J.S. Covert, Neshanic; and the Hunterdon County Board of Agriculture.

First three places in order, in each class were as follows: Class 1 — David Everitt; Bob Moyer, Bloomsbury; Tom Hickerson, Newton

Class 2 - Ralph Wolverton, Asbury, Dave Bond, Ringoes; Jake Bilyk, Belvidere

Class 3 - Bill Kurylo, Ringoes; Jon Danberry, Ringoes; Louis Roberto, Ringoes

Class 4 - David Everitt; C. Russ Smith, Warren Glen; Ed Bilyk, Belvidere.

Class 5 - Dave Daku; Jim Pauch, Frenchtown; John Parisi, Bloomsbury.

Class 6. Dave Daku; Fred Clucas, Oldwick; Len Truszkowski, Stewartsville.

Class 7 - Tom Prostak, Lebanon.

Reg Penna Dept Agri really means something

HARRISBURG — A notation printed on a package of cookies, "Reg. Penna. Dept. Agri.", can be a bit confusing, especially if the cookies are baked in California, sold in Minnesota and bought by a tourist from Connecticut.

Inevitably, someone becomes curious about the notation and writes a letter asking how Pennsylvania fits into the picture.

The explanation is really quite simple, according to State Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hallowell.

The notation concerns one of the many phases of consumer protection efforts conducted by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. It means that the bakery where the cookies were made is regularly inspected, meets specified standards and is licensed – or registered – to sell its products in the Commonwealth.

That explanation usually prompts another question, "Why does the notation appear on packages sold in other states, and even in other nations?" Again, the answer is simple.

Hallowell says bakers find it doesn't cost much to have the notation printed on all packages, rather than printing special labels for products shipped exclusively to Pennsylvania. The notation may have some marketing benefit as well, because consumers recognize its significance.

In the early 20th century, bakeries were usually neighborhood businesses. But as modern transportation and marketing broadened the scope of bakery businesses to a national and international level, it became necessary to provide some form of consumer reassurance, and the Pennsylvania Bakery Law was enacted in 1933.

The law requires that bakers – including those who make macaroni and spaghetti, pretzels and potato chips, and snacks made from cornmeal – must be licensed to sell their products in Pennsylvania.

The legend on their packages, "Registered, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture", assures consumers that the bakery meets standards and that the weight of the product is listed accurately.

To qualify for licensing, plants must be inspected annually for cleanliness and all employees must undergo annual medical examinations.

This law applies to all bakery goods in Pennsylvania, regardless of the location of the plant where they are produced. As a result, numerous bakeries in Canada and other foreign nations are licensed and their products are marked with the "Reg. Penna. Dept. Agri." on the package.

It would be impossible for food inspectors from the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture to inspect plants outside the state. But the Department's Bureau of Foods and Chemistry maintains working agreements with the agriculture departments in other states and foreign countries where the licensed bakeries are located.

Inspections and examinations are made for the Department, and reports are submitted for all new license and annual renewals.

Registration, however, does not imply approval of the product itself. State Agriculture Secretary Hallowell notes, "The label may reassure the consumer that the bakery's plant and employees meet the specified standards that permit the baker to sell his goods in the state."

Medium sized tractors in the 50 to 90 pto horsepower range will form the core of Hesston's new line of tractors which are manufactured by Fiat.

Hesston introduces tractors

HESSTON, KANSAS — A new line of farm tractors, a new "family" color and other new farm machinery highlighted the Hesston Corporation's national dealer sales meeting in Wichita, Kansas.

Before a crowd of over 1600 dealer representatives and company sales personnel, Hesston introduced its "Prime Line" of products, featuring 29 new tractor models manufactured by Fiat Trattori S.p.A. of Turin, Italy, which will be marketed by Hesston in North America.

In addition, the company unveiled a new family color, Autumn Prime, which will replace the traditional Hesston Red on all of the products offered by the farm equipment firm.

The meeting also featured the introduction of several other new pieces of farm equipment from Hesston. New forage boxes and wagon gears, a new forage blower and a new two-row corn snapper header for pull-type forage harvesters made their debut along with two new rotary mowers, three new hay rakes and a 21' shifting draper header for self-propelled windrowers.

Along with its current line of farm equipment, the new products brought together the largest display of Hesston equipment ever assembled under one roof.

The presentation of a full line of tractors by Hesston came less than one full year after the company had announced more new additions to its product line at one time than at any other point in its history. Eight new pieces of farm equipment were unveiled during the firm's "Bold New Breeds" show in Phoenix, last fall.

Beginning with utility tractors and ranging up to the top-of-the-line 100+ horsepower models, the full range of 29 tractors was presented along with an impressive list of comfort and convenience features and accessories.

Dealer named salestar

EPHRATA — International Salestars, a nationwide recognition program for new agricultural equipment salesmen, has announced a winner at Heritage International, a local farm equipment dealer.

Dean Bicksler is a district winner for the month of July, and joins an exclusive International Harvester organization of Salestars. His total sales to date in 1980 have qualified him to compete for I.H. regional honors this fall with other winning sales men in the Northeastern U.S.

"Salestars" was introduced to the company's dealers for their new salesmen - especially those recruited and trained during 1979 and 1980. It is a part of the I.H. Upward Bound salesman's development program, an ongoing company training plan unique in the agricultural equipment industry.

Each year new sales employees at dealerships are eligible to participate in various I.H. subsidized product and sales training classes. Such classes are held at both regional locations and the I.H. Resource Development Center for North America located in Ottawa, Illinois. Additional sales guidance continues at the local dealer level.

The "Salestars" program is a further effort to help the sales person deal more effectively with the farmer's changing needs - and is one more indication of International Harvester's commitment to be Number 1 in the agricultural equipment industry.

Each salesman competes for top honors within his District and Region, and you can bet that Dean Bicksler will be giving his best wind-up effort this fall.

Cecil and Worcester counties top 4-H poultry judging in Maryland

TIMONIUM — An enthusiastic group of 4-H members met once again at this year's Maryland State Fair in Timonium to vie for top individual and team honors in 4-H Poultry judging.

A Worcester County 4-H judging team took first-place junior honors. The team consisted of Glen Ennis, 13, of Pocomoke City; John Wabeck Junior, 13, of Salisbury; Dean Ennis, 11, of Pocomoke City, and Eric Disharoon, 13, of Salisbury. Their coach was Norman Ennis of Pocomoke City.

The second-place junior team was contributed by Queen Annes County, and the third-place team came from Prince Georges county.

Top junior individuals were - 1. Janice Davis of Millington; 2. Dean Ennis, 11, of Pocomoke City; 3. Jennifer Andraka, 12, of Montpelier; 4. Margarat Flanagan, 14, of Rocky Ridge; 5. Ty Tucker, 13, of Mitchellville.

A Cecil County 4-H team won the first-place senior crown. Team members were Mary Brown, 14; Kim Felty, 15; Sam Brown, 16; and John Jones, 16. All are residents of Rising Sun, including their coach, Ellen Brown. Harford County came in second, and the Queen Annes County team was third.

Senior individual winners were Cindy Watson, 15, of Darlington; 2. Sam Brown, 16, of Rising Sun; 3. Mary Brown, 14, of Rising Sun; 4. Cindy Henry, 16, of Denton; 5. Kim Felty, 15, of Rising Sun.

Cindy Watson was first-place junior individual in last year's state fair 4-H poultry and egg judging contest. She and others among the top four senior individuals will represent Maryland in the National 4-H poultry and egg judging contest, set for November 12-13 at Louisville, Kentucky.

Fertilizer factories

A single 150-lb. hog yields about $11.00 of fertilizer value a year. Multiply that by the number of hogs you raise and you have a substantial supply of N, P, K you don't have to buy.

But it has to be managed. That means the right handling and spreading equipment. Calumet vacuum tanks are built to last with heavy-duty components and a choice of two vacuum pumps — both engineered to load fast and run cool.

To get the most value from hog manure, pair your Calumet vacuum tank to a Calumet 2 or 4-shank soil injector and put manure where it does the most good

Take advantage of the value produced by your living fertilizer factories — with Calumet manure management equipment.

Leon Riegel Tim Trayer Edgar Sheaffer

If you have a question you would like answered by the team from Valley Animal Hospital, send it to Ask the VMD, Box 366, Lititz, Pa. 17543. Questions will be kept anonymous on request.

A reader asks:

Have there been many cases of grass tetany in Southeast Pennsylvania? Are there enough minerals in the trace mineral salt blocks to prevent it? Is it only a problem with cows and heifers, or can it affect steers and bulls also?

Dr. Sheaffer comments:

Yes there continuly are cases of grass tetany or more properly called hypomagnesemia. Actually, the problem is the result of a low uptake of available magnesium in the forage creating low blood magnesium in the cattle eating it. This problem is most commonly seen in the Spring and Fall, although cases have been seen in the Summer months.

There are areas in Southern and Eastern Pennsylvania where forage plants are low in available magnesium and cattle are not getting enough magnesium in their diets. The lack of magnesium may be due to a tie-up of the mineral because of heavy fertilization, or due to excessive rains and fast growth of the plants.

I do not believe there is enough magnesium in the trace mineralized salt blocks to prevent this disease.

What I recommend is that a precalculated amount of magnesium oxide or magensium carbonate be added to the ration, mixed right in with the grain, if the soils in the area are deficient in magnesium or forage tests indicate a deficiency. Don't rely on trace mineralized salt to supply adequate magnesium to prevent grass tetany.

This disease is rarily seen in bulls and steers. However, there have been cases treated. Even though steers are not losing the magnesium like a lactating cow does in the milk, it still has a surprisingly similiar magnesium requirement.

The two most common ways of supplementing the diet with magnesium are: the calculated amount added per batch or ton of feed ground; or topdress to each cow. Adding the mineral when the feed is mixed saves on labor, and once it is discovered the forage and soil is deficient in magensium, the addition of the mineral becomes part of the normal management scheme.

Seasons set

HARRISBURG — Dates of hunting seasons and bag limits for doves, rails, gallinules, snipe and woodcock for 1980 have been established by the Pennsylvania Game Commission.

The framework for season and limits is set up by U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in Washington following annual surveys of breeding populations. States then select dates for seasons within the federal framework.

Pennsylvania's waterfowl seasons will not be established until late August or early September. The Game Commission cannot set waterfowl season until after the federal government draws up its framework, which is not completed prior to late August at the very earliest.

For 1980, the Pennsylvania season of 69 half-days for doves will open on Monday, September 1, and will close on Saturday, November 8. The daily limit will again be 12, with a possession limit of 24 after the first day of the season.

This year the season on sora and Virginia rails and gallinules will again coincide with the dove season, opening September 1 and closing on November 8. There is no open season on king and clapper rails in Pennsylvania.

The daily bag and possession limit is 25 on sora and Virginia rails, singly or in the aggregate of the two species. The daily limit on gallinules is 15, with not more than 30 in possession after the first day of the season.

In 1980 the woodcock season will open on Saturday, October 18 and continue through Saturday, December 20. This year's daily bag limit on woodchuck remains at five, with a possession limit of 10 after the first day.

The season for snipe also opens on Saturday, October 18, and will continue through Saturday, December 20. The daily bag limit on Wilson's or jacksnipe is eight, with a possession limit of 16.

A federal migratory bird hunting stamp (duck stamp) is not required to hunt doves, rails, gallinules, snipe or woodcock.

Hunters are reminded that bows and arrows and shotguns plugged to no more than a three-shell capacity are legal, but rifles and revolvers or pistols are prohibited for hunting migratory birds. Shot larger than BB size is prohibited for hunting migratory birds in Pennsylvania.

The Milk Check

TOM JURCHAK
County Agent

Lookin' Good

A 56 cent jump in the uniform price to producers for July milk shipped to Order 2 handlers will be looking good on your milk check. But don't jump to the conclusion that you're out of the (marketing) woods already.

First of all, look where the 56 cents came from last month. The biggest part was the 40 cent Louisville Plan payment you made in June but not in July. Your Class II price jumped 19 cents over last month, but 14 cents of that was the season adjustment going from minus three cents in June to plus 11 cents in July.

So, between the Louisville Plan payment and the seasonable adjustment you got 54 cents out of the 56 cent increase and all you can take credit for is two cents. You got that mostly from a 4.8 percent drop in production and a 1.7 percent increase in Class I sales over last month. This raised your utilization to 40.4 percent compared to last month's very low 37.7 percent.

Then there was a 2 cent increase in your Class I price and 5 cents on Class II (without the seasonal differential) which also helped a little.

I think it's important for you to know what is the "real" milk price when the announced price is stripped of all the "extras." This way you can more accurately evaluate changes in the marketing situation and not be misled by taking the figures at face value and making the wrong conclusions.

Oh yes, I forgot to tell you that the uniform price for July was $12.48 for 3.5 milk at the 201-210 mile zone and that was 88 cents more than last year.

Compared to What

That 4.8 percent drop in milk production for Order 2 from June to July was a pretty hefty cut, but compared to what?

June's production was the highest for that month in Order 2 since 1971. But July — even with a 4.8 percent drop — was the highest since 1966.

Even the 1.7 percent increase in Class I sales was no big deal since it was still the third lowest for the month in the last 13 years.

The Order 2 production for July, as well as the first seven months of this year, is running more than four percent over last year in spite of the mid-summer seasonal declines usually expected.

Next month you'll be getting your first 25 percent pay back under the Louisville Plan that will add 35 to 40 cents a hundred to your milk check.

Again, don't confuse this increase with changes in the marketing picture. It's only your share of what you contributed to the Plan from March to June.

So, remember, figures don't lie but they can be misleading to the uninformed and I certainly hope you aren't one of them.

Washed lamb competition

TIMONIUM — After a one-year break, the 4-H and FFA lamb fitting and showing contest returned to the Maryland State Fair last week with a new set of rules. It is now a washed lamb event, instead of the unwashed lamb competition of earlier years.

Jeffrey Hagerty, 13, of Clarksburg, was the junior champion in this year's contest, and Hughy F. Salfner, Jr., 17, of Rossville was the senior champion.

Hughy's sister, Patricia Salfner, won the same honor in 1978. Hughy belongs to the Sparks 4-H club, and was showing his Montadale ewe.

Other contestants in the senior contest were Stuart Hoover, 15, of Mount Airy, placing second, and Joe Hagerty, 17, of Clarksburg third. Joe is a brother of the junior winner.

The washed lamb fitting and showing competition consists of two parts. Contestants must supply their own lambs which have been washed, dried and in full fleece prior to entering the show ring. The contestants are given one hour to fit their sheep. They them show the sheep before a panel of three judges.

Wick applicators are handy for tackling problem weeds

DOVER, Del. — Now's the time to treat fields for Johnsongrass and other problem weeds, says University of Delaware extension crops specialist Frank Webb.

This weed is relatively easy to find in soybeans now because it's taller than the bean plants. You'll have more trouble spotting problem areas in cornfields because of the height of the corn. But you probably already know where they are.

The best way to treat small localized patches of Johnsongrass is with a foliar spray of Roundup.

It isn't easy lugging a hand sprayer through corn and larger soybean plants to get at trouble spots, but it's worth the effort, says Webb. One good spraying now can kill 100 percent of this weed in an area

But you must do a thorough job of wetting the foliage, using the proper amount and concentration of material.

Use a quart of Roundup per 25 gallons of water, or if you're using a small pump-up sprayer use three tablespoons per gallon of water.

Add a tablespoon of surfactant per three gallons of mixture to increase the effectiveness of your herbicide.

The surfactant will also make it easier to tell whether a plant has already been sprayed, since it gives foliage a wetter look.

Weeds that spread down the rows so that there aren't enough to broadcast spray but too many to spot treat can be handled with a recirculating sprayer or wick applicator using Roundup. In order to use either of these applicator types, the weeds must be taller than the soybeans.

The wick applicator is a great new idea that's proving very effective for directed Johnsongrass control, says Webb. You can easily make your own.

The parts will cost you about $150--about the cheapest you can go for a piece of farm equipmnt these days. And it will only take you a few hours to put one together. For more information on how to make a wick applicator, call the county extension office in Newark (302/738-2506), Dover (302/736-4675) or Georgetown (302/856-5250).

Maryland fair

Kim Proudfoot, 18, of Churchville in Harford County, was selected during the Maryland State Fair in Timonium as the new State Farm Queen. Kim was scheduled to be an official 4-H State Fair photographer, but she wound up on the other side of the camera lens. She is also a member of the board of directors for the Maryland State 4-H Council. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Keith R. Proudfoot.

Solar seminars slated

LANCASTER — Once again this autumn, the Solar Project will offer free public seminars on methods of applying solar energy to domestic hot water heating.

Project installation crew leader Herb Marzolf will open the series in September with a two-evening session on low-cost "breadbox-type" pre-heating tanks. The workshop is intended to give the participants a sufficient understanding of the devices to build one at home.

Marzolf will direct the class in the theory and actual construction of the solar water pre-heater.

Solar pre-heating systems are intended to reduce the fuel consumption of a conventional water heater by raising the water's temperature to 90 or 115 degrees before feeding it to the back-up heater. Pre-heaters can be built very cheaply, from simple equipment. The low cost makes its performance very cost-effective.

Herb Marzolf has been working with these systems for several years, and has installed a number of them around the County for the Solar Project. His experience covers a variety of designs, and his discussion will explore the variations that are possible.

The workshop will meet on Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 23-24, from 6-10 p.m. each evening. There is no fee, but pre-registration is required by calling 291-1051 from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Class size will be limited.

Seminars will be held at the Project Warehouse Workshop, at 127-133 N Concord St. in Lancaster.

Wild mustangs run "free" on Maryland farm

BY SHEILA MILLER

DAMASCUS, Md. — When young children dream about the wild West, pictures of cattle drives and cowboys, buffalo and Indians stampede through their minds. And, not to be forgotten in any little one's imagination are the herds of wild horses galloping proudly across the open plains.

Millard A. Oland, now 65 years old, had a dream of wild mustangs that became a reality six years ago. In 1974, this Maryland farmer and landscaper became the first Easterner to bring the wild mustangs home.

According to Oland, his interest in the wild horses was spurred by the controversial slaughter of the equines that took place in the early 1970's.

"I got upset when I heard over the radio and read in the papers about how people were running the horses over cliffs and selling the carcasses for dog meat," Oland explained. "Although I didn't do a whole lot to stop it ... I did a little. I just didn't want to see them destroyed."

His "little" effort was adopting and caring for three mustang mares and a stallion. Oland recalled how he contacted his congressman who got him in touch with the Department of Interior's Bureau of Land Management, the Adopt-A-Horse program administrators.

Then in October of 1974, he received word that his horses could be picked up in Burns, Oregon. They had been gathered in the first wild horse roundup conducted in the Kiger Gorge area in southwestern Oregon.

His son and business partner, Dorcy, flew out for the horses and trucked them back to the 135 acre Damascus farm.

Oland remembered the horses as being "skin and bones" when they arrived at the farm. Other than that, they looked like any other horse — but wild.

In order to put some flesh on their ribs, Oland said he tried to feed them grain during that first Winter. "They wouldn't touch the stuff — they didn't know what grain was. They also wouldn't eat hay at first."

Now the horses have learned to munch hay when forage is scarce or covered with snow. They feed side-by-side with Oland's commercial cattle herd with whom they share the pasture. The easy-keepers have grown "fat as butterballs" just on pasture, Oland pointed out.

What does Oland do with his wild horses? "Nothing ... I never did nothing with them. They're still wild."

Since they arrived on the Oland farm in 1974, the horses have been allowed to roam and retain their wild spirit. Even the foals are allowed to remain "free" until they are given away to good homes.

Of the four original mustangs that were trucked East, only one remains on the farm, explained Oland. Just this past summer, one of the mares was killed by lightning and the original stallion was given to another farm near Frostburg, Maryland.

To replace the transferred stallion, Oland said he arranged to get another mustang stud through BLM. About two years ago, the white stallion that now runs with his mares arrived.

Oland said his interest in horses began when he worked with the draft teams on his family's farm near Brookville. "I had a show team of Percherons then," he recalled. "I always liked horses — I still do."

But now, said Oland, he has to be happy just looking at them. A smile crossed his face as he mentioned the two-week-old foal he checks on every day.

"It's a sorrel colt out of the original bay mare. The first time I saw it I thought it was dead — it was laying stretched out in the sun."

Curiously scenting the air, the new born foal stays next to Mom and stretches his growing muscles. Safe on the Oland farm, the colt no longer needs to depend on his speedy, spindly legs for survival as did his dam who was born in the wild.

Oland, who is now retired from the landscaping business, spends time showing friends and visitors his adopted "Eastern" mustangs. "I expect I'd do it all over again, but I won't be adopting any more — getting too old," he chuckled.

Just this past Summer, Oland became the official owner of his adopted mustangs. He received the Certificates of Title for the wild horses from BLM's Roger Hildebeidel, Eastern States Director.

Recent legislation permitted BLM to give title for up to four aminals a year to adopters who provided at least 1 year of humane treatment and care. Previously, the animals were wards of the Federal Government for their lifetime.

The BLM administers the Adopt-A-Horse program as a partial solution to the problem of overpopulation among wild horse and burro herds on public rangelands. The herd sizes have been on the increase since the horses were protected by the 1971 Wild Free-Roaming Horse and Burro Act.

Since the program was initiated, the BLM has placed about 20,000 horses and burros in new homes in 47 states.

Oland was the first person east of the Mississippi River to accept and care for mustangs under the adoption program. And now most fittingly, he is the first Easterner to "own" the wild horses that gallop proudly across his rolling pasturefields in Maryland.

Do the horses dream of their old rangeland a continent away from their present home? Perhaps — but nightmares of survival are probably easily forgotten as the mustangs graze under the watchful eye of their benefactor, Millard Oland.

For information on the adoption program, write: Adopt-A-Horse, Department 634-H, Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

At 65, Millard Oland of Damascus, Maryland, enjoys watching his wild mustangs. He adopted four of the horses in 1974 through the Bureau of Land Managements Adopt-A-Horse program, and just recently received their official Certificates of Title—he was the first Eastener to accept and "own" the wild horses.

The wild mustangs have produced offspring since their arrival in 1974. This mother and daughter were both born on the Oland farm but are still "wild", according to Oland.

INTRODUCING

RUMA PASS

The complete dairy feed that cuts protein costs while maintaining your milk production.

If you think high milk production requires high protein, think again.

New Master Mix Ruma Pass for corn and sorghum silage feeding programs lets you feed less protein without a loss in milk production. So you save on protein while your cows continue producing at their present level.

Ruma Pass contains by-pass proteins which are not easily digested in the rumen, but are readily digested in the small intestine. The net result is more usable protein with less waste.

And you pocket the savings.

AAM farmers continue fight for 100% parity

LANCASTER — The issues vital to American Agriculture Movement's campaign this season include 100 percent parity for farmer. Farmers are currently receiving 63 percent parity, the lowest percentage in 48 years.

"The term 'parity' refers to the relationship between the price the farmer gets for what he sells, in relation to the price he pays for what he buys," explains L.A. Davidson, President of AAM.

"Right now farmers are receiving 37 percent less for their products than it costs to produce them. Agriculture is the only industry in the country that operates on this economic format."

Willis adds, "The country's largest producers aren't being paid for what they produce. Today the farmer is feeding his fellow Americans and half the world for less than it costs him to produce the food."

The United States last year provided the world, outside of the U.S., with 70 percent of all their imported course grains and 40 percent of all wheat world wide.

In 1977, the U.S. farmer fed twice as many people as the average farmer world wide and fed the U.S. for a smaller share of their spendable income than the farmer of any other country. Farmers in other countries receive 10 times as much for wheat, and 4.5 times as much for corn than the American farmer.

Why then, do food prices continue to escalate?

Jack Cothran, Alabama AAM'ers, explains, "87 percent of the increase in food prices occur after the product left the farm. Most inflation occurs at the manufacturer, wholesaler and retailer, not on the producer's farm. For instance, the U.S. consumer pays more for a bread wrapper than the farmer got for the grain in the loaf."

Inflation seems to be pricing the farmer out of business. He is mortgaging his home and refinancing his crop loans too in order to keep farming.

Fuel prices increased 83 percent from 1979 to 1980. Fertilizer has increased 35 percent, parts for machinery 100-300 percent. But the farmer receives less for his product today than he did 30 years ago.

"The government's intervention in determining food prices has made it impossible for the farmer to sell goods on the free enterprise system", says Cothran.

Although 100 percent parity may result in a slight food increase, a 10 percent gain in income for the farmer only produces a 3.6 percent rise in food spending for the consumer.

Today the average American spends 15 percent of his disposable income on food. Canada spends 21 percent, France 23.6 percent, Britian 31.6 percent and Portugal 46.5 percent.

The AAM is here to receive legislative recognition for the American Farmer", Willis stated. "You can always cut back on fuel consumption, but the human body needs fuel we cannot live without."

Applications due for N.J. farmer deer permit

TRENTON, N.J. — The Special Farmer Deer Permit applications are due in the Trenton office of the Division of Fish, Game and Wildlife during the period of September 8 to 22, inclusive, according to the Hunterdon County Extension Service.

Forms and details are available at all New Jersey extension offices.

There is no fee for a Special Farmer Permit. Permits will be issued on an individual basis to qualified occupants of a farm, defined as an area of at least five acres and producing a gross income in excess of $500.

Permit will be void if more than one application is submitted, whether for a Special Farm Permit or for a licensed quota Special Deer Permit.

New tool being developed to identify diseases

NEWARK, Del. — Bacterial diseases on soybeans, peppers, peaches and other crops can severely reduce yields. It's not unusual, for example, for entire fields of cabbage to be wiped out by black rot.

Yields on Delaware's profitable pepper crop were cut by 90 percent during the 1979 growing season because of another disease, bacterial leaf spot.

Two plant scientists at the University of Delaware's Experiment Station have been working on a highly selective method for screening seeds and other plant parts, as well as water and soil, for the presence of different disease-causing bacteria.

Their idea is to develop a series of media on which samples can be cultured in the laboratory--each medium specific to one particular bacterium and to nothing else.

Most of the selective media presently used for bacterial screening just aren't choosy enough, explains plant pathologist Myron Sasser. On some, about any bacteria will grow.

So identification calls for value judgements on the part of the individuals doing the screening. The results sometimes aren't very accurate.

"Our goal here at

Identifying diseases

Delaware is to develop purely selective media–a different one for each bacterium," he says. "That way, if you're testing for block rot in a batch of cabbage seeds, for instance, if anything at all grows in the medium we've developed for black rot, that's it."

Initially Sasser and co-researcher, horticulturist Donald Fieldhouse, set out to develop selective media for a group of about 100 bacteria responsible for plant diseases.

The first step involved testing hundreds of carbon and nitrogen compounds, antibiotics, fungicides and inhibitors in various combinations, to learn how these effect different bacteria. Then they went to the computer and asked it to develop recipes for possible selective media, based on this information.

The recipes they got back were ranked by the computer in order of porbably effectiveness.

The scientists tested each recipe and every time they came up with a formulation that looked promising, they sent it on to a specialist in that particular bacterial disease at a research station in another state for further testing.

Once 1980 summer trials are over, Sasser expects to receive feedback from researchers all over the country who are cooperating on this stage of the project.

Recipes for 10 or 12 selective media will soon be ready for release. These will make it possible to quickly and accurately identify about half the major bacterial organisms which affect economic crops in the U.S.

Though still in the experimental stage, a number of the media Sasser and Fieldhouse have developed are already in use around the country because they're so much more accurate than existing screening methods.

In the course of their work they have developed one medium for a bacterium that doesn't even exist in the U.S.–and hopefully never will. This causes a South American citrus disease which could devastate the American citrus industry, should it every become established here.

The medium is now being used at ports of entry around the country. It is also being field tested in Argentina under the direction of a specialist located at the U.S. Department of Agriculture's fruit pathology lab in Beltsville, Md.

Another medium developed at the Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station identifies a very destructive bacterium that attacks a popular houseplant, diffenbachia (dumb cane).

This medium is being used by Florida nurserymen to monitor soil, cuttings and water in order to prevent costly field losses they can experience in producing this ornamental crop.

The medium developed for selection of bacterial leaf spot on peaches was sent to Rutgers where a plant pathologist is using it to find out how the bacterium causing the disease overwinters. In time this work may lead to more effective controls for this disease.

Here in Delaware, Fieldhouse is using two experimental media to study the spread of disease on cabbage and peppers. Again, by learning how the infection spreads, more effective controls may result.

Bacterial diseases of crops weren't too important until growers lost mercury as a seed treatment about ten years ago, says Sasser. Now, instead of a tenth of an ounce per acre of mercury applied on seeds, producers of crops like peppers and tomatoes must apply anywhere from 10 to 20 pounds of copper per acre over the growing season through repeated applications of an antibacterial spray.

Millions of pounds of copper are used this way in the U.S. alone each year. Besides the cost and dubious protection afforded by the sprays, Sasser and Fieldhouse are concerned about what this does to the environment.

"We've really just traded one heavy metal for another," says Sasser. "And there's always the chance that these can accumulate to toxic levels in the soil. In time, this could render farmland incapable of producing plants any more."

Instead of using potentially polluting copper, the scientists are shooting for what they consider a much more effective approach-detection of bacterial disease in seeds and seed treatment.

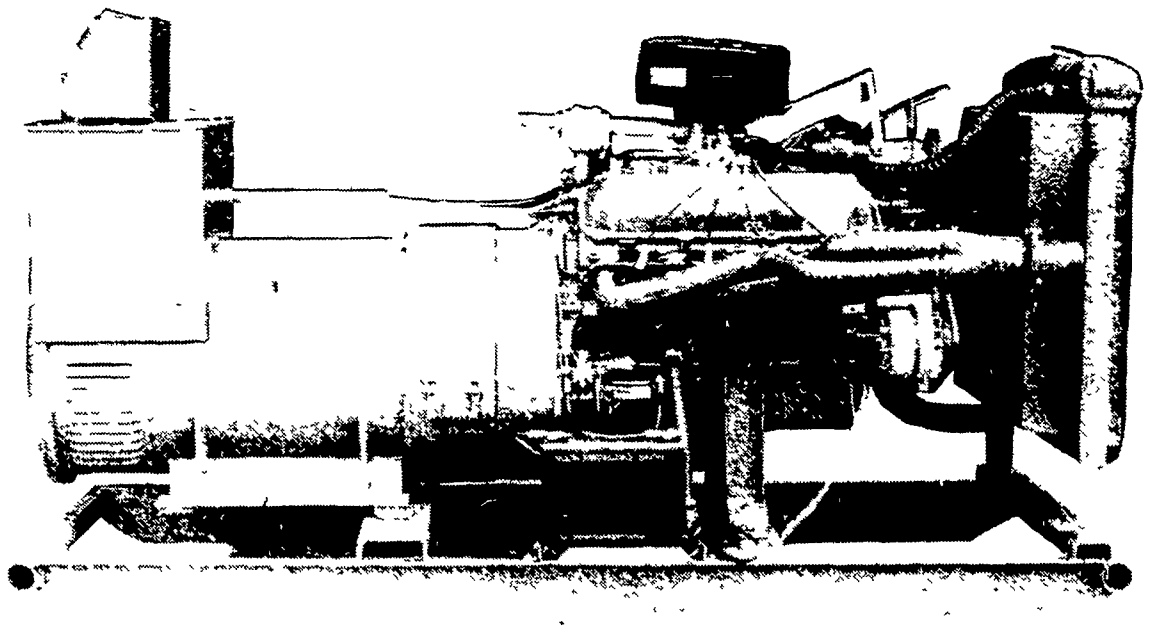
BEST CONCEPT IN AUTOMATIC GENERATORS

MAXI POWER

MAXI-POWER HAS GENERATORS THAT ARE WOUND SINGLE PHASE FOR HARD STARTING MOTORS

IDEAL FOR: CHICKEN, HOG or VEAL OPERATIONS



WHAT ARE THE ADVANTAGES?

★ Put all your winding to work for you
★ 50% more single phase motor starting ability
★ Built in voltage - frequency built up characteristics
★ Generator is always balanced
★ Inherent voltage regulation
★ Voltage regulator is maintenance free compared to solid state regulators
★ Will start 1 hp per kw class F motors
★ Frequency is always balanced versus 3 phase units used on single phase, with no problem on solid state dimmers, etc.

FREY FREE STALL
LIFETIME FREE STALL HOUSING

Cut bedding costs 75 per cent, reduce labor for barn cleaning and cow washing; reduce teat and udder injury to the minimum — house your milking herd in free stall housing. Each cow provided a stall for loafing. She won't be stepped on, the rear curb forces manure out into alley for mechanical cleaning or washing. A few minutes twice a day cleans the stalls and curbs, bedding lasts almost forever if your stalls fit the cows. Popular sizes are 6'6", 7' and 7'6". Size 'em by breed.

Our free stall partition may be mounted on wooden head boards or we make a steel divider. Set the legs in 8 to 10' concrete curbs to hold and retain bedding. Stall floor can be soil, sand or gravel Bedding — straw, sawdust, peanut hulls, ground corn cobs, etc Should be installed with paved alley surface 8 feet wide for mechanical cleaning or washing.

N.Y. dairy, beef cattle said tuberculosis free

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland presented a certificate officially designating New York as "Accredited free of Tuberculosis in Cattle" in special ceremonies in Syracuse last Wednesday.

The certificate honoring New York dairy and beef cattle producers for this achievement was presented to J. Roger Barber, Commissioner of the N.Y. Department of Agriculture and Markets, following a dinner sponsored by the Syracuse Chamber of Commerce at the Hotel Syracuse.

"The eradiction of tuberculosis in cattle has been a cooperative effort of state and federal animal health officials — made possible through the dedicated work of the dairy and beef producers of New York," Bergland reports

According to Dr. Harold E. Nadler, Director of the Division of Animal Industry in New York, over 17 million cattle have been tuberculin tested in the state since 1919. This testing disclosed over 900,000 reactor animals. No infected animals have been found in New York herds since 1971, however.

To be accredited free of bovine tuberculosis a state must fulfill standards of the cooperative state-federal eradiction program including:

No infected cattle found in the state for at least five years;

State enforced laws and regulations governing livestock dealers;

Continued surveillance of all cattle in market channels by animal health officials; and Record keeping that enables state officials to trace infected animals found in market channels back to their herd of origin

Other states designated by USDA as accredited free of bovine tuberculosis are Colorado, Connecticut, Maine, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, North Carolina, North Dakota, Rhode Island, Utah, Vermont and Wyoming

Four herds in the continental United States have been found infected with bovine tuberculosis during this fiscal year — compared with 17 herds in fiscal 1979. Veterinary officials with USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service urge dairy and beef cattle producers to buy replacement cattle from herds free of the disease that permits us to monitor seed quality much more accurately than present methods do," explains the plant pathologist.

"There are easily 70,000 seeds in a pound. Right now one contaminated seed in 10,000 is the maximum allowable rate if a grower or seed company sends seeds to Georgia to start transplants for peppers to be grown in Delaware. But the current assay procedure is so inefficient it could be missing 98 percent of the bacteria present in a seed lot. By contrast, the selective media we've developed for a screening bacterial disease should be totally effective."

So far the research team has developed selective media which identify bacterial diseases in cucumbers and melons; cabbage, radishes, broccoli and other crucifers; tomatoes and peppers; snap beans, soybeans, corn, wheat, peaches and citrus crops, as well as some ornamentals.

Delaware is the only research station in the U.S. doing such comprehensive work with selective media for the screening of bacterial disease. The work is being funded by a grant from the U.S. Department of Agriculture and is part of a cooperative regional project on the "Detection and Elimination of Bacterial Contaminants of Seeds and Plant Parts" which involves almost every major plant pathologist in the U.S.

"This kind of research costs a lot of money," says Sasser. "It will take at least three years to produce conclusive results. Though not splashy, these will have a tremendous impact on agricultural production."

FORAGE HANDLING EQUIPMENT BY BADGER NORTHLAND!

Forage is a major feedstuff in your livestock operation. That's why it's so important to handle it properly saving every bit of its nutrient value to produce milk and meat

Badger Northland builds its line of forage handling equipment to help you attain that goal Each piece of Badger equipment is designed to perform efficiently and with minimum maintenance.

It's also backed by the best dealer parts and service network in the industry If you're considering purchasing a new forage box, blower or mower/conditioner, see your Badger Dealer and Badger Boxes keep on working long after others have worn out.

When it comes to forage boxes, nothing can beat a Badger Box. Badger builds its own boxes right in Kaukauna, Wisconsin where they maintain rigid quality control

A Badger Box is built with channel side stakes for extra strength and specially treated, exterior grade plywood to resist acids corrosion, and rot The bolted undercarriage and chain drive are designed to take the toughest punishment

And Badger Boxes hold their value At trade-in time many Badger owners are surprised to see their box worth as much as when they bought it new

They haven't built a silo that the Badger Northland Blower can't fill.

No matter how high or how big the Badger Blower can fill em all

It s simply the least costly to operate smoothest running toughest blower you can buy

The Badger Blower can operate at 540 650 r p m s It will take anything you give it forage or grain (with little or no cracking) It ll blow the highest tonnage with the lowest h p And the special Badger magnet catches foreign material before it catches you

Get together with your Badger Dealer today and get ready to fill your big silo

Talk to the man who knows

Take it all off with a Badger Northland Mower/Conditioner!

Even in the toughest of conditions the Badger Mower/Conditioner will perform its "clean cutting" dut es like no other, without over conditioning

The Badger Mower/Conditioner will run longer with fewer 'u' joints and its adjustable transmission gives great maneuverability Row width can also be adjusted See what it s like to own a mower/conditioner that will spend more time in the field than it does in the shop

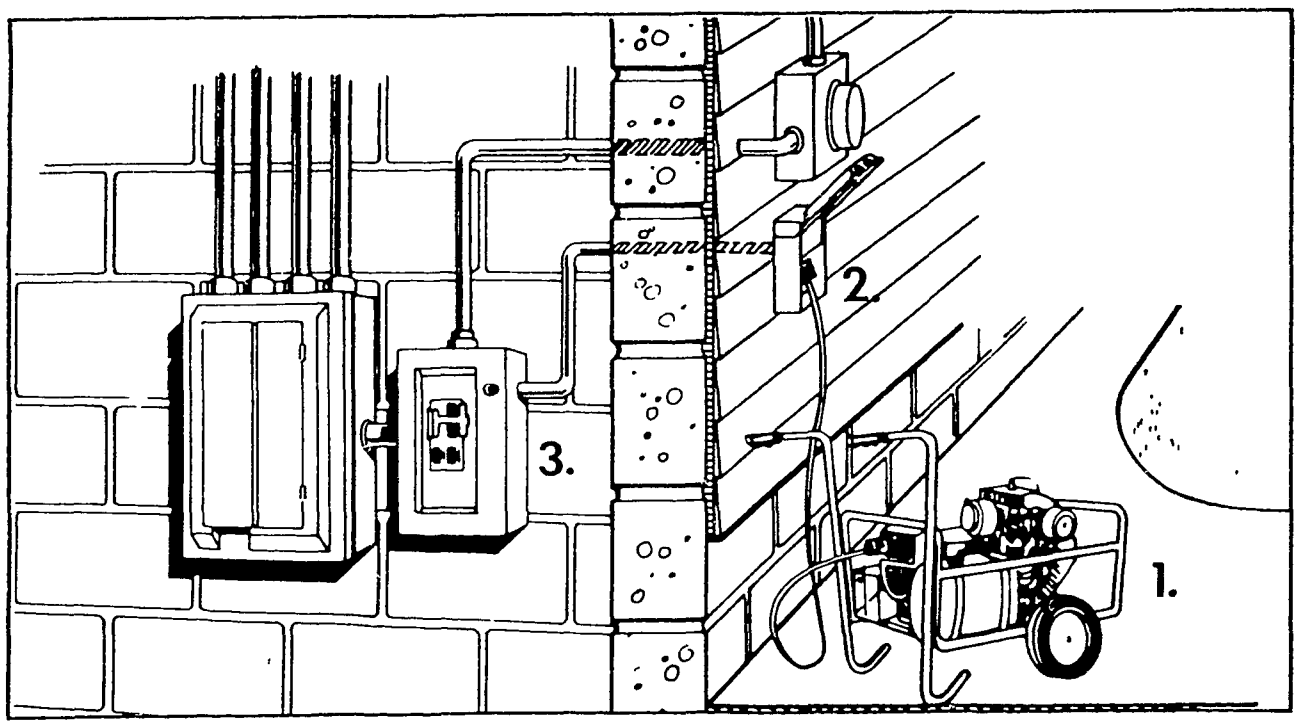
How to protect your home during a power blackout

A Kohler Powerhouse Generator with optional Emergency Power Kit (connection box and transfer switch) puts electricity directly into the circuitry of your home. Now you can power essentials like the furnace, refrigerator, freezer, sump pump, and water pump with power to spare for appliances and lights.



1. Powerhouse Generator.
Choose 3500 watt or 5000 watt Kohler Powerhouse generator with manual or electric start to power your home Produces 120/240 volt electricity. Powered by long-life Kohler cast-iron engine.

2. Connection Box.
The Kohler weatherproof outdoor connection box accepts the power cord from the generator. Installed on the exterior of your home, it permits generator power to flow to the Transfer Switch.

3. Transfer Switch.
Kohler's safety interlock switch transfers the circuitry of your home from "normal" line power to the emergency power source — your generator. The switch permits line power and emergency power to enter the circuitry, but not both at the same time.

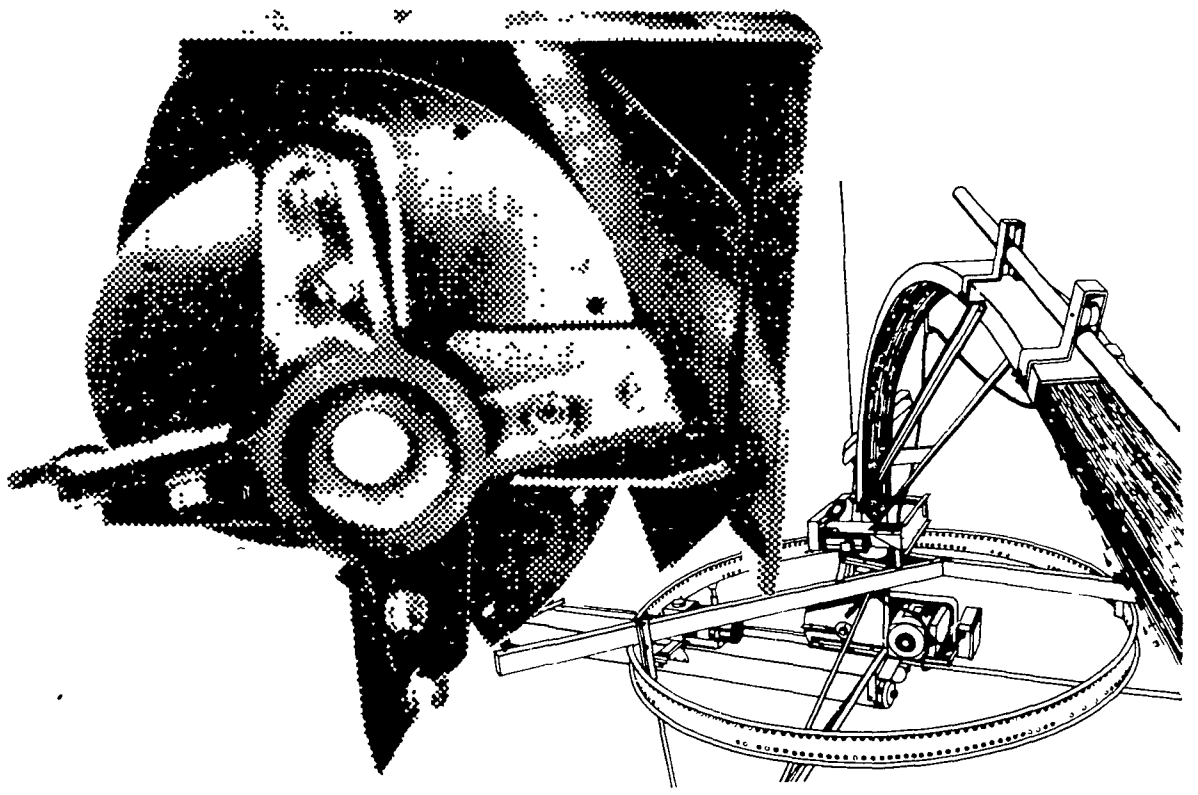
Volumatic® III
silage distributor-unloader
by JAMESWAY®



Cold weather performer

Another reason why all ring-drive silo unloaders are not alike: New four-blade chipper wheel easily removes hard-packed or frozen silage from the silo wall. Blades can be reversed to double their cutting life. Wheel cast of rugged ductile iron to take the daily shock of cutting through stubborn silage.

See us for systems and service that help make the good life better.

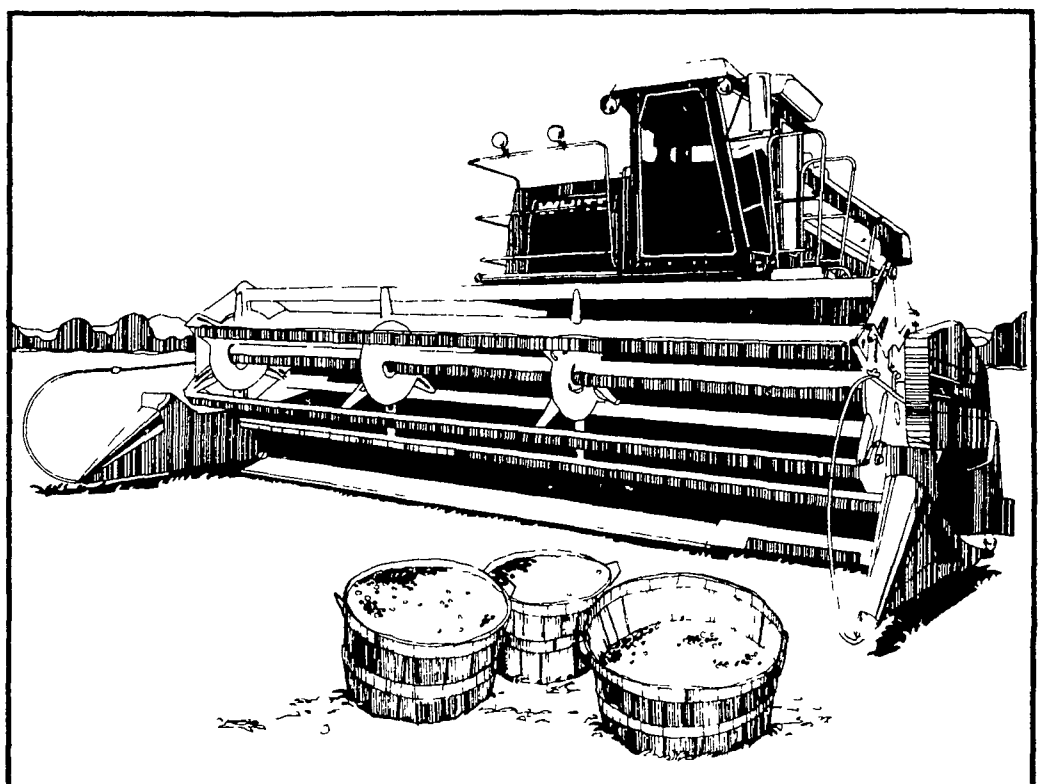
White® 8700 & 8900 Harvest Boss® Combines

...the corn & soybean savers

Cut losses where they start. Let the Kwik-Cut Cutterbar save you up to 2½ more bushels per acre.



We've got your answer to increasing your soybean yields...up to 2½ more bushels per acre...the White® Kwik-Cut Cutterbar.

Kwik-Cut gives you four times the number of cuts per stroke as a conventional cutterbar. This reduces the distance the stem is "pushed" before being cut by 50%. So whiplash, shatter and stubble losses are all considerably less.

Now match the crop saving ability of Kwik-Cut to the performance of a White Harvest Boss® Combine. We suggest the conventional 170 bu. capacity of the 8900 or the 150 bu. 8700. Together, Kwik-Cut and a Harvest Boss Combine are a sure way to fight the rising costs of farming. See us soon.

Both the 145 hp 8900 and the 118 hp 8700 Harvest Bosses feature hydrostatic transmissions, 14-channel monitoring systems, in-cab, on-the-go adjustments for reel height, concave, cylinder speed and more.

INTEREST WAIVER ON NEW TRACTORS & COMBINES TILL MARCH 1, 1981

On Purchases Made Before September 30, 1980

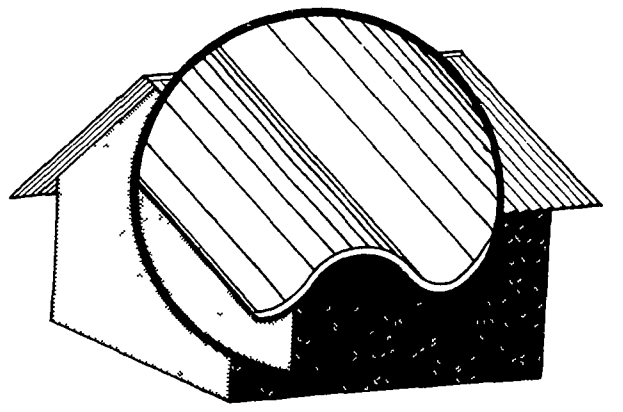
Grandpa Snavely Says...

ARE YOU THINKING ABOUT ROOFING?



Get New DURASHIELD Corrugated Roofing and

SAVE $$$ FOUR WAYS

Whether re-roofing or re-siding an old structure, or building a brand new one, extremely strong and lightweight Durashield is ideal for barns, confinement buildings, storage sheds, garages, marinas, commercial structures and similar applications.

SAVE 1 Generally, the initial purchase of Durashield figures out to be lower priced than other types of corrugated roofing.

SAVE 2 Because new Durashield comes in 8, 10, 12, 14 and 16 foot lengths it goes on faster. It installs directly on purlins, no decking necessary. So you have big savings on installation costs.

SAVE 3 New Durashield is an acrylic coated, asphalt impregnated, cellulose fiber material that can't rust or corrode. It insulates and helps control condensation. It's immune to animal wastes, fertilizers and many chemicals. Whatever you're storing under Durashield, it's better protected so saves you money with less loss and/or less maintenance.

SAVE 4 Accelerated testing proves new Durashield lasts long under all types of weather conditions. No need for early repairs or replacements, so you save in the long run.

New Durashield is sold and distributed throughout Eastern Pennsylvania by J.C. Snavely & Sons, Inc. of Lancaster, Pa. If you're interested in roofing your building, or as a dealer interested in stocking Durashield, contact us immediately.

MADE TO LAST WITH FIBERGLASS — from FIBERDOME

Fiberglass is practically dent-proof Stands up to long periods of hard use • Contents stay fresh because fiberglass absorbs little or no heat • Because there is very little condensation on the inside, moisture cannot alter the contents of material being stored • Fiberglass is rust resistant Acids and salts can t hurt it

Economical to Use • Simple to Install • Easy to Operate • Eliminates Dirty Chutes • Directs Flow of Feed • Saves Wear on Silo Chutes • Adapts to Any Make Silo

The only all-fiberglass feed cart • Buff exterior, white gell-coat interior • 14 bushel capacity (4 93 Hectoliter) • Immune to silage acids does not rust • Easy to load, unload and sanitize • Tricycle gear with one swiveling caster • Length 68½", Width 31½ , Hopper depth 23½ , Tire Diameter 8 •

Insulation value provides warmth in winter while remaining cool in summer • Hutches may be nested for compact storage • Hutches are easily moved by use of firmly imbedded I-bolts • Studies show respiratory problems, disease and calf mortality are reduced when hutches are properly used

Adams, York counties eligible for emergency loans

GETTYSBURG — On August 25th, Farmers Home Administration's State Director, J Fred King, declared Adams and York Counties eligible for Emergency Loans because of the severe drought of this summer

To be eligible for an emergency loan assistance the following conditions must be met:

1. The production loss an applicant sustained must be equivalent to at least a twenty per cent (20%) loss of normal per acre production

2 Applicant must be unable to obtain credit from commercial sources to finance actual needs

3 A citizen of the United States.

4. Be an established farmer doing business as either an owner-operator or tenant operator.

5. Applicant must show intent to continue farming.

Emergency loans will be made at the following interest rates: (1) Actual loss loans will be made at five per cent (5%).

(2) Major adjustment real estate loans will be twelve and one-half per cent (12½%) interest and major adjustment chattel loans will be thirteen and one-half per cent (13½%)

Some of the purposes emergency loan funds can be used for are as follows: payment of current or delinquent bills, purchase feed, pay seed and fertilizer bills and refinancing of debts if justified.

All applications will be considered without regard to age, race, color, creed, sex, marital status or national origin

Applications may now be received up to the close of business on May 27, 1981. For information or making application telephone the FmHA Office at 717/334-9231 for both Adams & York Counties. The mailing address is Post Office Box 308, Gettysburg, PA 17325.

Vicki Rice puts heart into hogs

Vicki Rice, of R7 Lebanon, changed careers from dental assistant to farmer. She keeps up-to-date on the hog industry through reading and through the efforts of the Purina representatives.

"I love the baby pigs," comments Vicki. The Rices also have 5 Appaloosa horses, 20 head of cattle, 6 dogs, and numerous cats.

BY SHEILA MILLER

LEBANON — "What's a nice girl like you doing in a place like this?" is a question that is tempting to ask Vicki Rice of R7 Lebanon.

Vicki, like many women today, has taken an active role in farming — with hogs being her realm in the agri-business world.

Stepping inside her office located in the Rice's new farrowing barn constructed in the Spring of 1979, you can't help but wonder why this 5'7½" tall young woman, who looks more like a fashion model than a farmer, has so much interest in the swine industry.

Vicki strolls past a poster of her favorite televison puppet star, Miss Piggy, and dips her boots into a pan of disinfectant before she opens the door to the unit.

Muttering how she needs to invest in a pair of boots without holes, she proceeds into her pork production house. She tells how she and her husband Kenneth got started in the hog business just three years ago and have progressed to the point where they were recognized nationally by the Ralston Purina Company in their newsletter to producers last month.

Actually, the Rices stumbled into the swine industry almost accidentally. Although the two of them grew up in Lancaster County, neither one of them grew up on a farm.

After they were married, Ken began his carreer with the Lebanon Bell Telephone Company, while Vicki spent 13 years working as a dental assistant for Dr. Roy K. Yeager in Lititz.

In 1973, the couple purchased 15 acres of land in South Lebanon Township, most of which was wooded. The following year found them building their home and putting up a barn for their Appaloosa horses.

"Ken always wanted a farm," says Vicki, "And I always refused to be a farmer's wife.

"But, soon after we moved in, Ken decided to raise a calf, so we bought one and raised it. Now we have about 20 head of Polled Herefords and Angus.

"Then one day a pig walked into our lives — he just wandered in from the woods."

This exploring porker was none other than 'Arnold', 45 pounds of curiosity. He managed to snort his way into the Rice's hearts and stayed there until he weighed about 300 pounds.

"He was just like a dog," explains Vicki, confessing Arnold was more of a pet than a pig. Everything was going fine for Arnold until one day he mistakenly tangled with another Rice pet, the Dalmatian dog, Butch.

Recalling her first marketing lesson, Vicki admits there were a few tears shed for Arnold who "was sold and became pork chops — but not for us."

After Arnold and their first taste of the swine industry, the Rices developed an appetitite to pursue a career in farming.

"We studied different types of operations that would work on a small acreage and that could eventually be financially supporting for both of us to stay home," Vicki explain. She adds that since she was the one who was selected to stay home in the first round, she opted for pigs over chickens.

Now, Vicki is in charge of their farrowing operation set up with 130 Landrace x Yorkshire sows farrowing continuously.

Her complete operation is under one roof. The gestation and breeding portion is one big area of the building, with the farrowing area and nursery located in separate wings.

The entire house is equipped with gravity flow manure gutters that carry all the manure to a holding pond outside. These gutters are flushed once a week, says Vicki as she domonstrates how easy it is to just open the plug and let it flow. A neighboring farmer uses the manure and takes care of pumping out the holding pond, she says.

Vicki tells how the sows in the gestation area are all on individually controlled rations with individual waterers. They doze lazily on their sides, oblivious to the visitors.

Walking back the aisle to the breeding area Vicki explains how her breeding program calls for Duroc x Hampshire crossbred boars to service her sows, resulting in the optimum four-way cross

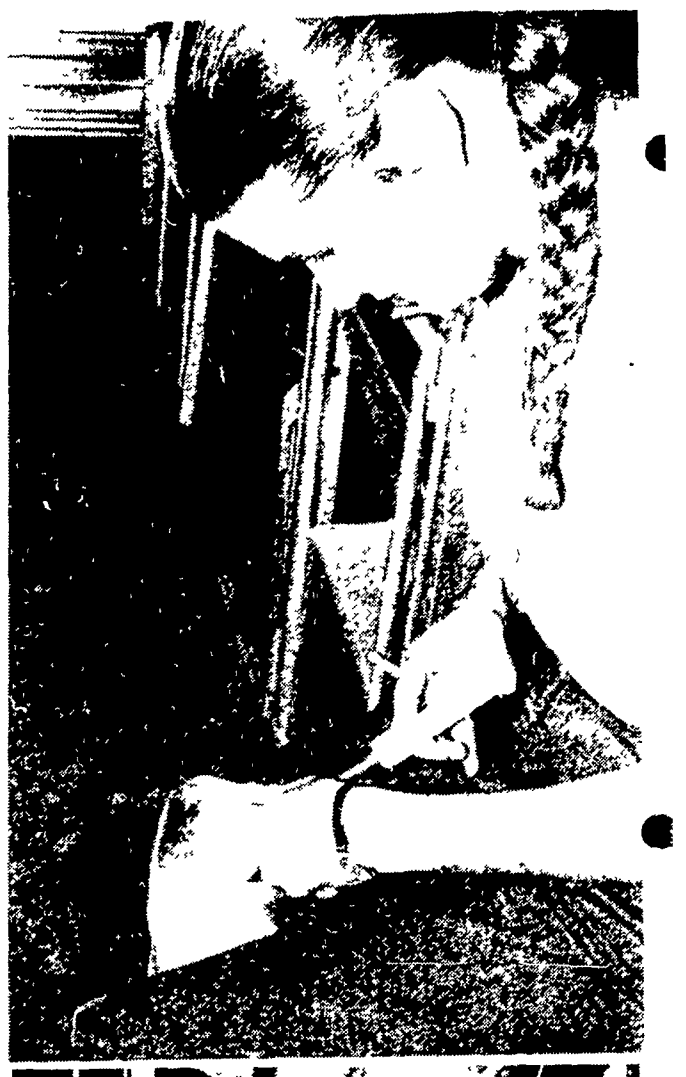
"I hand breed the sows twice to different boars," says Vicki. She points out that the boar is selected that best fits the size of the sow. The most recent addition to their boar inventory is an 8-month-old named Honeybunch — he'll be servicing her younger sows.

When asked if she has any trouble catching the sows that are in heat, Vicki leans on the railings of the breeding pens and studies the boars who are roaming behind the crated sows.

"After the pigs are weaned off the sows, I stress them to bring them into heat faster," says Vicki. "I put one boar in with three sows and I leave them together for three days.

"During those three days, they're fed only twice — on two mornings They have to fight for feed, so all that pushing and shoving stresses them an brings them in heat on the fourth or fifth day

(Turn to Page D21)



Not for those with weak stomachs — Vicki handles the injections and tail dockings, along with the castrating chores.

Handling the boars is no problem, says Vicki. Most of them like to have their backs scratched, like her newest born "Honeybunch".

Vicki Rice

With the boars loose in the crate behind them, the sows usually back up to them."

As far as any difficulties in handling the 400 pound boars is concerned, the 130 pound farmer says "No problems." She adds they could care less that she's in the pen with them during the breeding.

After the breeding and gestation comes the long awaited day of farrowing. Within twelve hours from the time they are born the pigs have their first encounter with the former dental assistant — their needle teeth are cut.

When they are three to four days old, their tails are cut off as close to the body as possible so no stub is left to bite. They receive their first iron shot and wind up with orange bellies after having their umbilical cords sprayed with medication.

Who does all of this work? — Vicki, who says she loves baby pigs, especially the runts who have to be bottle fed.

For the unlucky lot who don't get Vicki's individual attention and tender loving care with a baby bottle, they have to be satisfied with mamma pig and a creep feed ration that is made more inviting with an iron additive that "smells heavenly — like coconut pudding." This helps get the pigs interested in the feed along with helping them get over upset stomachs, according to Vicki.

By the time the pigs are between two and three weeks old, the baby boars are in for another of life's lessons. Vicki handles the castration of the pigs on her own, too.

"When I was first taught how to castrate by the Purina representative Jim Owens, he had me hold the pigs between my legs. But it was too hard — my hands weren't big enough to hold the pig and do the castrating too. So, I got help — a mechanical holder that holds the pig upside down."

At about this same time, the pigs are weaned, wormed and embark on a short ride back to a nursery of double deck cages.

Vicki points out she tries to put each litter together in a cage because "it's enough of a change leaving their mother without getting stuck in a pen with strangers."

She adds, however, she never puts more than ten pigs in a crate. If the litter is larger than ten, there is some inevitable shuffling of pig litters. Likewise, all of the runts are picked out and grouped together.

When the pigs are eight weeks old and have grown to 45 pounds on a controlled diet, they are ready to market, selling to two local buyers.

"When the time comes to move them to the truck, I load them into grocery carts and push them out," says Vicki. She explains that this assembly line technique saves a lot of chasing and stress. "The pigs go to cages after farrowing — they've never been on concrete. It's just so much easier on us and the pigs to push them out in the cart."

The Rices market all their pigs and buy any replacement gilts they need. Their first purchase of gilts last May started their farrowing operation off last November, and since then they have gotten 10 replacement gilts this past May with an additional 10 coming in September.

The gilts weigh between 190 to 200 pounds when they arrive. After 60 days, during which time they get to the right size for breeding, are tested for pseudorabies, and are acclamated to the barn, the gilts are ready for servicing.

With one complete farrowing under their belt, the Rices have finished with an enviable record. Their average litter size is 9.95 with a weaning average of 9.38.

Says Vicki, "The only pigs we lose are lose that accidently get laid on, and this happens all too often when the weather gets hot. The baby pigs try to crawl up alongside their mothers where the floor is generally moist and cool, and they get crushed."

Like other hog producers, the Rices have had some troubles. Their first year in the business found 13 cases of Smedi in the the barn, and they have a hard time keeping up with the record books too. But says Vicki, "It's a challenge and an opportunity."

She smiles as the interview comes to a close and says, "I always said I refused to be a farmer's wife — I'm not — I'm a farmer."

Heavy rainfall threatens crops in several countries

LANCASTER — Rainfall in Canada, the USSR, China and South America posed threats to crop conditions last week, according to a weekly report issued Monday by the Joint Agricultural Weather Facility of the U.S. Departments of Commerce and Agriculture. In Australia and parts of the United States, however, rain was beneficial to crop development.

Highlights of the report follow.

UNITED STATES. A series of beneficial, intermittent showers spread east last week along the frontal system from the central and northern Great Plains to the central East Coast regions. Rainfall exceeding five inches caused damaging flooding in West Virginia.

Crop development in the Mississippi Delta and Gulf Coastal States continued to be hurt by lack of rain and temperatures ranging four to seven degrees above normal.

In the Pacific Northwest, generally cool dry weather with temperatures two to five degrees below seasonal averages aided late summer harvest activity.

CANADA. Cool, wet weather delayed ripening of spring grains and hampered harvesting activities in the southeastern Pacific. The heavy rain, however, helped replenish soil moisture reserves in that region.

In southern Saskatchewan, favorable weather aided ripening and harvesting of grain crops.

USSR. Heavy rainfall in the northwest has slowed harvesting which will delay planting of next year's winter grain crop.

Widespread areas in the south and east portions of the New Lands experienced improved harvest weather as a mild "sukhovei" — a hot, dry wind—briefly touched the southern fringes of the crop area.

CHINA. Continued wet weather in the Yangtze Valley may have caused substantial losses to the nearly mature cotton and rice crops. Most locations received three to four times the normal rainfall, resulting in widespread flooding.

EUROPE. Much of the west had favorable harvest weather and the above normal rains in the east fell on areas which had been relatively dry in the previous week, lessening the detrimental effect on the harvest.

AUSTRALIA. Substantial rain was especially beneficial to the crop in New South Wales where dry conditions have prevailed recently. Rainfall also benefitted the crop in Victoria.

SOUTH AMERICA. Heavy rain in Santa Catarina State, Brazil, possibly caused some fields to become waterlogged, posing potential damage to the winter grain crop.

Meat products beat nitrosamine charges

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Hot dogs, corned beef, ham and most other nitrite-cured meat products do not form nitrosamines when cooked, according to studies released by Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Carol Tucker Foreman.

Nitrosamines, which have been shown to cause cancer in laboratory animals, can form when the heat of cooking makes the nitrite in cured products combine with naturally occurring amines in meat. Nitrite is used in curing to prevent the formation of botulism toxin, which causes a deadly food poisoning.

Most cured products tested did not contain confirmable nitrosamines, Foreman said, when fried, broiled, boiled, baked or microwaved. Nevertheless, USDA said it will continue to gather information on those products, she said, and if unexpected problems are found, appropriate action will be taken.

The nitrosamine studies were done in reponse to an October 1977 USDA request for information on whether nitrite cures cause nitrosamines to form during processing or cooking. Six categories of cured products were tested. Some products were cooked before testing but those usually eaten without further preparation - such as bologna - were not cooked.

However, surveys on immersion cured bacon indicate that a nitrosamine problem may exist, Foreman said. Additional samples of this product - made by soaking pork bellies in cures until the solution is absorbed - are being studied. Further action will depend on the results, she said.

In a related action, USDA's Food Safety and Quality Service today issued a proposal to extend its nitrosamine monitoring program to include dry cured bacon - made by applying dry salt and nitrite to pork bellies. The program now monitors only the most common type of bacon - made by injecting liquid cures into the bellies.

"Information collected by the agency shows a significant proportion of dry cured bacon appears to be adulterated with confirmable levels of nitrosamines," Foreman said.

"The Federal Meat Inspection Act requires that USDA prevent the marketing of adulterated meat. Therefore, we are issuing this proposal even though the product accounts for less than one percent of the bacon marketed."

"The monitoring program for pumped bacon, underway since December 1978, is designed to assure consumers that the product does not contain confirmable nitrosamines, Foreman said. "Extending the program would offer those who eat dry cured bacon the same assurance."

The proposal on dry cured bacon would also require such bacon be sufficiently dry and salted to prevent growth of bacteria that cause food poisoning, especially botulism.

This requirement is needed because manufacturers may decrease the amount of nitrite and thereby lose anti-botulism protection in their effort to avoid nitrosamine formation, according to Foreman.

"To help industry meet the proposed requirements for dry cured bacon," said Foreman, "USDA would provide technical consultation to firms requesting it, as was done when we began checking pumped bacon.

"The actions we are taking today are related only to nitrosamines and not to the safety of nitrite," Foreman said. "That issue is being evaluated separately."

The proposal and the nitrosamine findings were both published in the June 27 Federal Register, available at local libraries. Comments are encouraged on the proposal to expand the nitrosamine monitoring program.

Comments should be submitted by August 26, 1980, to the Executive Secretariat, FSQS, USDA, room 2641-S, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Officials tracking cows suspected of brucellosis

HARRISBURG — Officials of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Animal Industry are currently tracing and testing over 400 head of cattle which have been potentially exposed to brucellosis, according to State Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hallowell

Brucellosis is a bacteriological infection which may cause abortion, stillbirth, infertility and a decrease of milk yields in cattle. Swine, although less frequently infected, can pose a public health hazard when affected by the disease.

Hallowell said 18 herds of cattle are now under quarantine in five counties of the commonwealth. Ten newly infected herds have been discovered in Lancaster, Lebanon, Berks, Chester and Union Counties, all with cattle purchased through the same sources.

Hallowell said four dealers are being investigated and that the Department is considering prosecution for violations of the Dealer Licensing Law.

According to Max A. Van Buskirk, Jr., VMD, Director of the Bureau of Animal Industry, state and federal personnel are also conducting surveillance testing on herds which neighbor the infected herds as a precautionary measure.

Van Buskirk noted the origin of the new Pennsylvania outbreak is unknown. The infected animals were purchased through dealer channels. At least two other infected herds were the result of illegal importation of brucellosis reactor animals into Pennsylvania by dealers.

Because brucellosis has a variable incubation period, a single test may not detect the disease. Retesting at three to four weeks intervals is necessary to detect new reactors and insure herd health

Pennsylvania was recognized as certified-free of brucellosis in 1972, but recently, many herds have not been vaccinated to prevent the disease and are suceptible to infection.

In several cases in eastern Pennsylvania, the herds have not shown a positive blood test until many months after the disease entered the herds This poses further problems in herd health and hinders the efforts to trace back the disease. The Bureau of Animal Industry has increased its milk ring surveillance testing to six times a year in an effort to make a timely diagnosis.

Van Buskirk noted the state-federal indemnity program provides payment for up to 90 percent of the appraised value of condemned reactor animals (including salvage value). The state indemnity, however, can never be more than $1,000 per animal, which means endemnities will not equal the replacement costs of the animals infected.

Hallowell said the Department would continue to devote its full efforts to tracing and eradicating this outbreak, and cautioned livestock producers to purchase only cattle with health charts from herds known to be free of brucellosis.

More muscle for a strong favorite.

ALLIS-CHALMERS 7045. One of the biggest favorites in the Rising Power Family. Now this proven reliability has a new 146-horses-worth* of muscle. Turbo-charged work power that runs cool with oil-cooled pistons, alternated intake and exhaust valves, big flow cooling systems, all which add life to the engine. And more. The quiet comfort of Acousta Cab II. Standard 20-speed Power Director XX Transmission with 14-speed selections below 10 mph, 8 in the critical 2-5 to 6-5 mph work range. There's in dependent, dual PTO speeds. Hydraulics that use volume and pressure only when the load demands it. And adjustable front axle. Put time proven reliability together with new increased power. Put yourself in an Allis Chalmers 7045 tractor.

Power Director is an Allis Chalmers trademark
